Flower Show and Red Cross Supper Was Outstanding Event of Season

Fine Quality of Exhibits Resulted in Keen Competition in Many Classes

Stirling Community Hall was a scene of riotous colour and beauty on Thursday last on the occasion of the seventh annual Flower Show, held under the auspices of the Stirling Horticultural Society. The exhibits were numerous and the specimens of the different varieties were of an exceptionally high quality. The arrangements for handling the various exhibits were all that could be desired and the whole show was one that reflected credit upon the Society and one of which the officers and members may be justly proud. President F. Houchin and his assistants left nothing undone to make this years' event one of the best and are deeply grateful for the co-operation and assistance given them by the citizens of the village and community.

An attractive social event was the supper served by members of the Stirling Red Cross in conjunction with the flower show. All expenses of the Flower Show were borne by the Horticultural Society with the proceeds going to the Red Cross. Following the supper these funds were augmented by the sale of many fine blooms.

A meeting of the Horticultural Society was held at 8.30 p.m. at which the President expressed pleasure at the success of the show, and offered his thanks to those of both societies who had worked to make it so. Special mention was made of Mrs. E. T. Ward and Mrs. J. H. Beatty, who sent along a number of lovely blooms to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross Society and to Capt. Arthur Gould, of Guelph, who thoughtfully sent a fine exhibit of special Gladioli.

In the name of the Horticultural Society he also thanked the judges, the exhibitors, and the local press for its generous publicity.—Mrs. Gordon Bailey thanked the S.H.S. for the Red Cross Society.

Rawdon Farmer Has Turkeys Stolen

Provincial police are investigating the theft of seven turkeys from a farm in Rawdon Township. The loss was reported by the owner, Robert Matthews, on Saturday, and according to him the thieves must have known something of farming for they picked seven of his choicest birds of the English Norfolk variety. One was a special brood bird he imported from the United States last year and was valued at between $20 and $30. The others, he claimed, all weighed more than twenty pounds, making the total loss upwards of eighty dollars. Provincial Constable D. M. Carruthers is investigating.

Freight Train Was Derailed Monday

An eastbound Canadian National freight train was wrecked just after it passed Godolphin flag station, four miles west of Campbellford, early Monday morning. The derailment was said to have been caused by a washout due to Sunday's heavy rains which allowed the tracks to sag. The engine passed over safely and none of the train crew was injured, as the caboose remained on the tracks.

Thirteen cars left the rails, eight turning completely over in the ditch on either side of the tracks. Three of them were laden with wheat, one with pulpwood. Four were gasoline tank cars, which were empty. The passenger train from Belleville was cancelled and no mail arrived here Monday morning.

The accident happened about 1 a. m. and by 5 p.m. the all clear signal was given. After clearing up the wreckage, filling in and laying new rails, emergency gangs then turned their attention to salvaging the wheat which was scattered all over the roadbed.

Entered Into Rest

MRS. E. W. ORMISTON

Following a brief illness, the death of Mrs. Earl W. Ormiston took place at her home on Sunday evening, Aug-31st. Suddenly stricken while assisting at the Red Cross supper, held in conjunction with the Flower Show, on Thursday evening last, she was taken to her home and passed peacefully away on the above date.

The late Mrs. Ormiston, who was in her 54th year, was the daughter of the late James Alexander Moore and Mary Louise LaRue, of Trenton, and was born in Belleville. She was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was active in all its women's organizations. Always cheerful and of a kindly nature. She was highly esteemed and her sudden passing has brought genuine feelings of regret to a large circle of friends.

She is survived by her husband, Earl W. Ormiston, agent at the C. N. R. station, at Stirling, one son John William, and one daughter, Miss Shirley Jean, both at home and one brother, Mr. Harry S. Moore, Salamanca, New York.

Schools Reopened For Year Tuesday

Attendance Figures at Public School Eight Above Last Year.—Total is 148

Stirling schools opened on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock and from the primary room to the upper grades students trooped to class after their long holiday. The long lazy days of summer are over but so attractive is the modern school that pupils are unanimously pleased to be back in the class rooms. Registration and information as to the books needed were the main activities on the opening day and Wednesday the years' work started in earnest.

Slight increase

According to figures released by Principal C. A. Wells there is an increase of eight in the enrolment at the public school, with the total attendance being 148, of which 16 are beginners. At the High School the situation is reversed, with a sharp decrease in the attendance in Grade IX. The drop in attendance is attributed to the fact that many of the rural schools did not have an Entrance Class during the past year.

At the Public School there has been one change in the staff with Miss D. McFarlane, of Lanark, replacing Miss M. Gray, who resigned to enter war work.

Three new teachers are on the High School Staff, Miss M. Allendorf replacing Miss G. Bowers, Miss I. Chapman, replacing Miss G. Kippen and Miss M. S. McLaren replacing Miss J. Workman.

WATCH FOR CHILDREN

● Once again the motorists of Stirling and district are reminded of the need of exercising extreme care when driving on the streets of our village, particularly in the school area. With the opening of school on Friday, there are many children on the streets on their way to and from school, any one of whom might dart into the street in front of a car. Children at play are apt to become careless of the dangers of motor traffic and should be reminded frequently of the rules of safety by their parents and the school teachers.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

● Rural Mail Carriers have again taken an official stand against the contract system. In session at Welland on Monday, the Canadian Rural Mail Couriers' Association passed resolutions calling for a new deal from the Government and suggesting a $40-a-mile rate to replace the contracts. It is said the government has been sympathetic to the demands of the couriers in the past, but no action has been forthcoming. We believe that a stated salary should be fixed for each mail delivery contract and the applicants chosen for their individual qualifications rather than by tender. Until this is done we see no relief for the rural mail courier who gives years of good service only to lose his position because another applicant offers to do the job at a lower fee. The system of tender is a precarious one for the tenderer and quite frequently for the parties letting the tender. In either case the general idea is to get as much as possible and give as little as possible. Of course, there are exceptions to this rule, but many abuses could be swept away if the system of "fair wage" were applied to the rural mail delivery service.

LET'S SHOW THE WAY

● The Governments at Washington and at Ottawa suddenly realized recently that the peoples of United States and Canada would have to curtail their consumption of gasoline and oil in order to keep Great Britain adequately supplied. The loss of tankers through enemy action and the ever increasing demand for motor fuel by the Empire flying forces could only be met by diverting tankers from American and Canadian ports to ports of Great Britain.

Both Governments elected to effect the necessary reduction in Canada and United States through the voluntary effort of private motor car owners, motor-boat owners and by economies set up by business firms using large numbers of trucks and cars.

Because the majority of United States citizens are wholly in sympathy with Great Britain in the battle she is putting up against the dictators, there are thousands south of the border who are responding to the appeal made from Washington.

In Canada, the response has been generous. It is estimated that the gross consumption of gasoline and oil in this country has been reduced by about 15%. But Canadians will not likely be satisfied with this result. This country is at war, fighting for its very existence and the realization of Canada's stake in the battle for Victory should produce, and will produce, a motor fuel saving which will set a real pace for her neighbouring motorists in the Republic.

PERSONAL EFFORT

● We often hear the remark: "This or that person has a wonderful brain." It is assumed that it is comparatively easy for them to do big things in the business world, to create marvelous inventions for the benefit of mankind, to make wonderful scientific discoveries, and to produce works of art that endure through many generations.

The masses conclude that these accomplishments are easy for these people because they naturally are so gifted and talented. Knowledge and wisdom never come to any man or woman as a free gift. Sometime, somewhere, they have given personal effort, and in accordance with immutable and ever operative laws of nature they have received their reward in permanent soul acquisition, and, incidentally, temporary, material benefits for themselves.

No achievement is possible, no unfoldment of the soul is possible without labor, without effort, indeed there would be more justice and equity in economics if labor could be established as the measure of all values.

He who has acquired knowledge and wisdom, and power is under a personal obligation rightly to use and disseminate them. These acquisitions cannot be used fr the highest good, and to attain soul unfoldment.

Thus we see we cannot deplete our stock of knowledge and wisdom, for the more we give the more we receive. The man who is always striving to take advantage of his neighbor is never a benefactor to the race, however much he may advertise his charities.

—V—

THINK OF THE FARMER

● A farmer's wife of Iowa utters a complaint that might be made by the farmers' wives of Sidney, Rawdon and Huntingdon. It is printed here so that all who care may read:

"I'm just one of those country hicks who come from way out in the sticks to voice my woe and make a plea for all the other boobs like me. We work like heck six days a week, and when we're done we like to sneak to our home town to buy our eats and meet our neighbors on the streets. We can't take off no workin' day for if we do there's heck to pay. You folks in town don't do that way, you do your buying every day, and that's why I don't think it's right to "hog" the streets on farmers' night. You're got your cars parked on the street before we "hicks" set down to eat. Then we must slop the hogs and feed the sows, coax all the juice from bossy cows, pick up the eggs, coop up the hen, shave off the whiskers (if we're men), dress up in overalls and calico, since hogs have gone so low, crank up the fliver, give her juice, then start for town....but what's the use? The streets are lined far up and down with cars of folk who live in town, who seem to think it's quite a treat to see the "rubes" stagger up the street with butter jars and eggs and cream. But say, it takes a lot of steam to lug that stuff six blocks or more; you walk until your feet are sore, your shoulders ache, you're seeing red, you wish that you were home in bed. And then you spy that yellow paint, that's put just where the autos ain't. There's two cars where there should be three, they're straddled that no mark you see. It's our town too so please be fair, we want to spend our nickles there. You've watched us long enough to see, we need a parkin' place, by gee."

THE FUNCTIONS OF AN EDITOR

● The title "editor" is sometimes misunderstood by newspaper readers, not because they want to misunderstand but because they have never been told just what the functions are of the person who holds this title. An editor, to explain it briefly, is one who superintends, revises or prepares literary matter for publication. The title does not necessarily mean that the policy of the newspaper is set or controlled by the editor. On large newspapers there are many editors, and policy is usually decided upon by the managing editor. The duties of the other editors, city, sport, suburban, women's page and others, is simply to carry out the duties prescribed in their particular spheres.

For our purpose, however, we must deal with the editor in a little different light, because in fully 90% of Canada's weekly newspapers, the editor is also the publisher. In other words he fills the dual role of preparing literary matter for publication, and of deciding upon policy as well. We want to deal with the functions of an editor from this standpoint.

Essentially the editor is a human being, writing and dealing with men, women and children. He may be young or old, lazy or energetic, bold or timid, superficial or deep, querulous or constructive, slovenly or business-like, grasping or generous. He is certain to be human. He reacts to praise and criticism, to good and evil in much the same way as those who share community life with him. The editor and this is true of 99% of all weekly editors, recognizes the inherent decency of the countryside. He is still sufficiently old-fashioned to believe with his readers that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have neither been repealed, improved upon or modified by modern advances.

The editor is a student of community affairs. He has at his disposal records of public orgnizations in the community, and it is from his study of these records that he makes his editorial comment. He is not easily swayed by the hysterias which sway, and excite and mislead city people. Like the people he serves he uses good common sense in his reasoning. The editors of Canada's weekly newspapers, serving the rural areas, are a greater power than most people suspect, for it is a political fact that more members of the House of Commons and more members of Provincial Legislature are elected from the rural areas than from the cities.

It is the editor who decides what is fit and what is not fit to print. It is he who differentiates between news and propaganda. It is he who can, if he will, give the leadership that every energetic community must have. He is not hard to get along with, but he has a code of ethics which often cause him to refuse business rather than accept it against well grounded principles. He is not a super-human. He is a hard-working individual doing an important job in the community to the best of his ability, and if at times he fails in his task, it must be remembered that he is like every other human being in the community, heir to the frailities with which all mankind is endowed.

● A successful man is one who is able to make others accept him at his own valuation.

What Others Say

CAN YOU REMEMBER

Now a back number — the old fashioned girl who ran behind the door to unpin her skirt when company came.—Perth Courier.

CONGRATULATIONS

The Press extends congratulations to the Stirling News-Argus, which, with last week's issue, commenced its 63rd year of publication. The News-Argus is a welcome visitor to this office each week and we class it among our most valued exchanges.Winchester Press.

THANK YOU!

With its last issue the Stirling News-Argus commenced its sixty-third year. During the years Stirling has been favored with a splendid paper, a much better paper than the size of the town might expect. Size or population has not been the yardstick of the News-Argus editors and Stirling continues to be well served by its newsy and always interesting paper. The Canadian extends congratulations to the News-Argus on passing another milestone.—Carleton Place Canadian.

A GOOD MOTTO

Another good motto is: "Go to church on Sunday and save gasoline." The church needs your presence and support, the fighting forces need the gas that you use motoring around the country when you should be in church, and you need the Spiritual benefits that will be derived from the change.—Winchester Press.

OPEN TOO LATE

The suggestion has been made by the Orangeville Banner that earlier closing of stores on Saturday night will have to be dealt with sooner or later. The Banner states that some stores there remain oyen until 12.30 or later in the hope of attracting an occasional customer. Restaurants, confectionery and fruit stores are the worst offenders. As a consequence throngs of young people parade the streets or gather for lunch long after they should be well on their way to their homes.—Carleton Place Canadian.

WE'LL LIVE AND LEARN

A trip into the north recently showed us that two out of every three of the motorists were from the United States. Canada has enjoyed a splendid tourist trade this summer, but no thanks can be given to the elongated promotor who took five dollars a piece from two score or more Ontario publishers to make this tourist traffic increase possible. What became of the promotor and his ill gotten gains we know not, but the last we heard of the affair the Toronto Better Business Bureau was making a check-up. —Trenton Courier-Advocate.

PRIME MINISTER'S LONDON MISSION MARRED BY POLITICS

Prime Minister King's visit to Britain has not started too well. There has been sharp and well merited criticism of his selection of press representation, there were boos among the cheers when he addressed Canadian troops stationed abroad.

Right from the start of the war there has been a strong suspicion that Mr. King has been laying far too much stress on party politics; that he regarded himself too much as the head of a party government, rather than one representing all Canada. That suspicion will not be allayed by his exclusion of all Canadian newspapers but one from his official entourage on his present mission. This restriction to a newspaper which has slavishly supported the King government will be regarded in the same light as Mr. King's continued refusal to exclude any but party men in his wartime cabinet.

Unless we are very much mistaken, the average Canadian is not interested in party politics at this time. His whole attention is focused on the country's war effort. His criticism, as represented by the boos of the troops in Great Britain and the continuance of challenging editorials throughout all but a partism minority of Canadian newspapers, is not directed at the Liberal Party nor the head of that party but at the lack of Mr. King cannot comlain he is unsupported. The vast majority of efficiency in Canada's War effort. Canadians, including the troops in England, are eager to get solidly behind him or any other leader who will forget politics entirely during this critical period and devote his whole energy to putting our contribution to victory on a well planned and most efficient basis.—Financial Post.

The Burning Of The Books

By EDMOND SEAGRAVE

The air attack on London in September of last year bronght the book trade its share of trouble and inconvenience. Publishers and booksellers, like others, grew accustomed to working in draughts from shattered windows and to making their telephone calls from street call-boxes. Autumn schedules went just a little awry. A number of publication dates had to be postponed—and not for any of the familiar reasons, such as the dilatoriness of an author, or the chairman's dislike of the dust wrapper.

One large publishing house, finding itself with two of the quickest bestsellers in its long and successful history, had to excuse itself to the retail trade clamouring for the fulfilment of its piling orders. They were sorry, but a delayed action bomb had buried itself beneath their front doorstep and the dispatch department could not get to their benches until the bomb had gone off. This sort of thing was rightly regarded as one of the hazards of wartime publishing and was borne with patient good humour.

Then, on the night of December 29, there occurred the great incendiary raid on London, when the Nazi bombers struck with malice and fury at two objectives. One was the ancient beauty of the City, on that night many of Wren's churches and the lovely halls of the old guilds were laid in ruins. The other was the heart of the book trade.

In the little streets which cluster round St. Paul's—Pasternoster Row, Ave Maria Lane, Amen Corner—was situated the historic centre of the British book world. For half a dozen centuries that tiny area had been associated with books. In these streets, in the XIII Century, were the shops of the beadsmen and Pater Noster makers. It was they who sold written texts of holy writ and the little books from which children learned to read and which contained the ABC and, as a first lesson, the Pater Noster or the Ave Maria—always in Latin until the time of King Henry VIII.

The place had known fire before. Just 375 years ago, Samuel Pepys, having seen that "most horrid, bloody and malicious fire," wrote in his diary "I hear of the great loss of books in St. Paul's Churchyarde, and at their Hall also, which they value at about £150,000, some booksellers being wholly undone."

Booksellers' Market Place

In modern times Paternoster Row was no longer the geographical centre of the publishing trade, although some of the oldest and most famous houses still had their offices in the Row itself. But at Amen Corner, which is at the end of Paternoster Row, and adjoining Stationers Hall, were commonly known inside the trade as Simpkin's.

It would, I suppose, be correct to describe Simpkin's as the great wholesale book-selling organization of the British book trade. It was a market place. In theory, the job was a simple one. They bought books in large quantities from the publishers and sold them in small quantities to the booksellers, receiving a bigger discount from the former than they gave to the latter and keeping the difference for themseves.

Both parties were satisfied that that extra discount was well-earned by Simpkin's service. The publisher receiving Simpkin's order for a new book was able to unload part of his stock on to their shelves and to the extent of that order his worries were at an end. The Simpkins cheque would be along at the end of the month, and, as for the books themselves, Simpkin's could be trusted to sell them. As for the bookseller, he looked upon Simpkin's as everyman's partner, incomparable knowledgeable, prompt and efficient. For every bookseller has two continual worries —to sell the books already on his shelves, and to get hold of the out-of-stock book before the customer who has ordered it changes his mind.

The speed of the Simpkin service was one of the reasons why you never heard even the testiest bookseller say a hard word about Simpkin's. All their book-keeping and stock-keeping methods were designed to meet this need of speed. I have heard it said that those methods would have made the hair of any business efficiency expert turn white in a night. But before the efficiency expert could find words to express his horror Simpkin's would have dispatched 500 different parcels to 500 different customers, each parcel containing anything from one to a hundred different titles.

Possibly, this rough and ready account of the position which this organization occupied within the framework of the trade is enough to show that the destruction of Paternoster Row closely affected many people besides those actually hit by the Nazi bombs.

Out of the Ashes

But if the disaster to Simpkin's affected the whole trade, the restoration of Simpkin's is a wonderful monument to the spirit of cooperation which moved British publishers and booksellers, who have many fine achievements to their credit, to rise splendidly to the occasion. On that raw Monday morning after Christmas, in the acrid fumes still rising from the smouldering rubbish of Paternoster Row, publishers and booksellers might have been forgiven if they had admitted a knockout blow. The premises of 30 publishing firms and many bookshops were in ruins, an unascertainable number of millions of books (in Simpkin's stockrooms alone there were more than 4,000,000 of them) were in ashes. But no one admitted defeat. On the very morning after the fire a small group of publishers opened negotiations with the owners of Simpkin's. Before the day was out they had undertaken to purchase the good-will of Simpkin's wholesale and export business with a view to its becoming a cooperative non-profit-making organization, run for the common benefit of the whole book trade.

They had the Simpkin's goodwill and marvel of efficiency, the Simpkin staff. But what about premises? The re-housing of the new organization that was to continue the work of the old Simpkin's required a miracle. Actually the miracle had happened, very quietly two years earlier. The firm of Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons, Ltd., famous al over the word as "the "shorthand people," but known also to the British book trade as a very large book publishing concern, had built, just outside London, a huge book warehouse called The Book Centre. Physically designed on the best modern lines, it had been conceived shared by all publishers who cared to make use of it. The only criticism the Book Centre ever received was that the idea was born about a hundred years too soon.

When Paternoster Row went up in flames it was proved that the idea had been brought into the world just in time. The Bock Centre was ready. Simpkin's moved in. It was a fortnight or more before the last of the smouldering fires in Paternoster Row were finally extinguished. Before that had happened every publisher victim of the fire had installed himself in new premises. The new Simpkin's was already in operation. The British book trade was carrying on.

PREMIER KING'S WORK IN THE MOTHERLAND

Although widespread publicity has been given to the decisions which made the formation of an Imperial War Cabinet at this time out of the question and which brought good news for the farmers of Canada, yet well-informed quarters emphasize that the main features of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's work in the Motherland can be found in two official statements. One statement has had an encouraging and stimulating effect along Parliament Hill by its very words, namely, "Canada is with the Empire heart and soul for winning the war and will not spare any effort that is necessary to ensure victory." The other statement by the Prime Minister of Canada was not only necessary but desirable in the light of the experiences of the last World War, namely, "as far as I am aware, there has not been a single point of differences between the Canadian and the British Governments since the beginning of the war."

STATE CONTROL OF WAR INDUSTRIES

It is known in the capital that the authorities are taking a long-range view of Government investments in this war, and this means that already there is being considered ways and means whereby the many millions of dollars worth of war industry in Canada can be handled when the war ended, with one proposal commonly heard suggesting that there should be created a huge public-owned corporation where all these assets would be placed under one control or management in order that a proper check can be kept of these heavy outlays and of their possible conversation to peacetime uses.

WAR CHANGING TASTES OF CANADIANS

Ever since the experts of the National Revenue Department in Ottawa adjusted the scale of taxation on certain articles, it seems that the tastes of Canadians have changed. Canadians are now using more beer than hard liquors at the rate of 70,000,000 gallons a year. In fact, beer consumption will produce over a million dollars more in revenue than hard liquors or about $17,000,000. Likewise, cigarettes are being smoked more, with a billion more this year than in 1939 when war was declared, and the same story can be told about cigars which are being smoked at the rate of 140,000,000 in the current year. These facts show the trend of the times.

HISTORIC CONFERENCE ONLY PRELUDE TO REAL ACTION

An experienced and impartial observer must report now that in face of the fact that quite some time passed since the momentous meeting between President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill yet since that time this has been the main topic of interest behind the scenes along Parliament Hill where frequently conversations backstage are nothing short of accurate prognostications of future headlines which thrill the people of this country. Though other topics may get headlines displays in news despatches from the capital of Canada, yet there is not the slightest doubt that the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences are growing in important reflections in Ottawa rather than diminishing with the passage of time.

ERADICATION OF CRITICISMS OF DEFENCE REGULATIONS

It is no secret in Ottawa that there has been much criticism directed against the Government on account of the Defence of Canada Regulations, with some sections of public opinion claiming that these rules are not strict enough and with others charging that these rules give too much authority to the Government, particularly where they interfere with the liberty of the individual. However, for some time now it has been known that political antagonism as well as ignorance of the dangers or manner of operations of these rules have been responsible for these criticisms in a large measure. Now a series of nation-wide broadcasts by Ernest Bertrand, K. C., M. P., of Montreal, who is considered as definite Cabinet timber along Parliament Hill, has caused a sensation in the capital, judging by the reactions to his disclosures that the enemy had made definite plans to interfere with Canada's war effort just before the outbreak of actual hostilities.

ODD DEVELOPMENT IN CANADA'S DAIRY SITUATION

On account of the urgent necessity of taking all cheese produced in Ontario and Quebec for export to the United Kingdom, it is indicated the reserves for domestic consumption are going down and they are likely to reach a low level before the export requirements are satisfied. This infers that it is possible that higher prices will have to be paid for cheese products in the coming winter or even earlier. Last fall butter production alone fell down over 7,000,000 pounds compared with the same period of 1939 because of the diversion of milk from butter to cheesemaking in the East. In any case, the man-in-the-street throughout Canada is inclined to uncertainty about the whole dairy situation on the domestic scene, especially as regards prices during the coming winter.

Ottawa is going to take steps, we are told, to end the slowdown in Nova Scotia coal mines. Unfortunately the slow down, however, seems to have infected Ottawa as well.—Peterboro Examiner.

SPEEDING CAR KILLS TWEED MAN

John Hotts of Tweed was instantly killed on Friday evening when he was struck down by a speeding car on highway 37. The car is said to have been driven by Al. Sparks of the village of Madoc. According to Constable J. C. Hayes, of Tweed, Sparks car proceeded a hundred feet after striking Hotts and ran into a cow which had to be destroyed. Charges will be laid.

LET GEORGE DO IT

It is sometimes a little amazing to us how little voluntary sacrifice there is in this democracy of ours.

Last night on the air Eddie Rickenbacker said there wasn't enough unselfish leadership.

There isn't—nor is there enough unselfish following of the leader.

People are loud in their praise for the British effort. They say Mackenzie King or somebody else should make a bigger war effort. Then let them in on a little scheme on which they can sacrifice and help and they back water like a startled crawfish and find a dozen reasons satisfactory to themselves why they should let George do it.—Thomas Richard Henry in Toronto Telegram.

TWEED HOSPITAL CLOSED

Tweed Hospital was closed this week and Mrs. Ida Douglas, R. N., who has been in charge, has left for Toronto. She will conduct a private guest home in that city. Unfortunately, Tweed Hospital was not given the support expected and as a result, Mrs. Douglas found it necessary to close its doors. Had more interest been taken in the hospital, this would not have been necessary.—Tweed News.

PAVING TWEED STREET

It is expected that paving of Victoria Street by Consolidated Sand and Gravel Ltd., Fuller, will start next week. Surveyors were in the village this week, completing their work. Following a petition signed by the business men the full width of the thoroughfare will be paved, the village to bear the additional cost. The Government pays for the paving of the centre, twenty-four feet. Reeve Keer worked exceptionally hard on this matter and interviewed the Department of Highways on numerous occasions. It will undoubtedly be a big improvement to the business section.—Tweed News.

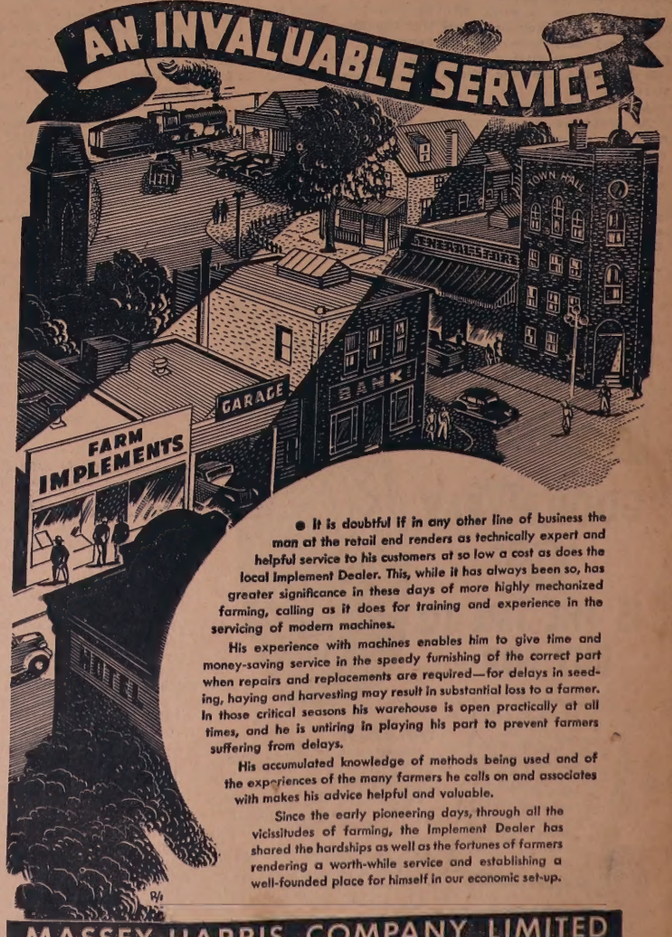
AN INVALUABLE SERVICE



● It is doubtful if in any other line of business the man at the retail end renders as technically expert and helpful service to his customers at so low a cost as does the local Implement Dealer. This, while it has always been so, has greater significance in these days of more highly mechanized farming, calling as it does for training and experience in the servicing of modern machines.

His experience with machines enables him to give time and money-saving service in the speedy furnishing of the correct part when repairs and replacements are required—for delays in seeding, haying and harvesting may result in substantial loss to a farmer. In those critical seasons his warehouse is open practically at all times, and he is untiring in playing his part to prevent farmers suffering from delays.

His accumulated knowledge of methods being used and of the experiences of the many farmers he calls on and associates with makes his advice helpful and valuable.

Since the early pioneering days, through all the vicissitudes of farming, the Implement Dealer has shared the hardships as well as the fortunes of farmers rendering a worth-while service and establishing a well-founded place for himself in our economic set-up.

- THE WEEKLY NEWS -

BY MURDIE McDONALD

Purchasers of War Saving Certificates and War Loan bonds in Ontario may rise in wrath one of these days against those who deliberately or unwittingly are trying to knock the props from under Canada's economic structure.

There has been going on this summer a curious parallel to a situation which existed in Canada during the last great war.

Sometime after Canadians had stormed the slope of Vimy Ridge, two members of the Manitoba legislature got up on the floor of that provincial house to cry out against the country's financial planning. They declared vehemently that Canada would never be able to repay the money which citizens of those years were investing in war bonds.

Now we have a premier of a Canadian province, William Aberhart, virtually telling the people of Canada that the money they are putting into War Savings Certificates and War Loan Bonds can never be repaid.

Time has proven the two Manitoba legislators to have been wrong. All the interest on war bonds issued during the last big struggle was paid regularly and the principal was paid in full as the Bonds reached maturity.

And since the resources of the Dominion of Canada constitute the best security in the world to-day, time will again porve Mr. Aberhart to be wrong.

Mr. Aberhart, of course, is on the spot. For some years he has been holding out rosy promises to his followers in Alberta if they embraced his theory of social credit. None of these promises has been kept and now the acedemic politician is apparently trying to divert attention from his failure by suggesting the establishment of a National Finance Commission which would create money or withdraw it from circulation as circumstances dictate.

Canada remains a free country. Any conscientious citizen is entitled to advance any idea which he believes may be beneficial to the country. But no citizen, not excepting Mr. Aberhart, has the moral or civil right in wartime to undermine the confidence of Canada's people in their ability to keep their military forces properly equipped and the British people well supplied, and still survice. This is especially true, if that man is harming his country's effort in order to further some new expedient to keep himself before the public eye.

Mr. Aberhart's government invested one and a half million dollars worth of Alberta's public money in the recent Victory Loan. Encouraged by this, the citizens of the province of Alberta bought 25 million dollars worth of Victory Bonds out of their private resources.

How then can Mr. Aberhart command respect for his opinions when, in order to advance some new scheme of his own, he tells people that Canada won't be able to meet its debts?

Mr. Ilsley, the Minister of Finance, is on his way to the west to encourage greater purchases of War Savings Certificates. The Minister has a reputation for plain speaking, and there is a strong likelihood that he will enhance his reputation in this respect when he hits Alberta.

Representatives of municipalities in all parts of Ontario are meeting in Toronto this week to consider provincial problems. Post War plans will be the principal theme of discussion. The delegates will address themselves to the probable future of war boom towns, as it is realized there will be many calls for readjustment when industries now devoted exclusively to the manufacture of munitions have turned to peace time work.

It is hoped by proper action to forestal anything in the nature of a depression following the period of demobilization. An endeavor will be made at the convention to arrange for a possible coorination of municipal health and welfare activities. The municipalities realize they must work in unison with Federal and Provincial authorities in past war rehabilitation.

The fact that hay fever is behind schedule should not lead victims of this distressing malady to hug the delusion that they are immune from sneezing attacks this year. Counts by the provincial Department of Health show that the air has been remarkably free from pollen so far this year but with grim cheerfulness the officials say it is only delayed and the hay fever producer will be along later. Climatic conditions and the prevalence of south west winds has had much to do with the absence of pollen. A contributing factor too has been the vigorous steps taken in the past few years in the elimination of rag weed.

Letter From Overseas

Following is a letter sent to a member of the editorial staff of the Belleville Intellingencer by Sergeant-Major J. Laney, who writes for a number of Belleville boys now serving with him somewhere in England:—

"Thanks a million for the copies of the Ontario Intellingencer that arrived in our last lot of Canadian mail. They are very acceptable and after I read them I pass them on to the other Belleville chaps, namely Chuck Wilkins, L. Sgt., Dick Laney, Bdr., J. Asselstine, Gnr., F. Law, L. Bdr., A. Benford Bdr., who are all in the artillery. We all enlisted in Cobourg. We often see chaps from Belleville who have enlisted in different units and they tell us all about what the various groups in Belleville are doing for the local boys over here and believe me, we get envious sometimes as we seem to have lost touch with the local groups and the Cobourg Clubs seem to overlook us as we are not actually from Cobourg.

"But enough for the beefing, we are still happy in the service.

"Some of the ads in the papers made our mouths water as a lot of the items we read of are unobtainable over here and some only with ration books. I wonder how many housewives in Belleville could manage on 3 pounds of meat, 6 oz. of tea, 12 oz. of sugar, the odd egg or two, etc., for a family of three a week. Onions, lemons and oranges are a novelty. Tobacco and cigarettes practically unobtainable. I suppose you already know that even clothes are rationed, a tie or a pair of socks, 1 coupon. At least we are getting quite a varied experience. Well, thanks again to all at home. For the Boys from Belleville in the R.C.A.

ST. PAUL'S W. A.

The September meeting of St. Paul's W. A., was held at the home of Mrs. George Pollard, on Tuesday afternoon, September 2nd, with forty ladies in attendance. The meeting opened under the direction of Mrs. R. B. Duffin, president with the singing of the Theme song, and prayer by the leader, followed with the Lord's prayed in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Herb David, also other communications received during the month. With the entire membership of the W. A. on the visiting committee, eleven calls were reported. Mrs. F. Jackman and Mrs. Tom McKeown were appointed for the visiting committee for the month of September. During the business portion of the meeting, plans were made for the holding of a home cooking sale on Saturday, September 20th, at Mr. R. B. Duffin's store. After a brief discussion, it was also decided the W. A. would purchase a flag for the church, and a committee of four, namely Mrs. Duffin, Mrs. Hick, Mr. Will Fox and Mr. R. A. Patterson would look after the purchase of the flag. After the singing of hymn 502, the Scripture Lesson, the twenty-third Psalm was read in unison, followed with prayer by Mrs. H. David. Miss Dorothy West favoured the ladies with two splendid vocal solos, with guitar accompaniments. Mrs. J. A. Lott, past district president of the W. A. was the guest speaker for the afternoon and gave a very inspiring address, taken from the manual and choosing for her text, verses six and seven from the forty first chapter of Isaiah. She enlarged on rules and regulations set forth in the Manual as an inspiration to us, in giving greater service, and stated all people are given a choice in the service of God, and like Joshua they must make their choice as given by him, when he said "Choose ye, this day, whom ye shall serve." The beautiful poem—"Weavers" written by Alice Mayne Bodger was quoted and climaxed this address. The trend all through Mrs. Lott's talk was to live up to our W. A. Constitution, and that we might study to show ourselves approved unto God, a workman that need not be ashamed. Thanks to the speaker on behalf of the ladies were suitably expressed by Mrs. F. N. McKee, for the timely address. Mrs. McKee also presented the visitor with a beautiful bouquet in honor of the day, which was her wedding anniversary, to which, Mrs. Lott gave gracious words of appreciation.

Joan Burris, of Madoc delighted the ladies with a patriotic song, also Eleanor Wright, of West Huntingdon, gave a splendid recitation entitled, "A Flower for Sale." This part of the meeting, closed with the singing of Hymn 500, National Anthem, and the Mizpah Benediction. During the social period, a very dainty luncheon was served. The thanks of the W.A. to the hostess, and all those taking part was ably voiced by Mrs. H. C. Martin.

MOTOR CAR CRASHES INTO HYDRO POLE

When he is alleged to have fallen asleep at the wheel of his motor car, an automobile driven by Ross Fleming of Marmora, crashed into a hydre pole one mile north of Glen Miller on Highway No. 33 shortly after one o'clock Saturday morning.

The front of the vehicle was completely wrecked, but the driver and occupants of the motor car escaped with but minor injuries. The force of the impact broke an adjacent auxiliary post and loosened the supporting guy wire.

Hens should not be allowed out in murry yards owing to the danger of excessive soiling of eggs in the nests. Where pullets are housed at ground level, it may be wise to let them run in the yard after a few days' confinement, particularly if they have been penned early in the season.

Red Cross Responds When Aid Is Urgently Needed During German Blitz In England

By Garry Allighan

The unexpected discovery, a night or two after, of a delayed action bomb from the last London blitz, hidden under a heap of house ruins in an east end street, made local authorities hurriedly turn all residents in an entire block out of their homes and brought the Canadian Red Cross into emergency action.

Poor families who thought they had escaped Nazi bombing found themselves living on a volcano. Children were awakened from sleep and carried out into the night by anxious parents, wrapped in bed-clothes, to a rest centre hastily thrown into activity. No time was allowed to gather clothing or food as the bomb might explode at any minute.

Red Cross Ready

Local welfare officers immediately sent an SOS for help, to which the Canadian Red Cross gave unhesitating response.

"Send night clothes, outdoor clothes food for people of all ages at once." was the message received.

I rushed to the heart of Cockneyland with Major Scott, commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, and a group of women voluntary workers. I saw the main switch thrown into the beneficient machinery made possible by Canadian generosity. That one night alone was sufficient to justify all the labor of love by the dominion's women and children.

Two large trucks filled with food and clothing thundered through the streets to the People's Palace, famed working class east end theatre. Artists' dressing rooms were handed over to the Red Cross for dispensing Canada's gifts to bomb victims.

Throughout the night the workers never stopped, providing all the essentials. Some made enough coffee to fill two bath tubs; others filled hot water bottles for camp beds, quickly erected for very old folks. Still others provided women with nightdresses or looked after children distributing the contents of packages included romper suits bearing the label, "From Park Street United church, Chatham, Ont." Others made up parcels of underclothes, frocks, pants, jackets, overcoats and shoes for morning so that every homeless person could face the next day.

Sleep and Food

With complete kit at par everyone was put to bed for a few hours' sleep. Then, called at seven in the morning, they sat down at improvised tables to a steaming hot breakfast. As this district is a stronghold of the Jewish element a canteen was provided with Kosher food, double sets plates and other requirements of strict Jews. A pitiful object was Ruth Harris, aged three, both of whose parents had been killed in the blitz. The child was given a home by relatives in the street now threatened. Ruth spent most of the night crying bitterly, "Mammy, I want my mammy," until a Red Cross worker managed to soothe her with toys, arrived from Canada last week.

I spoke to John Jacob, chief London County council welfare officer, responsible for the supervision of all facilities in bombed-out areas. He said, "What you see tonight is just a fleabite compared to the last blitz when many more east-enders were fed, bedded, clothed, through Canadian Red Cross gifts totalling nearly 16,000 different articles. Cockneys are grand folks and deserve looking after. They will never forget what Canadians have done for them in this time of great need.

"I have reported to the British government that thousands of Londoners would not have been able to survive the effects of a blitz without Canada's warm-hearted kindness and practical sympathy."

There were many interesting sights that morning when east-enders awoke to find parcels at the foot of the bed, as if Santa Claus had called during the night. One old Jewish man, straggly beard, age-bleared eyes, and trembling hands, helped by the Red Cross worker into a windbreaker from Oakville, said, "I look like Joseph in his coat of many colors." Proudly he tottered around the rest centre showing friends how he looked.

Fancied Knickers

He took a great fancy to a pair of smart fawn men's knickers, but when he was allowed to try them on shrieks of laughter from everybody at his grotesque appearance caused him to toddle off behind the screen and take them off.

Women from the poorest homes were seen tenderly stroking beautiful handknit woollen undies as if they were something unreal. Mrs. Rose Davies, wife of a costermonger, said: "They're too nice to put on. Please of delight came from mothers when they saw their children in cots covered with Afghans made by the students at Norway school, Toronto, and a school in Kitchener, as such articles were unknown here. The gay colors contrasted vividly with the drab surroundings of their own homes.

Although that night's effort was small compared to the blitz proper, it was an ample revelation of the extent to which Canadian Red Cross activities rise to face any emergency. From the wide grassy boulevards of Toronto to this squalid district made more hideous by Nazi bombs, the spirit of good Samaritanism soothed soreness, imparted courage and gave rebirth to hope.

There from Garry Allighan in London is the factual picture of your one dollar converted into two dollars by the Canadian Red Cross. Send your contributions to this brave work by cheque, cash or money order, marking it "for the Red Cross British Bomb Victims' Fund," either to your local Red Cross branch or to the headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross society, 95 Wellesley St., Toronto.

IVANHOE W.M.S.

The August meeting of the Ivanhoe W.M.S. was held on Tuesday, Aug. 19, at the home of Mrs. Sam Twiddy. The meeting opened with hymn 390 after which Mrs. Lovibond led in prayer. Twelve members answered the roll call with the key word "give" and with the paying of a cent an inch for their waist measurement proceeds of which went to the Evening Telegram British War Victims' Fund. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. George Wood. The Watch Tower was taken by Misses Cora Prest, Margery Prest and Mrs. MacMillen.

The Mission Band Leader, Mrs. George Wood, read a story on the missionary work in Trinidad and displayed an afghan the members of the mission band made. The remainder of the meeting was prepared by Mrs. S. Kilpatrick, group leader No. 4, who chose as her theme "Our Canadian Homes." Everyone joined in singing "Home Sweet Home" and Mrs. F. Palmer gave a commentary on the piece. Mrs. Twiddy read the "Requirements for a Canadian Home." Doris Twiddy sang 'I Am a Canadian.'

Readings were given by Mrs. A. Wood, Miss Phyllis Twiddy, Mrs. A. Hagerman and Mrs. Lovibond on constructive creative work in Christian Canadian homes. "O Canada" and a hymn were sung followed by the Mizpath Benediction. The hostess and assistants served a ten cent tea at the close of the meeting. Proceeds of the day amounted to collection 63c, tea 85c.

ABOLITION OF CHIEF CORONERS IN 38 COUNTIES FORECAST

Attorney-General G. D. Conant Monday forecast abolition in Ontario. He said the present system has led to abuses and when the change is effected the County Crown Attorney, in conjunction with the police, would designate the coroner to be engaged."

Mr. Conant said the major abuse has been that the Chief County Coroner has taken the majority of the work, while another is that fewer inquests are being held due to a ruling that where criminal charges are laid an inquest is not compulsory.

He added that the Crown Attorney determines whether an inquest is to be held, having in mind criminal charges. Necessity for collaboration and direction of the coroner's is not required as formerly.

$400 IN TOBACCO STOLEN AT MADOC

Unidentified robbers breaking into the warehouse and shop of Mr. Frank Curry, wholesale tobbaconist of Madoc, some time over the week-end, looted the store and successfully made off with tobacco, cigarettes and cigarette papers, etc., to the value of approximately $400.

The loss was discovered by Mr. Curry when he opened the shop for business on Monday morning, the thieves apparently having attempted to break in the back door of the premises but unsuccessful in their attempts finally gained entrance to the building through the front door, the lock of which was found broken.

BUSINESS PAYS THE SHOT

We note that civil servants receiving salaries of $2,500 or less are to be given $10 monthly cost of living bonus. Business heads in general would like to do the same for their employees, but due to increased costs, which they have to absorb, cannot do so. They have to help to raise this $10 bonus being given so freely to the civil servants. The government makes or receives its revenue easier than Business, perhaps that is why the department heads seem to spend it like drunken sailors.

More Prophecy

A recent issue of the American Weekly carries a remarkable story concerning a prediction made by Boriska Silbiger, a prophetess of Hungary, who has foretold Hitler's early death. As a result of her prediction the prophetess has been sent to one of the most rigorous concentration camps where she can prophesy no more. Here is Miss Silbiger's prediction:

"The war will end in 1942 with Hitler's death and the collapse of Nazism. But the belligerent powers will be so exhausted that there will be no victor and no defeated in the common sense of the word. Whoever survives it will live to see a new and better world."

Continuing, the prophetess says:

"In 1942 America will enter the war. The Axis will ask for an armistice early in 1942."

At the end of 1935 she predicted the death of King George of England and the abdication of his successor, King Edward VIII, in the following words:

"In January of the following year the King of a mighty empire will suddenly die. He will be succeeded by his eldest son, but the reign of his successor will not exceed twelve months, after which he will renounce the throne."

The foregoing prophecy came to pass with startling accuracy. The Hungarian prophetess foretold the outbreak of the Spanish civil war, the date of the occupation of Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

In November, 1938, her forecast was issued for the year 1939 and here are some extracts from that document. It was printed in December, 1938, in about thirty newspapers all over the world:

"War looms ahead," said Miss Silbiger, "and is bound to break out in 1939. In March, 1939, the European crisis wil reach its turning point. But there will be no war before the month of September. Preceding the war, a great accident will befall one country in the Western Hemisphere, and will wreak such disaster that the country will be the object of universal compasion. Before the new great war starts, the Spanish Civil War will be over."

The seer accurately predicted the exact date of the outbreak of the war, long before Mr. Chamberlain went to Munich. Her reference to the Western Hemisphere was taken to mean the earthquake in Chili.

"By the end of the year 1940," Miss Silbiger said, "everybody in Europe will be in the war. Italy will unexpectedly enter upon a bold and daring enterprise, much to her injury. Great Britain will suffer. But this country will show a powerful united front towards the world. However, she will go into lengthy disputes and conflicts with another friendly country allied with her."

Here Miss Silbiger is supposed to have foretold the debacle of Italy in the Balkans and the trouble in France she continued: 'Great Britain will lose an important ally, and colonial questions will be disputed with her."

"America will not enter the war in 1940 and through there will be important changes in the political life there will be no change in her entire policy. A great gesture will be made by this country at the end of the year 1940 but I cannot see whether it is of moral or financial nature."

"Japan," continues this forecast, "will begin to move at the end of the year. She will try to start trouble in the Eastern Hemisphere, but will be checked by a Western power. With the Chinese-Japanese war still on she will be too feeble to try any big adventure."

The above is taken to be a prediction of Japan's move toward the Dutch colonies and the check she received from the United States. In the light of present developments in the Far East Miss Silbiger's prophecy is most suggestive.

It is interesting to note, comments the columnist of the Sackville Tribune, that Boriska has been a prophetess ever since childhood. She is pretty, fascinating and has had many visits from persons—some of high position—anxious to know the interpretation of their fate.

Her prediction that Hitler would not see 1943 made the German dictator very angry. It is no secret that he thinks a great deal of seers and dealers in the occult and consults them often. Naturally he always wants them to prophesy well for him.

In the light of her previous successes as a prophetess, the prediction of Boriska Silbinger that the war would end in 1942 cannot be passed over lightly. Of course it is quite possible that she will prove incorrect about the end of Hitler and of the war, but in the light of the titantic battles now being fought between Russia and Germany, of the failure of Hitler to invade England, of the gradual decrease in the number of ships lost in the battle of the Atlantic, of the tremendous assistance which is being given Great Britain and her allies by the United States, it seems almost inconceivable that the war will continue longer than another year. When we realize the tremendous destruction of property—not to mention life—that is going on, we realize that there must be an end before long. Madame Silbiger may be right when she says that "the belligerent powers will be so exhausted that there will be no victor and no defeated in the common sense of the word."

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

BRITAIN WANTS EGGS

Will Develop Pullets Will Help Answer the Call

The late summer and fall months are critical periods in the development of pullets. On their management during that time depends, to a large extent, their ability as egg producers for the remainder of the laying season. Neglect of any important detail in their care may well be the cause of loss of a month or more of vital production. Careful, efft-cient management during late summer and all will develop the pullets into strong, vigorous, healthy hens, capable of the sustained production which will give the millions of dozens of surplus eggs required by Great Britain and also by Canada.

The following suggestions will aid in efficient production:

Overcrowding is Dangerous

Guard against overcrowding in range shelters or colony houses. A whole season's work may be lost as a result of a few nights of overcrowding. Do not have more than 60 birds in a 6' x 8' range shelter or more than 100 birds in an 8' x 12' colony house.

Provide Nests in Time

Place a few nests near the range shelters or in the colony houses before the pullets start to lay. They should be at least 14 inches from the ground and, if outside, should have a weather-proof covering to keep them dry and clean.

Lack of Water is Serious

Provide an abundant supply of fresh drinking water at all times. Lack of water is as serious in its effects on growth and production as lack of feed. Feed the pullets well, so that they will have good body weight as they develop. Then, when they go into winter quarters they will be ready to go to work. Increase the protein in the mash for late-hatched pullets to speed up maturity.

Supply Green Feeds

Succulence is needed in the ration for healthy development. If grasses or clovers on the range have dried up, supply cabbage, rape, kale, sprouted oats or any other form of green material. Where no succulent feed is available, adding one-quarter cup of feeding molasses to each gallon of drinking water will be beneficial.

One Change at a Time

Avoid changing the ration fed to pullets for two weeks before moving them to winter quarters and for the same period after. The change from free range to close confinement is sufficient at one time. Where it is possible, let them run in a dry yard ater a few days' confinement. It may help to prevent feather pulling and cannibalism.

Have the Laying Pens Ready Early

Thoroughly clean with hot water and lye, disinfect and whitewash the laying houses and allow them to dry well before the pullets are to be moved in. This is also a good time to make repairs to the buildings.

Green Feed Prevents Trouble

Prepare ahead for abundant supply of green feed for the pullets in winter quarters. Cabbage, kale, lettuce, Swiss chard, fresh grass, clover, rape or sprouted oats should be supplied for at least three weeks after the pullets are confined. Green feed help to keep the pullets in good physical condition and may assist in preventing prolapses, feather pulling and other troubles.

When to House Pullets

Don't move early hatched pullets into laying quarters too early. Ten per cent production on the range is not objectionable. When early pullets are housed in August and September there is a danger of overheating in extremely warm weather. Pullets still on range after October 1, or even earlier, should be housed at once, if there is any sign of bad weather setting in. Many good, late-hatched pullets are ruined by leaving them in overcrowded range houses in bad fall weather.

SUGGEST MILLFEEDS WITH COARSE GRAINS

The majority of Ontario farmers are undoubtedly short of coarse grains this year owing to dry weather and this supply should be spread to the limit by feeding a mixture of millfeeds and grain.

Ontario Department of Agriculture officials in discussing the present feed situation strongly advise feeding a millfeed—grain mixture now, rather than an allgrain feed now, and an all millfeed ration later on when the grain supply is exhausted.

Another reason for the purchase of millfeed immediately, is that supplies are readily available. Mills are running to capacity and if Ontario farmers delay purchasing, these feeds may be exported to the United States where there is said to be a ready and continued demand.

Farmers who are without adequate supplies of coarse grain to carry them over until another harvest, would be well advised, officials state, to purcrase or order millfeeds now from their dealer.

Price, of course, is always an important factor in the purchase of any feed, but if millfeed prices are more or less in line with those of coarse grains ,the following information from the Animal Husbbandry Division, Ont. Agricultural College, Guelph, will be interesting to farmers.

With Canada agreeing to provide Britain 600,000,000 pounds of bacon under a new contract at a higher price, O.A.C. officials state grain rations for nursing sows may contain up to 25 per cent middlings or shorts; weanling pigs, up to 50 per cent middlings or shorts and growing hogs, up to 20 per cent middlings or shorts. If straight barley is being used, the mixture may contain up to 25 per cent shorts or middlings

Twenty per cent o a meal mixture for dairy cows in milk may be either bran or shorts, while previous to and immediately after caving, 100 pounds of bran is recommended in a mixture containing 200 pounds of oats and 50 to 100 pounds linseed oilmeal. Young calves and nursing cows may be fed grain mixtures containing up to 25 per cent bran.

Rations for nursing ewes and fattening lambs may contain up to 10 per cent bran.

Brood mares and weanling foals may be fed up to 25 per cent bran and horses 15 per cent bran with rolled oats.

WORK FIELDS NOW TO CONTROL WEEDS

After harvest cultivation is one of the cheapest, most practical and effective methods of eradicating weeds, says John D. MacLeod, Crops and Weeds Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto. Weeds are at their weakest stage right now, and this is the time to put the finishing touch on them.

Weeds have to be fought according to the nature of their growth. To control "annuals," shallow plowing, discing or cultivation is recommended. By following this plan, seeds are not buried too deeply and are brought to the surface where air, heat and moisture hasten germination. Cultivation will then get rid of millions of seedling plants. The use of the one way disc or tiller combine is specially recommended for control of annual weeds by Mr. MacLeod.

Deep plowing with a sharp share is needed for control of biennial or perennial weeds with deep tap roots, such as Chicory, Bladder Campion, and Wild Carrot. This must be followed by thorough cultivation using wide shares which overlap in order to cut off and bring to the surface any roots which may remain. The disc harrow is not so effective with these weeds.

Fields containing weeds with underground root stocks such as Perrennia Sow Thistle, Field Bindweed and Twitch Grass, should be plowed deep enough to get under the roots. This will require very deep plowing or Sow Thistle and Bindweed and shallower plowing for Twitch. The field should be left in the rough state as long as dry weather prevails, to dry out the root stocks. No green growth should be permitted when fighting perennials, so keep the cultivator busy.

Remember, patches of perrennials should be worked separately to avoid infesting clean parts of the field. All root stocks should be removed from implements after the job has been completed.

THE UNPROFITABLE BOARDER IN THE POULTRY FLOCK

Every poultryman has to face the problem of keeping the flock on a profitable basis at this season of the year. Many birds may cease to lay while others continue in production under the same feeding conditions.

In order to keep the non-layers down to the lowest number it is advisable to cull thoroughly and remove all the birds that are unprofitable boarders, says W. T. Scott, Head Poultryman, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ontario.

Summer culling is easy, as most birds capable of laying a profitable number of eggs throughout the year are still in production at this season. Those that are not laying are doubtful performers and should be handled and examined. Only by so doing can a definite opinion be formed of body condition, and unless the birds carry a fair amount of flesh they will not continue to lay throughout the year. Thin breasted birds, and those in poor feather, should me removed from the flock.

Eggs are going to be in greater demand and every effort should be made to keep the flock in profitable production. The mash hoppers should be kept filled with a good,balanced ration in which the meat and fish meal should form fifteen to twenty per cent of the whole contents. Scratch grains should not be fed too heavily, or the consumption of mash will be less than is necessary to keep up production.

In Hymen's Bonds

McFARLAND—WOOD

A quiet wedding took place at the Rawdon Parsonage, Stirling, on the evening o Sept. 3, at 7.45 o'clock, when Myrtle Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wood, of Stirling, became the bride of Gnr. J. G. McFarland, of Frankford. The bride was attended by Miss Edna Wood, sister of the bride and the groom was attended by Mr. Murray Chard, of Frankford.

Rev. Jas. E. Beckel officiated.

McMASTER - SHARPE

Mount Pleasant United Church was the scene of a charming autumn wedding on Wednesday, September 3rd, at 2. p.m., when Anna Isabel, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharpe, Mount Pleasant, became the bride of Earl William McMaster, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George McMaster, Ivanhoe, with the pastor, Rev. J. E. Beckel officiating.

The church altar was banked with evergreens, foliages and baskets of gladioli. The windows were decorated with pink crepe tissue in the popular "V" design with vases of Autumn flowers.

At the front of the church were twin arches fashioned of evergreen and pink roses. As the bride came down the aisle she passed under the arch designated with "Sharpe" and after the ceremony the happy couple walked under the arch of "McMaster".

The winsome bride wearing a street length frock of Beige Moire creps with copper rust accessories and a corsage of briar cliff rose buds, entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

Miss Marion McMullen, Oak Hills, was bridesmaid, gowned in airforce blue crepe, trimmed with white lace navy accessories, and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Burton Sharpe, cousin of the bride was groomsman.

Miss Ruth Linn, as flower girl, was pretty in a yellow taffetta frock, and she carried a basket of sweet peas and baby's breath.

Mrs. Carleton Potts, gowned in grey figured spun rayon, with black accessories, was pianist for the occasion. She played a piano prelude while the guests were being seated and used Lohengrin's "Here comes the bride" for the processional and Mendelssohn's "Bridal Chorus" for the recession.

Mr. John Coggins, Burnbrae, was soloist and before the ceremony he rendered "I Love You Truly" and during the signing of the register, "Because."

The ushers were the groom's brothers-in-law, Mr. Harry McMullen, Halloway and Mr. Harold Rowe, Sidney.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party gathered at the bride's home nearby and here the bride's mother, (Mrs. Blake Sharpe) wearing a frock of grey figured silk crepe with black accessories, and the groom's mother (Mrs. George McMaster) in rose sheer with black accessories received the guests.

A buffet luncheon was served to about thirty guests with Miss Alma Johnson, Belleville, pouring tea. Misses Ada Bateman, Marjorie Bateman and Leafa Thomson, Springbrook assisted with the serving and they wore pleated pink dotted Swiss organdy aprons. The house was decorated in a colour scheme of pink and white with streamers and bells. A tiered wedding cake, iced in white with pink and silver trim, adorned the centre of the bride's table.

The bride travelled in a frock of "Pine Leaf" green crepe, copper rust accessories and carmel beige coat. The young couple will honeymoon at Muskoka Lakes. On their return they will reside at Fuller.

This wedding ceremony was quite unique as it was the 28th wedding anniversary of the parents of both the bride and the groom. On September 3rd, 1913, at high noon, at the home of the bride, Miss Albina Post, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Post, Fuller, became the bride of Mr. Blake Sharpe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sharpe, of Rawdon, with Rev. G. Ross, officiating in the presence of sixty guests. The attendants were Mr. Will Donald of Rawdon and the bride's sister, Miss Earla Post, now Mrs. Ernie Moore, of Eldorado.

On September 3rd, 1913, at 7 p.m., another house wedding took place on the lawn, when Miss Alice Bateman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bateman, of Rawdon, and Mr. George McMaster, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David McMaster, Rawdon, were united in marriage, with the late Rev. H. H. Hall, of St. Mark's Anglican church officiating in the presence of two hundred guests. There were no attendants.

Twenty-eight years later a son and daughter of those two marriages were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony. The church was filled to the doors as friends from far and near gathered to witness the ceremony of this popular couple.

HEAVY RAIN

Stirling and district bowed under one of the heaviest rains for years past, on Monday when several inches of rain fell to gladden the hearts of the farmers. Unlike some districts the storm did comparatively small damage across the county. Storm drains on Front St. were taxed to capacity and at one time water covered the sidewalk in front of J. S. Whitehead's store to a depth of several inches.

WEEK OF SEPT. 10-17 SET ASIDE FOR HONORING MEN IN UNIFORM

Wednesday, September 10th, will mark the beginning of the third year of Canada's participation in the war.

In acknowledgment of that fact the government, by proclamation, is setting aside the period September 10-17 as a week to "honor our men in uniform and re-dedicate ourselves to the service of our country and our cause."

The provincial governments, mayors, service and other clubs, churches and schools are all being asked to lend their assistance in making this week, one of real national significance. The radio and the motion picture industry have already promised their full support.

"I believe Canadians will recognize that too much cannot be done to make all of us truly conscious of the peril of this war and to develop our sense of duty to our country at this time," stated G. H. Lash, Director of Public Information.

WHY THE ARMY PREFERS BLONDES

An article in The American Weekly with the September 7 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times discloses that the Navy and Weather Bureau need blonds, too, but only when 46,700 feet in the air and, at that, only six strands of their hair are used to talk back from the weather forecasting instruments. Be sure to get The Detroit Sunday Times this week and every week.

Fought Well

During her employers' golden wedding celebrations a Negro servant who had been with the family about forty years wanted to add her felicitations to those that had come by wire, telephone, letter, and by personal call.

The opportunity came while she was preparing the dinner, when she said. "Well, all I have to say is dat dey sho' has fought a good fight."

All the Harder

As two men stood chatting in the street, a third, known to both of them, passed by.

"What's wrong with Jack this morning?" asked one. "He looks worn out and worried to death."

"He's been contesting his wife's will," the other told him.

"His wife's will? I didn't know she was dead."

"She isn't!" was the brief reply.

Cold and reserved natures should remember that though not unfrequently flowers may be found beneath the snow, it is chilly work to dig for them, and few care to take the trouble.—Winchester Press.

RED CROSS WELL ORGANIZED IN ENGLAND

London.—You get a distorted idea of this present Britain if you picture it in any other way than as Ladysmith in the Boer War, Yyres in the last and Moscow in this war Forget it as a self-contained country—it is small enough, anyhow, to drown in Lake Ontario—and only remember that it is a beleagured city. Think of it only as a largish garrison surrounded by a usefully wide and deep moat. Then you begin to understand that this little island is completely controlled and conditioned by the strategy of siege. And you realize why, instead of being centralised, its resources and reserves are cached in scores of different places scattered over its hundred thousand square miles. It would be wanton stupidity to have one central basket filled with all the eggs because one well-aimed—or, for that matter, badly aimed—attack would reduce them all to a nasty sticky white and yelow mess.

Colonel C. A. Scott, the Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross in Britain, did not need a Nazi bomb on his Liverpool warehouse months ago to teach him the truth of that fundamental fact. Before that tragedy he had devised a system of decentralisation which ensured that the essential service of help and healing would not be impeded or impaired should this centre, that or the other, be blitzed into nothingless. I can now report that his policy has been perfected—Britain is sprinkled with Red Cross centres, each skillfully linked to all by a scientific plan of communications and transport so that should any part of the country raise the distress signal aid can be rushed thereto from a dozen other points with speed and efficiency.

For the administration of assistance to sufferers the two islands have been divided into thirteen regions. Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland are separate regions, England consisting of ten others in a patternwork that matches the Government's regionalisation of the country With this system the Women's Voluntary Service, who cooperate with the Canadian Red Cross in Bomb-victims relief outside the capital as the Charity Organization Society does inside, coincides. This means that there can be neither overlapping nor loopholing between the Canadian Red Cross and its associated organisations here on the one hand and the Government's emergency control and the Civil Defence system on the other. In a beleagured city—which is how this island should now be regarded—such distribution of resources and rapid mobilisation of reserves are essential.

These regions have been broken down into country depots which, in turn, serve a large number of local centres. From his headquarters in a famous London square, Colonel Scott is able to direct the nationwide ramifications of the Canadian Red Cross, operating centrifugally like spokes radiating from a wheel-hub. Connecting all to each is a communications and transportation system that can be brought into functional operation by a touch of a button and at the speed of an uncoiled spring.

During the "blitz full" the overseas staff of the Canadian Red Cross have been scouring the English countryside obtaining storage space for the stock of clothing, food, surgical equipment, medical supplies, blankets which the generosity of the Canadian public has made available for use on this 100,000 square mile battlefield. This policy of decentralisation has resulted in maximum economy in expenditure of time, money, energy and in achieving the utmost degree of dispersal which is basic to the strategy of siege. For the service of help and healing conducted under the sign of the Red Cross to be seriously damaged it would now be necessary for the

A wide variety of places has been secured—from a fashionable race-course to the barn of a country vicarage. The entire plant of a race-course where pre-war thousands used to watch famous horses win and lose—including the grandstand, horse-boxes, jockeys' rooms and tote buildings—is being utilized Provision for a small staff of Red Cross warehousing crew to sleep and eat has been made in what used to be the Clubhouse once frequented by many notables including royalty.

Elsewhere, the stables and riding academy of a prominent riding school, where the two young Princesses learned to horse-ride, are being used to store supplies. In these buildings, also, is carried out the shipment of supplies to the Canadian troops and the charitable organisations with which the Canadian Red Cross cooperate. In another place the arches of a railway company have been taken over for storage purposes. In several other places Nissen huts—the type used by the Army to house troops and consisting of an arched galvanised-iron roofing and sides—have been adopted and adapted as stores. In them are housed stocks of blankets and clothing ready for immediate dispatch whenever and wherever Nazi bombers make nocturnal visitations blitzing the civil population with death and destruction.

A small staff works at and between these points carrying Red Cross services to the Forces and civilian sufferers alike. As hundreds of cases arrive at the ports weekly, proving who is victorious in the Battle of the Atlantic, they are swiftly distributed throughout this chain of storage depots which girdle the entire country. This decentralisation plan ensures that there will be some of every commodity supplied by the Canadian Red Cross in every depot. Thus, in the event of enemy action destroying one or more depots a proportion of all items would be immediately available from other points.

While it continues with its day to day service for the sick and suffering from past enemy actions, the Canadian Red Cross now stands hair-trigger ready to go into complete and constant activity at maximum intensity when the Battle of Britain bursts out into final conflagration. In that transcendant triumph every Canadian woman, man, child can become entitled to a contributory share

Official Opening Of Harold Cheese Factory Held On Friday Night

President Geo. Bailey and Directors Lauded for Fine Efforts in Erecting Factory

The Harold Cheese Factory, ideally situated just west of Highway, No. 14, on the 8th concession of Rawdon, was officially opened on Friday evening last in the presence of a large number of patrons and their wives and friends, district cheesemakers, and prominent officials of the dairy industry. Mr. John Murray, District Cheese Instructor acted as master of ceremonies for the evening in a capable manner and Mr. C. E. Lackner, chief director of dairying for the province of Ontario, and H. B. Sandwith, chief dairy instructor, of Eastern Ontario were the principal speakers.

It was about fifty-five years ago that a group of milk producers, possessing plenty of initiative and faith in the dairy industry, formed the first Harold Cheese Factory Company. Since then the company has operated in the original building, but about a year ago it became apparent that if the company was to maintain its reputation as a producer of high grade cheese a new factory was needed. President Geo. A. Bailey and his board of directors went to work immediately and today as a result of their efforts a fine stucco building, constructed on property donated by Mr. Lewis Wilson, houses one of the most modern cheese and butter factories in the province. It has a never failing water supply in a spring, just north of the factory, from where the water is piped to a reservoir and pumped into the factory and is equipped with the latest in mechanical cooling systems and devices, even to a mechanical hoist, which was donated by Mr. Chas, Mumby, a past president. Altogether the plant offers a most pleasing appearance, both inside and out, and president Geo. A. Bailey and the directors are to be congratulated on their efforts. Mr. Roy Brown, who is considered as one of the better cheesemakers of the province, is at present employed by the company.

The gathering was officially welcomed by Mr. G. A. Bailey, President, who stated that such enthusiasm on the part of the producers was the strongest evidence that the industry would reach its quota in the Empire appeal for increased production for 1941. Secretary-Treasurer Harry Heath also paid tribute to the interest displayed by the patrons in this project. Harold Cheese Factory is now one of the best in the Province and with Mr. Roy Brown, directing its operation, the factory has one of the best makers in the business. 376 shares in the new factory have been sold amounting to $1,935 in response to a widely-circulated campaign and the company which was started about fifty-five years ago is believed to be one of the oldest in the district and now has a factory after which many will be fashioned in the provincial-wide campaign to improve productive and quality raising powers.

The county, which has the greatest production of cheese in the province, is also up 557,922 lbs. on the season's production.

Presentation Made To Newly-Weds

Over one hundred friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Thompson, of Springbrook, on Thursday evening last to pay honour to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Thompson, who returned from their honeymoon recently. Rev. W. R. Young acted as master of ceremonies during the evening and Mrs. Ken Thompson, Mrs. Carman Sine, Mrs. Geo. Williams, Norman Mason and Lawrence Galloway contributed to a short programme.

During the evening the young couple were presented with an illuminated address, which was read by Mr. Ross Bailey, a breakfast set, from the community, and a satin cushion from the Springbrook softball team, of which the groom was a valued member. Both Mr. and Mrs. Thompson expressed their appreciation of the lovely gifts and the spirit that prompted them, following which refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Splendid Program For The Fair

Directors Plan Excellent Entertainment For Those Who Attend Annual Event

With the annual Fall Fair sponsored by the Stirling Agricultural Society scheduled for Wednesday next, the committee in charge of the various attractions in front of the grandstand have lined up a programme which should appeal to all, and indications point to its being one of the best ever seen locally.

In preparing the programme, the committee has ever kept in view that the Fair is primarily for the agriculturists of the community and has endeavoured to make it of particular interest to farmers. However, the urban dwellers have not been overlooked and there are many items that should appeal to them as well. It is the hope of the Society that the citizens of Stirling and Community will show their appreciation of the efforts put forth by the directors by giving their wholehearted support to the Fair, not only with their attendance, but by competing in as many events as possible.

Wednesday Afternoon Program

All of the familiar events are again on the agenda and a good afternoon's entertainment is promised for Wednesday, September 17th. Horse racing enthusiasts will again be able to enjoy their favourite sport as trials of speed — 2.25 class and a Free-for-all— are included in the program. While it is still too early for entries for the races to be made the number of inquiries already received from horsemen would herald the prediction that both classes will be keenly contested. There will also be the running race for farmers' horses, quick hitch and race once around the track, which consists of hitching a horse to a buggy and racing around the track; and the pony race.

The lady's driving and best lady's or gent's turnout contests will also be judged in front of the grandstand.

Brown Bros. "Buckaroos"

A special feature will be the grandstand performance by Brown Bros. "Buckaroos," Canada's youngest old-tyme orchestra and Entertainers. This group of ten artists come highly recommended and in securing them the programme committee feel they have one of the finest treats ever presented a Stirling crowd.

Concert and Dance at Night

In the evening a concert is being staged in the Stirling Theatre, with the Brown Bros. Entertainers presenting an all star floor show. This will be followed by a dance in the community hall, with a good orchestra in attendance.

In presenting the programme the committee feels that it should have the support of the community, and given good weather the attendance on Wednesday should be the best ever.

Delinquent Water Users In Village Will Be Deprived Of Service

Regular Meeting of Council Held on Monday Night— To Collect Dog Tax Arrears

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening with Reeve Wm. C. West in the chair and Councillors C. B. Rollins, F. Stapley, Gilbert Thompson and E. G. Bailey in attendance.

Following the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, communications were tabled from the Boiler Insurance Co. presenting a report in which the boiler in the Community Building was shown to be in good condition; and from the Department of Municipal Affairs concerning a bylaw for the levying of an occupancy tax in the event of anyone erecting a building in the municipality after the assessment had been made for the current year.

The communications were placed on fyle by order of the meeting.

The outstanding waterworks accounts were again discussed at some length by council. A number of disputed accounts were ordered written off and unless the others are paid by September 15th a personal canvas will be made the delinquents by a representative from the Council. Further failure to pay will result in the water service being discontinued and the accounts will be collected through division court.

Councillor E. G. Bailey drew the attention of Council to the fact that the roof of the Public Library needed painting and the property committee was authorized to have the work done.

Gil Thompson reported that Guy Bradshaw, who has charge of the fire hall, had requested permission to erect a coal bin in front of the stove in the hall. The request was granted.

Following a discussion on routine matters in connection with the streets the committee in charge of this department was authorized to have any stop signs broken down replaced; the various ditches and culverts cleaned out and any holes in the streets filled up with gravel.

On motion of Councillors Stapley and Bailey a cheque will be written the tax collector in payment of Don Williams' business tax for 1941, owing to the fact that he has been incapacitated since early in January and has not conducted his business here.

Reeve West stated that F. McDonell, who resides on the town line just west of the Village limits, had approached him on behalf of a number of the farmers in that district with reference to having the road from the Village limits to the fair ground corner kept open for auto traffic during the coming winter. It was the opinion of the members of council that if a wire fence were constructed along the north side of this stretch of road most of the trouble would be overcome. The property committee was therefore authorized to interview Mr. C. Tucker with reference to some arrangement to have this work done.

The outstanding dog taxes for 1941 were next discussed and on motion of Councillors Bailey and Rollins, Constable S. Eggleton was appointed to collect the dog tax arrears at a fee of 50c for 1940 arrears and 25c for 1941 arrears.

The following accounts were presented and on motion of Councillors Rollins and Thompson were ordered paid:

Wm. Chambers, $2.00; Department of Health, 81c; Ontario Gazette, $4.00; Geo. Belshaw, $7.00; Hastings County, indigent account, $17.50; Stirling Hydro-Electric, $199.95; Stirlinb Waterworks, $120.86.

DECORATE HOMES

As part of the observation of Reconsecration Week, citizens are asked by the National Committee to fly flags and decorate their homes and business premises from September 10th to 17th. The second anniversary of Canada's entry into the war is being observed throughout the Dominion to pay national honour to those who, on land, sea and in the air are the defenders of our country and in proud memory of those valiant hearts who have fallen for our common freedom.

Reconsecration Week At High School

In connection with the Dominion wide Reconsecration Week, Sept. 10th to 17th, services are being held each morning in the Stirling High school, at which members of the local clergy are delivering appropriate addresses to the students. At the opening service yesterday Rev. L. Harding spoke on "Hitler's Onslaught," while this morning Mr. Belch delivered an address on "The Fight for Freedom." The remaining speakers and their subjects are as follows: Friday, Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, "The Four Freedoms"; Monday, Rev. W. H. V. Walker, "The Charter of The Atlantic"; Tuesday, Rev. Father Lesage, "Canada Fights For Freedom"; and Wednesday, Rev. A. M. Laverty, "How We May Serve."

Large Mushrooms

Weather conditions in this distric have been ideal for fungus growth recently, and on Tuesday Arthur Pyear, of Glen Ross, treated the Editor to a number of mushrooms, two of which were much larger than one sees ordinarily. The larger one measured 7¼ inches in diameter and 22 inches in circumference, while the other was slightly smaller. They also proved very delectable to the taste and we are very grateful to Mr. Pyear for his treat.

Hastings County Winners

Attaining an aggregate 442 points, Bruce Prindle of Thomasburg, took high honors in the district Junior Livestock judging competition at the Belleville Fair on Tuesday. Bruce took first place over Carl Heath of Rawdon Township by a slim margin of only three points, the latter aggregating 439 points.

A two-girl team from Northumberland County, Jean and Helen Carruthers, of Cobourg placed first in a field of four counties in the Homemakers' and Junior Girls' judging competitions. Lennox and Addington took second place, Prince Edward County third and Hastings fourth.

Following is the score of Hastings contestants in the Livestock judging:

1st, Bruce Prindle, Thomasburg, 442 pts.; 2nd, Carl Heath, Campbellford, R. R. 2, 439 pts.; 4th, Ray Hall, Trenton, R. R. 5, 432 pts.; 5th, Wallace Pidgeon, Madoc, 424 pts.; 8th, Jas. Heath, Campbellford, R. R.2,416 pts.; 13th, Clifford McCamon, Thomasburg, 376 pts.; 14th, Douglas Prest, Holloway, 369 pts.; 15th, Ross Pidgeon, Madoc, 363 pts.; Douglas Campbell, Stirling, 363 pts.; 18th, Floyd MacInnes, Holloway, 346 pts.; 20th, Ralph Utman, Stirling, 341 pts.; John

TAG DAY FOR THE BLIND

● On Saturday, September 20th, a Tag Day will be held in Stirling in the interests of the Canadian National Institute for the blind. Probably the majority of our readers are familiar with the work of this organization, but in case there are those who aren't it might be well to repeat that it is a Dominion wide organization interested in every phase of blind welfare work. It has two main objects: first, to assist blind people in every possible way, and secondly, to prevent blindness. It provides employment for the blind and training for others in the home in different handicrafts and the braille system.

In Hastings County there are 96 blind people, all of whom are registered with the National Institute for the Blind and eligible for the various services it offers. Let us help the blind help themselves by making a donation on Saturday, September 20th, when approached by a tagger.

RECONSECRATION PLEDGE

● In connection with the Reconsecration Week which is being observed all over Canada from September 10th to 17th, a Reconsecration Pledge has been approved by the National Committee in charge of arrangements. The Committee urges that the Pledge should be taken publicly at mass rallies and other meetings and privately by individuals during the Reconsecration Week.

The following text of the Reconsecration Pledge has been released by the Hon. Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, Chairman of the Committee:

"At this time of peril for my country, in this fight against the evil powers which threaten to engulf the earth, conscious of my duty toward Canada and toward my fellow man, I solemnly pledge before Almighty God that I shall do all that lies within my power, and deem no sacrifice too great, to bring about the victory of our arms, that right may triumph, that justice may prevail and that a righteous peace may reign throughout the world; to this end I reconsecrate myself, with faith, with courage and with the knowledge that, though the path be hard and the day be dark, our efforts can not fail."

HEIGH, HO! COME TO THE FAIR

● The Stirling Fall Fair, annual exhibition of the Stirling Agricultural Society, will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 16th and 17th, and from present indications it will be an improvement over other years. It is designed and planned to further the interests of Agriculture in the surrounding townships, and is deserving of the support of citizens for miles around. Nothing represents the life of any community like the Fall Fair, with its various displays of ladies' handiwork and the exhibits in cattle and produce from the farm. It is only by exhibiting their produce that the farmers can show their neighbours as well as the hundreds of spectators from Hastings and neighbouring counties just what class of livestock they keep or grain and vegetables they grow. Likewise, the farmers' wives and daughters, along with the residents of the village, may display their culinary art and handiwork. The special prize list is lengthy and covers a wide range for the exhibitors.

The Directors have made a genuine effort to make the prize list, which provides for every phase of agricultural life, and the porgramme of entertainment attractive. That they have been successful in part is manifest by the list of entries already received by the Secretary, and there is no doubt that there will be many more.

A special feature of the prize list in the cattle section is the Black and White Exhibit sponsored by the Hastings County Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association. Some three hundred and fifty-nine dollars in prize money is offered in this section alone, and according to the Fair officials an entry of well over one hundred animals is assured. This exhibit alone is worth going miles to see and all lovers of good cattle should make a special effort to be present.

The programme is one that should appeal to both old and young alike, and has a number of new features in addition to those of other years. The Trials of Speed will again be provided for the horse racing fans of the district. Two races, the 2.25 Class and the Free-For-All, have been carded and all advance notices point to a large number of entries and good racing. There will be the usual running race for farmers' horses, with good prizes being offered, as well as the Pony Race. The Lady's or Gentleman's Turnout, Lady Driver and best single horse in harness contests also will be held on the track in front of the grandstand.

An added special attraction to the programme will be Brown Bros. Rythm "Buckaroos", who will feature the afternoon performance in front of the grand stand. They will also present a concert in the theatre on Wednesday night which will be followed by a dance in the Community Hall.

There will also be all kinds of games in operation for the amusement of the Fair Patrons. Altogether this year's programme looks attractive and given fair weather next Wednesday, the local Fair Grounds should be the meeting place for thousands of the citizens of Hastings and adjacent counties. Plan to attend and invite your friends to meet you at Stirling Fair, the biggest and best rural fair in the County. Not only will you benefit educationally from the fair, but by your attendance you will show your appreciation of the efforts of the directors in providing Stirling and district with an Annual Fall Exhibition.

Take a day off and attend Stirling Fair. You'll not be sorry!

THE URGENCY OF WAR SAVINGS

● While "we are in the presence of a crime without a name" it would be a major tragedy to lose both the war and the peace. That is the ominous probability of a head-long plunge into a period of wartime pleasure spending. A greater degree of saving is an urgent need of the moment.

The cry from all the lips that speak to us across the no-man's-land of the Atlantic ocean is for more and more materials. Our ability to produce the materials of war in satisfactory quantity is limited by our physical capacity and time. Our only hope lies in diverting peacetime operations to wartime requirements.

Diversion of productive facilities is effected in either or both of two ways, voluntary or otherwise. Financial measures, such as by taxation and borrowing, are useful and play an important part, but the part they play is dependent upon the measure of public support they receive.

In the Victory Loan drive, Canadians added to their laurels, and the measure of their effort in this direction will make pleasant reading when the final figures are issued from Ottawa this month. That, however, is water over the dam, and War Savings is now in need of support. This is the movement in which the greatest number of Canadians can put their shoulders to the wheel.

War Savings is a twice-blessed effort in that dollars invested in War Savings Certificate do double service: they do not compete with the war effort and they stand ready to take up the slack for the peace-time readjustment. Dollars diverted from non-essential spending at this time leave room for the expansion of production needed for the men overseas.

REMINDER TO MOTORISTS

● Warning—before you pull out from the curb, be sure to look behind for oncoming traffic.

This warning is being impressed on more than 4,000 truck drivers by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations as their rule-of-the-road for September in their campaign for safer and more careful driving.

It is being distributed in the form of colored posters to be set up in the cabs of industrial trucks as a constant reminder of one of the most dangerous of traffic hazards. The cards colored blue and black, show a truck driver stepping out of his cab with his face turned to the road behind on the alert for approaching traffic. In large letters are written: "Look Behind for Oncoming Traffic before Pulling from the Curb."

The cards, issued by the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, are changed every month to impress on drivers some important phase of traffic hazard. They are placed in metal slots in the cabs of trucks whose drivers are on the road for eight or more working hours. They are circulated in the trucks of newspaper publishers, transport companies, dairies and bakeries, whose drivers spend the large part of their working hours driving throughout the streets and highways of Ontario.

Safety officials feel that by frequently changing the cards and making them humorously appealing, drivers are made more safety-conscious than a permanently-painted routine warning against careless driving.

● The cooler days and evenings are with us and a small fire in the furnace or heater is needed to make things cosy and warm. Residents are reminded to inspect the pipes of the furnace or stove and have them cleaned of all soot, not only as precaution against fire, but because soot acts as an insulator and keeps the pipes cool.

● Users of water supplied by the Village waterworks who have been delinquent in their monthly payments are to be deprived of this service unless outstanding accounts are paid. At Monday night's council meeting a statement showing a number of water users in arrears was presented and after lengthy discussion members of council decided on taking the above action. So if any of our readers happen to be in arrears, our advice is pay up as soon as possible or else—

According to recent accounts of weddings, as published in this and other papers, "the happy couple (s) will reside in.." It might be more fun if they lived there. Residing is a poor substitute for living.—Fergus News-Record.

HOW TRUE

An advertiser in a Toronto morning paper carries what it labels as "A Morning Smile" at the beginning of each day's advt. Here's the one used on Monday: "What are the town fathers debating?" "Whether to keep up the good roads and fine the motorist for speeding, or maintain a mudhole and charge them for hauling 'em out." And yet how painfully true to life this bit of humor is as applied to some municipalities.—Carleton Place Canadian.

TEACHING DEMOCRACY

It is regrettable, though not entirely surprising, that the high school curriculum does not contain a full-fledged department of democratic studies. The emphasis all along has been on fitting the pupil to make his way in life, it being assumed that this will also prepare him for the performance of intelligent citizenship. Young people are taught mathematics languages, physics and given manual training, but it has been largely left to themselves to discover the art of self government—with results which speak for themselves.—Toronto Telegram.

SOLDIERS' WIVES

A week ago we suggested "cost-of-living-bonuses" for soldiers' wives. It has occasioned no comment whatsoever. Meantime a bonus has been awarded to local factory workers. Now it is up to them to turn to and help these generally under-privileged women get a bonus too. The pound of butter they must buy costs just as much as the pound of butter these "bonused" men get. When it is remembered that scores of youthful "army-dodgers" get this government handout and soldiers' wives do not, then, we claim, the setting is one for some kind of drastic action. In the last war there was the Patriotic Fund. Ottawa should do something about all this.

There is another consideration in regard to soldiers' wives which so far as we can observe, has not concerned the community very much. There is of course, a local patriotic committee which does its best to care for the social side of the drab existence of women whose men have joined the services. There are social calls at homes, with tea and knitting. But that does not fill the bill. Many who are still young enough to enjoy a dance cannot be expected to sit and knit and sip when music at the beach invites them. Their husbands would be glad to know that they had some gaiety and that their children could be taken to the lakeside or Cream of Barley Park for fun and frolic, say, once a week.

Investigation reveals that far too many of these self-sacrificing women have become merely "stoop-sitters" with seldom a smile and the eternall care of their children. This war may last for years; indeed leaders such as Churchill indicate the fact. It seems therefore, that much more can be done than is done at present in every community, to brighten the lives of soldiers' wives and more so of soldiers' children. So we suggest to community leaders, two things: Get out and demand their "cost-of-living bonus" and at all seasons devise ways and means for entertainment of happier character.—Bowmanville Statesman.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE AGAIN

The anti-British spleen of Col. Robert McCormock's Chicago Tribune, backed up with equal vileness by his New Nork Daily News, is pretty notorious. It is to be doubted whether these two newspapers have ever given a better example of their malice and genius for distortion than in their comments on the meeting between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt.

Said the News:

"It appears that Mr. Roosevelt, who suggesting the meeting has sold Mr. Churchill on the 'four freedoms' —but with a notable omission. Nothing is said about the freedom of religion. This neglect . . is in deference, we we take it, to our ally, Joe Stalin. We have small doubt that Mr. Roosevelt . . . . envisions a world with himself as President of the whole layout and Mr. Churchill as his Prime Minister"

Said the Chicago Tribune:

"Mr. Roosevelt's dangerous ambition always to do what no other President ever did and to be the man who shakes the world led him to meet Mr. Churchill. There he, the head of a nation which is not at war, signed their names . . as if both countries not only were fighting side by side but saw their way to victory. . . The American people can rest assured that Mr. Churchill was paying little attention to the rehash of the Wilson futilities. . . . What he wanted to know was: "When are you coming across?"

How many Canadians realize, we wonder, that this fine example of the editorial technique of Herr Goebbels comes from two newspapers which have their newsprint manufacturing plants in Canada? How any of them know that those manufacturing plants, represented by the Ontario Paper Company (owned outright by Col. McCormick) are extended special privileges by this country? That the Ontario Paper Company, which makes the newsprint upon which Col. McCormick vomits his anti-British spleen is given advantages over every other newsprint plant in Canada?

Prorating of newsprint, put into effect by the governments of Que. and Ontario in 1938, was designed to have newsprint mills share proportionally in exports, thus spreading evenly the employment and wages of the industry in the communities which have newsprint manufacturing. For some reason never made clear, certainly never justified convincingly, the Ontario Paper Company, supplying newsprint for Col. McCormick's two newspapers, was exempted from proration.

The Journal has never much liked the idea, advanced by some, that the Chicago Tribune should be barred from this country. What The Journal does think, however, is that in the light of the attitude of Col. McCormick and his newspapers it might be a good thing if the proper authorities in Canada re-examine the privileges given to the Ontario Paper Company. Why should we extend advantages to an enemy? Extend them to the possible injury of others of our own people—to Col McCormick's competitors?

Col. McCormick, despite his hate of us, curiously has powerful friends in this country. Last week, for example, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario was the guest on a week-long motor yacht cruise of Mr. Arthur Schmon and a Mr. Martin. Mr. Schmon is Col. McCormick's chief representative in Canada; Mr. Martin his high-powered lawyer in Chicago.—Ottawa Journal.

SOME RULES FOR WINNING THE WAR

You mustn't pay a bakery to slice bread for you.

You mustn't walk to a service station to buy gasoline.

You can't give more than 10 per cent. of your income to war services that save the Government money. (If you do, you're taxed.)

You can be made to pay 'back-pay' to a man who was never on your payroll.

You can go to the states and live at the swankiest hotel, but you mustn't take your wife even to live in a tourist cabin on less money.

You can sell life insurance without paying excess profits, tax, but not fire insurance.

You can sell orange juice in a tin, but not in a bottle. (If you do you are taxed 25 per cent.)

You can't deliver a bottle of milk except on the regular delivery, but you can use a ten-ton truck to deliver a nain-file.

All these rules, apparently, have something to do with winning the war.—Financial Post.

HONOLULU TO STIRLING

By W. C. WEST, Manager, Stirling

A great deal of local interest has been created in Stirling as a result of a long distance call from Honolulu to Stirling.

Mr. E. McNab of St. Louis, Miswho has a cottage at Oak Lake, just out of Stirling, received a long distance call from his brother-in-law, Mr. Harold Martin, at Honolulu. The conversation took place on Wednesday, July 23rd, at 3.00 a.m., and lasted from four to five minutes.

Mr. McNab was exceedingly well pleased with the conversation and very much appreciated the excellent reception.

An interesting point in connection with this call is the fact that it was placed over a rural circuit, Stirling No. 664, the cottage of Mr. H. C. Martin, and Mr. Martin expressed his keen appreciation of the fact that such clear reception could be obtained over his rural telephone.—Blue Bell.

Good Yarn

"It's getting late," remarked the first fisherman, "and we haven't caught a single fish."

"Well," replied his companion, "let's let two more big ones get away and then go home."

HUGE TOMATO PLANT

James V. Watson has a tomato plant, that is a wonder in both size and productivity, at his home on Victoria street. The plant has a stalk length of over ten and one-half feet; has produced two dozen of ripe tomatoes and when seen by the Courier late last week had another three dozen tomatoes on its numerous branches.—Perth Courier.

STARTING SCHOOL

God bless a little boy who goes to school,
His shiny Primer hugged against his Breast,
With cheeks scrubbed clean and in his rounded eyes
A baby wonder of the strange new quest.
September, take him gently; he is small
Whose sturdy form must battle with the blow
Of morning; make the red-gold leaves that fall
A carpet where such little feet may go
In safety. Sun, shine tenderly upon
The forehead where his mother laid her kiss.
It was a consecration; see that books
May never rob her little son of this.
Birds, sing him softly; he has only known
A lullaby; and little brook, run clear
When he is watching, never let him think him know
A stagnant secret; he is young and dear.
Pray that he find within the strange four walls
The smile close kin of tears, the heart grown wise
In love of simple things, the hand that shields,
And laughter, laughter in the waiting eyes.
He was a baby yesterday; he lived
By just my simple rote and easy rule;
There—he is gone around the curve of road—
Oh! God bless little boys who go to school.

SLOW DRIVING

Slow driving on our highways is regarded as a menace but that this practice is not indulged in by many motorists is evidenced by the fact that during July only six summonses were issued for unnecessarily slow driving while 78 were apprehended for reckless driving and 36 for drunk driving. Considerable misunderstanding obtains as to the regulations governing the enforcement of traffic laws. The Attorney General's Department has no control over 187 municipal police or a municipal council so that the government has no say in the enforcement of laws in any of these municipalities. The Ontario government maintains a highway patrol force in which 124 officers patrol a total of 7,268 miles of provincial highways, each officer being responsible on an average for 57 miles of highway twenty four hours each day. While Attorney General Conant is free to admit this force is inadequate to properly patrol the highways he declares that with falling revenues this force will not be augmented for some time to come, probably not until peace has been declared. In July last the provincial patrol force caused summonses to be issued in 1002 cases so it was not inactive although highway accidents registered an increase.

WOMEN STILL BAKE

While very few women—and this applies to both urban and rural districts—bake bread now, it is pleasing to note this does not apply to the making of pies. At the Toronto Exhibition more than three hundred women entered in the pie baking contest, the top prize being fifty dollars.

The pies, all of the apple variety, were handed over to the airmen at Manning Pool following the judging and the boys had a royal feast. We hear much these days of pies "Like Mother Used to Make" but being a mother doesn't qualify one as a pie maker. In fact pie makers are born not made. It is just a natural gift and most women know it is an art that cannot be acquired. Handing over a receipt doesn't mean a thing. Ask a good pie maker how she arrives at the finished product and she will look blank and then will say "I just put in the ingredients and mix them together". That's it—it must be the deftness in the mixing that brings the result and the flaky crust.

Fought Well

During her employers' golden wedding celebrations a Negro servant who had been with the family about forty years wanted to add her felicitations to those that had come by wire, telephone, letter, and by personal call.

The opportunity came while she was preparing the dinner, when she said. "Well, all I have to say is dat dey sho' has fought a good fight."

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

PROVIDE AMPLE EQUIPMENT FOR GREATER PRODUCTION

Proper equipment in the laying pens is essential to efficient production. Every bird should have an equal opportunity to feed, drink, lay and roost. Many high producing hens, are of a nervous temperament and will not feed or drink as they should, if they have to fight for a place.

Satisfactory equipment can be provided at little expense. Hoppers, nests, stands for drinking vessels, roosts and dropping boards can be constructed of lumber by any handyman. There are a few important points to bear in mind.

1. Hoppers should be constructed to prevent waste of mash—the most expensive part of the ration. A narrow strip, inside the feed trough, spaced half an inch from the upper edge, will prevent mash falling over into the litter.

2. Equipment should be removable to facilitate easy and thorough cleaning.

3. Lumber should be dressed and free from cracks where lice and mits can hide.

4. Hoppers and drinking vessels should be up off the floor to prevent contamination of mash and water and to save floor space.

Prevention of waste from a feed hopper is very important. The lip on the edge of the hopper illustrated above is for this purpose.

A further prevention against waste may be taken by using a lath as the lip, suspending it straight in from the upper edge of the hopper and at a distance of the thickness of a lath from the edge. This permimts any accumulations on the lip and the mash that drops from the beak of the bird to re-enter the hopper.

Drinking equipment

The best type of drinking fountain provides a constant stream of running water, preferably in open containers, raised well above the floor to avoid contamination. Provide at least one four-foot steel hog trough or two pans 16 inches in diameter for 100 hens. The water supply should always be clean, fresh and plentiful.

Nests

Nests are usually constructed in batteries on a side wall or placed under the edge of the dropping boards. They should be semi-dark with the entrance at the back and a hinged flap at the front. They should be 12" by 15" and five inches deep. Partitions between the nests will cut down crowding and soiled eggs. Always provide the nests with clean dry litter.

Roosts

Roosts should be placed on the level, usually running the full length of the pen. The last roost should be 10 inches from the wall, and others 14 inches apart. Allow from seven to nine inches of roosting space per bird. The best roosts are made of 2 x 4 scantling with the upper edges rounded.

Chicken wire between the roosts and the dropping boards will keep the hens from walking in droppings and soiling eggs.

FEEDING BEES FOR WINTER

The importance of plenty of wholesome stores for bee colonies cannot be too strongly emphasized if successful wintering is to be attained by the beekeeper. Much of the so called winter losses experienced by beekeepers may be attributed to insufficient or unwholesome stores, says J. W. Ricketson, Beekeeper at the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N.B.

Beekeepers should not attempt to winter their bees on honey gathered late in the season from mixed fall flowers such as golden rod and wild asters, as invariably stores from such sources will congeal and dysentery will develop in the colonies before spring.

Bees under natural conditions dispose only their feces while on the wing so it is important that during long periods of confinement, as is experienced in winter, that food containing only the minimum amount of waste material be given.

Clover honey may safely be left with the bees for winter consumption, but usually this kind of honey is removed by the beekeeper because being of top quality it demands the highest price on the market.

Sugar syrup, made by dissolving two parts of white granulated sugar in one part of boiling water, either by weight or volume, cannot be surpassed for winter stores. It may be given to furnish all or part of the bees' food for winter.

Natural stores may be supplemented with sugar syrup with excellent results provided combs of natural stores are placed nearest outside walls of hives, and combs of brood, or empty combs, be left in centre of brood chamber for storage of sugar syrup. This method of feeding is the one adopted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N. B.

Colonies wintered outside will need 40 to 50 pounds of stores and cellar wintered colonies 30 to 40 pounds, depending on strength of colony in the fall and kind of winter protection given. Feeding should commence not later than October 1 and should be completed by October 15. Early feeding is recommended because bees store sugar syrup more rapidly during warm weather than in cold and stores must be cured and sealed before cold weather.

A simple method of ascertaing the amount of sugar required for a given colony, when natural stores are supplemented with sugar syrup, is to subtract weight of hive, less hive cover, from 75 to 80 pounds. Thus, if 75 pounds was used as a standard and the weight of the colony was 40 lbs., the colony would require 35 pounds of sugar made into syrup for winter stores. One pound of sugar is equivalent to one pound of honey for stores and should not be confused with pounds of syrup which contain a relative high moisture content.

Five and ten pound honey pails make excellent feeders and are convenient from a reckoning standpoint. A five pound tin of sugar syrup (2—1 mixture) is equivalent to three lbs. of sugar and a ten pound tin, six lbs. of sugar. About two or three dozen fine holes (made with frame nail) are punched in the covers of the tins and after the syrup has cooled enough to be lukewarm it is placed in the "feeders" and is then ready for the colony. If feeder tin is adjusted properly, bubbles will appear on the cover after it is turned upside down and held in an upright position over colony.

Feeding is practised in the late afternoon to avoid robbing of colonies and feeders are replenished with sugar syrup when emptied.

Three hundred and twenty-six colonies of bees during the past ten years have been fed and successfully wintered at the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, with a loss of only .61 per cent by above method.

MARKETING TOO MANY LIGHT WEIGHT HOGS

With the delivery of 425,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon, hams and other cuts to the British Ministry of Food, the present agreement between the Ministry and the Canadian Government will be concluded. The new agreement calls for 600,000,000 lbs. of bacon, hams and other cuts. To supply this order will require approximately 5,250,000 hogs. The terms of the agreement also require that of the total quantity to be shipped not less than 75 per cent shall be Wiltshire sides and such additional quantities of the same sides as can be procured. From the experience in the shipments of bacon that have gone forward since the war began, it has been learned that too many light weight hogs are being marketed The product of such hogs is either unsuitable for export or yields Wiltshire sides below the most desirable weights of 55 to 65 pounds.

Hog producers are asked to market hogs at the more desirable weights 200 to 210 pounds live.

The Production Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, is sponsoring the sale of a special hog scale at cost to farmers. Particulars as to the price of this scale can be obtained from any one of the following officers of the Department:
W. S. McMullen, 59 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont.

WOMEN GOOD DRIVERS

A traffic expert speaking at the Canadian National Exhibition on Automotive Day declared that contrary to popular opinion statistics showed that of motor drivers involved in accidents in Ontario less than 6 percent were women. Motor accidents in the Province have increased by 22 percent but men not women have been largely responsible for the augmentation where 936,899 persons have drivers licenses. In Ontario last year there were 749,706 registered motor vehicles and between 250,000 and 300,000 bicycles so the need for care and watchfulness on the highways is apparent. A woman official who travels more than 25,000 miles yearly visiting schools offers the suggestion that if people would pull up on the sideroads and take a little nap when they have been driving too long or are overtired there would be fewer accidents.

The knowledge will probably not curb the average criminal but breaking out of jail or the custody of the police is a futile waste of effort these days. It only means at the most a few hours of precarious freedom with a few months added to the original sentence in the end. Not only are the police well organized but the press and the telephone also enter the picture and the great law-abiding public is on the watch for the fugitives. There have been several "get aways" recently. Two thugs at St. Thomas slugged the turnkey of the jail and escaped. This was followed by the escape of three youths from the Guelph Reformatory. In both cases cold, fatigue and hunger made them welcome recapture. A couple of years ago there was a desperado who retained his freedom for several months. He "holed up" in a dismal swamp near St. Thomas called Skunks Misery. At first it was a matter of bragadocia but as time went on loneliness and malnutrition gained the victory and he was more than glad to give himself up.

It was pointed out at the meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association that the great influx of workers streaming into this province from all parts of Canada to participate in armament work would undoubtedly present a post war problem that would occasion many a headache to municipal ruler. All was rosy enough at present with the war effort in full swing but by the time peace was declared the workers and their families would have established a residence. If fortune turned against them they would be entitled to relief, to hospitalization and other civic charities. It was wise to make preparation for such a contingency arising rather than leave matters to the confusion period that was bound to ensue after the war.

Cold and reserved natures should remember that though not unfrequently flowers may be found beneath the snow, it is chilly work to dig for them, and few care to take the trouble.—

All the Harder

As two men stood chatting in the street, a third, known to both of them, passed by.

"What's wrong with Jack this morning?" asked one. "He looks worn out and worried to death."

"He's been contesting his wife's will," the other told him.

"His wife's will? I didn't know she was dead."

"She isn't!" was the brief reply.

Dear Irwin:

To-night you are the honoured guest of this gathering, honoured because you have felt it your duty to answer the call of the motherland in an effort to defeat Hitlerism and all it stands for.

These gatherings have a distinctive sadness for in bidding you farewell, Irwin, we are losing a good helper both in church and social life, and your place is not easily filled.

We have known you all your life and found you to be a four-square fellow, a good sport, and a kind comrade, and for these reasons your separation from us will be a loss.

Whenever you are you have our best wishes and may this watch be a constant reminder of the folks back home.

The Mt. Pleasant ball team in appreciation of your faithful services ask you to accept this Signet ring and may it always serve to bind our friendship closer to-gether.

Signed on behalf of Hoards and Mt. Pleasant community: Harvey Couch, Bob Hoard, Harry McAdam, Burton Sharp, Angus Johnson.

THE WEEKLY NEWS

BY MURDIE McDONALD

There is a theory that when a student moves to a higher grade the books used in acquiring knowledge can be handed over to younger members of the family. Frequent changes in high school text books have a tendency to shoot holes in this theory and to deflate the family pocket book. Premier Hepburn has been receiving complaints that children attending high school have been obliged to discard old books and buy new ones owing to text book changes. He not only promises an investigation but some radical changes in the Department of Education if the information respecting text books is found to be correct. Some few years ago the manner in which new books were foisted on school pupils developed into a scandal. Many of the books offered for use were unauthorized but several large publishing houses reaped a rich harvest in producing them. Changes in recent years have not been so frequent but enough new books are issued to constitute quite a drain on the pocket books of the parents. As a mitigating circumstances the Department points out that the use of certain new books is optional and that at times it is left to the discretion of the teacher which books may be recommended. This of course almost invariably means the new books will be required.

Perhaps Premier Hepburn is a little harsh in condemning the changes in text books when he says, "There are some dried old academic fellows in the Department of Education who are responsible for these continual changes. They seem to think that text books have to be changed every year."

Despite the warning of Finance Minister Ilsley that Canada will require fully $2,800,000. to meet war and other requirements during the present fiscal year the great body of our people seem to be carrying on with little thought for the future. Places of entertainment such as dance halls, restaurants and beverage rooms were never better patronized and the conservation of gasoline in the face of patriotic pleas of the government is not particularly evident. The Globe and Mail's sporting authority states that, "Racing in the province has shown an increase in betting at every meeting. Figures were not released as to the actual betting increase but every track has announced wagering surpassed figures of 1940." With a world war on this situation is not so good. It was hoped that workers with steady employment would devote a part of their earnings to war savings. By doing so they would not only be helping the war effort but would be storing up a nest egg to act as a buffer against depression in the post war days.

The Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Honorable James Gardiner, declares the feed situation may not be as serious as was first expected. He will call a conference of representatives of Eastern and Western government officials and farm organizations in the matter of aiding shipments of feed grain from West to East. For the first time in two years Mr. Gardiner is cheerful as to the outlook for agriculture. He is confident Canada will be able to meet the needs of Great Britain in the matter of food supplies and the most pleasing fact is there is no limit to the amount Britain is prepared to take. As pointed out by Mr. Gardiner, in the new bacon agreement the wording has been changed to "not less than" in place of "not more than" 600,000,000 pounds. On the other hand Honorable P. N. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, calls for a new deal for Ontario farmers. "I fear," he says, "there may be too great a tendency to set top prices on agricultural products too soon or on too low a figure. If we are going to have this control, prices of agricultural products must be allowed to come to the level of prices of other commodities. If there is to be any control of prices there should be at the same time control of wages." In this particular Mr. Dewan stresses the problem of farmers in trying to compete with the increased wages being paid in industry.

It is now admitted the Ontario peach crop is not only excellent but abundant. The only problem is the harvesting of the fruit. Thanks to the cheerful response of the secondary girls of the province this difficulty has been met and a great band of eager fruit pickers are already installed in the various camps under the supervision of the Y.W.C.A. In places where the organization camp sites are filled arrangements have been made to house about two hundred more girls and as far as the fruit growers are concerned they have nothing to fear in respect to the safe and speedy garnering of their corps. The girls who have volunteered for the work will not miss any of their lessons as the Department of Education has issued instructions that special classes be conducted for them when they return at the end of the month or early in October.

WELLMANS

On Friday evening a number of the community assembled at Wellman's hall to pay tribute to Roy Sharpe, son of Mr. Clifford Sharpe who enlisted for overseas service and is now at Petawawa.

The gathering was called to order by Rev. J. E. Beckel and spoke highly of Roy, and several others who have gone forth to help to win this war. Mr. Charles Carter was present and also spoke of the honour due to our boys who have enlisted. Mrs. P. D. MacMullen, of Mt. Pleasant, gave a very humorous reading. Short speches were given by George McGee and George Watson. Roy was then given a seat of honour and the following address was read by Jim Watson and the presentation of a comb, combination mirror and nail file was made by Don Nix.

Dear Roy:—

To-night the members of your S. S. Class are honoured to present you with a small gift of remembrance on your departure for further military training.

Ford Nelson once said: "England expects every man to do his duty", and we are proud to have a member of our class who so quickly and willingly answered his country's call.

We want you to know, Roy, even though you travel distantly and make many new friends, you will be often in the thoughts of your S. S. Classmates.

We ask you to accept this gift as a token of our friendship, and we hope for your safe and speedy return at the end of this war. Signed on behalf of your S. S. Class,—Mrs. Burton Morton, Ana English, Barbara Whitehouse, Don Nix.

Another address from the community was read by Mrs. Burton Morton, and a lovely wrist watch was presented to Roy by Mr. Robert Wallace.

Dear Roy:

To-night we welcome the opportunity of spending an evening with you while you are "on leave."

We are proud to call you "One of our boys", who, of your own accord chose to join the forces to fight for our Empire and our Freedom.

We know it is no mean sacrifice to lay aside your own personal ambition and become a part of the great military machine.

In the words of the Great Churchill, "Never was so much owed by so many to so few," and so to-night, Roy, we, your friends realize the debt owed to you for your noble service. May this gift ever remind you of the Wellman's community. May you do your duty well and return to us when the victory is won. Signed— Robert Wallace, Walter Scott, Clarence Dunham.

Roy thanked the friends for the lovely gifts and all joined in singing "for he's a jolly good fellow."

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Dracup and family of Lakefield, visited at the home of the Dracup's, on Sunday.

Belleville Presbytery Meets in Newburgh United Church

The regular fall meeting of the Belleville Presbytery convened in Newburgh presided at the sessions September 9th. The Chairman of the Presbytery, Rev. E. F. Swayne, of Newburg, presided at the sessions durduring the day.

The agenda for the day was a very heavy one and from 9.30 a.m. until 5.30 p.m., the Presbytery continued its work except during the noon hour, when the Ladies of Newburgh served a very substantial dinner in their Sunday School Rooms.

Among the items of business that were transacted in the morning were the reception of the new members to Presbytery. Among these were Revs. D. M. J. Buttars, Bloomfield; J. W. Houston, Belleville; J. F. Lane, Wellington; James Lovelace, Redneersville; W. W. Patterson, Queensborough; and Messrs. George L. Ralph, St. Ola; Irvin Fife, Flinton; and Geoffrey Julian, Maynooth. Also the reports of the inductions of all new ministers were received. A very interesting letter was read from Miss Ada McKenzie, Field Secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society, who made an extension visit of the Mission Fields in the northern part of the Presbytery. It is being recommended that a woman worker be placed in this northern area by the Woman's Missionary Society.

Arrangements were made to receive as a candidate for the ministry, Mr. Theodore Poulter, of Madoc, son of Rev. Alfred Poulter. There are now six candidates for the ministry in the Belleville Presbytery, five of whom are sons of ministers.

The Presbytery was honoured by having two prominent speakers to address them. The address in the morning was given by Rev. Charles Endicott, D.D., of Toronto. In a humorous and stirring address, Dr. Endicott made an appeal for the support of the Missionary Enterprises of the Church. In the afternoon the address was given by Rev. W. P. Fletcher, D.D., of Marmora. President of the Bay of Quinte Conference. Dr. Fletcher in his usual fervent way made a challenge to the Church in go forward in every department.

The afternoon was taken up mainly with the discussion of reports presented by the different committees. From these reports these things were of special interest. "We view with alarm the failure of our government to deal drastically within the greatest enemy within our gates. While restrictions are being made in any other useful commodities, while every increasing taxes are placed on others, the liquor traffic goes on practically untouched. To every single request of temperance people our governments both at Toronto and Ottawa have turned a deaf ear. As a war time measure we urgently plead that Ottawa courageously face the restrictions of the beverage alcohol trade and require that the sale and destribution of this production be drastically reduced."

This Presbytery was not quite up to the average attendance. There were forty-six ministers, thirty-five laymen and a number of visitors present. Arrangements were made to hold the next meeting of Presbytery in Cannifton United Church.

Those in attendance from Stirling and Rawdon were Rev. A. M. Laverty, Rev. J. E. Beckel, Rev. W. R. Young, Mr. George Bailey, Mr. C. U. Heath, Mr. H. C. Martin and Mr. C. Linn.

Rescues At Sea

A famous admiral of the last war, Sir Doveton Sturdee, victor of the battle of the Falkland Islands, called the life-boats "a sister service to the navy."

In these twenty-three months of war they have been a sister service not to the Navy only, but to the Army and the Air Force, and they have won the gratitude and admiration of all three by the notable help which they have given to them, while continuing their single aim of saving life.

Dunkirk

The greatest of their many services to the fighting forces was in helping to bring off the B.E.F. from Dunkirk. The Admiralty described the evacuation of over 300,000 troops from Dunkirk, under concentrated attack by land, sea and air, as "the most extensive and difficult operation in naval history. In this "extensive and difficult operation" 19 life-boats of the Institution took part.

As soon as the Ministry of Shipping asked for the help of the Lifeboat Service the Institution rang up its stations from Gorleston on the Norfolk coast, 110 miles from Dover, to Shoreham Harbour on the coast of Sussex, 80 miles from Dover, asking them to send their boats to Dover, without delay. They arrived there in little over 24 hours. These boats went to Dunkirk manned by naval ratings. What they did there; how they did it; what troops they brought off; what lives were lost aboard them, will never be fully known, but all of them were damaged. One, the Eastbourne life-boat, was found abandoned in the Channel and brought in so badly knocked about that it was months before she was fit for service again; and one was left on the Dunkirk beaches.

Meanwhile two of the Institution's boats, those at Margate and Ramsgate had gone straight to Dunkirk manned by their own crews. The Ramsgate boat was on service for 40 hours. She helped to bring off 2,800 men. The Margate boat was out for over 21 hours. She remained until, up and down the beaches, the coxswain could not see a boat left afloat. A nasty surf was breaking along the shore. The life-boat could do no more. She returned to her station, having brought of 600 men.

Both the Ramsgate and Margate coxswains received the Distinguished Service Medal. What those two life-boat crews did, and the circumstances in which they did it, are best described in the words of a commander of a destroyer who saw the Margate men at work; "The manner in which, with no thought of rest, they brought off load after load of soldiers, under continuous shelling, bombing and aerial machine-gun fire will be an inspiration to us all as long as we live."

Of the 37 life-boat rescues in these first 23 months of war for which the Institution has awarded medals for gallantry two of the most gallant have been concerned with ships of the Royal Navy. One of these ships was a minesweeper and the other was a trawler on submarine patrol. The first service was by the Whitby life-boat which in the darkness went right alongside the mine-sweeper close under the cliffs in a heavy swell and rescued all her crew of 18. The engineer of the minesweeper, who was standing at her stern holding a light to guide the lifeboat, described afterwards how he saw the lifeboat's two mechanics at their engines under the canopy up to their necks in water. He watched in admiration the skill with which the boat was handled. He noticed the perfect discipline on board. Not a voice was heard except the coxswain's giving his orders.

The other of those two rescues, carried out by the Dover life-boat in a full gale, was from a trawler on submarine patrol, in the middle of a minefield. The coxswain and crew knew that at any moment the trawler might strike a mine and she and the life-boat be destroyed together, but they went on until all 16 men of the trawler were rescued.

Lives Rescued Up To Date

From the outbreak of war up to date, life-boats have been launched 1,952 times and have rescued 3,911 lives.

That is 40 lives a week.

That is twice as many lives rescued each week as in the last war.

That is a life rescued every 4 hours since the war began.

OTTAWA

By Dean Wilson

CANADA'S ATTITUDE TO RUSSO-GERMAN WAR

It is apparent now along Parliament Hill that Canada's attitude towards Soviet Russia has changed considerably since the start of the Russo-German war several weeks ago, though officially nothing has been done to indicate this fact. Nevertheless, the sympathy of the Canadian Government is definitely on the side of Russia, with a remark that diplomatic relations between this country and Russia have not been resumed for the simple reason that Canada has not had any representative in Russia for some years now and Russia has had none in Ottawa during the same period. The British Embassy in Moscow has acted as intermediary during the last few years. While it is true that Communists and Communism have not been subject to any extensive attention on the part of the authorities since the start of the Russo-German War, yet this is not attributed to a lack of zeal on the part of these officials but rather to the simple fact that a subversive sections have not been taken by the Reds ever since their sympathy has gone wholly in favour of the allies in their struggle against the dictators of Europe. Moreover, well-informed quarters in the capital believe that, if aid to Russia is sought by the Allies in commodities or supplies that this country can furnish, there would be no real obstacles to the complete fulfilment of such a policy.

RATIONS AND GASOLINE CONSUMPTION

It is indicated in Ottawa that the Government's appeal for conservation of gasoline and oil for at least 50 per cent has brought forth good results in some directions but "spotty" reactions in others, with future actions of a restrictive nature depending entirely upon developments in coming weeks. When it is remembered that it requires 3,800 gallons of gasoline for a single bomber to go from London to Berlin and return, the need for conservation must be obvious. Furthermore, while it is right that autumn motoring is less than in summer, yet farmers will use more for their tractors in ploughing, treshing, and other essential operations. Therefore, the Governments may have to take certain courses of action soon to curb heedless use of gasoline and oil by the general public in order to preserve supplies for needful purposes, if the man-in-the-street does not co-operate better than in the past.

PREMIER MACKENZIE KING AND HIS WORK OVERSEAS

There is a large section of public opinion in Canada which does not seem to understand that visits to London by the head of the Canadian Government does not determine this nation's policies, though of course it may influence such decisions. Even in the last World War, the visits to London of Sir Robert Borden as Prime Minister did not determine the Canadian policies. They did have a great persuasive influence. Since that conflict Canada's autonomy in peace and war has been fully established. It is not the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, who decides the nature, extent, or method of execution of Canada's war effort, but it is decided by the people of Canada through their parliamentary representatives in Ottawa.

BETTER AGRICULTURAL PRICES FORESEEN

Although it is true that in the first two years of this war the general prices of agricultural articles were disappointing for the producers, yet there is a strong forecase that the trend now will be in favour of an upward movement all along the line.

CANADA WILL PARTICIPATE IN SOCIAL SECURITY MEET

The government has decided to participate in a plan to forward the social security of North and South America and this announcement has been made through the Minister of Labor, Hon. Norman McLarty. The Inter-American Committee to Promote Social Security was set up with the assistance of the International Labor Office a preliminary meeting in December, 1940, in Lima, Peru, by Professor Carvallo of Peru and John G. Winant, then Director of the I. L. O. and now United States Ambassador in Great Britain.

REAL MOTIVE OF POLICY TOWARDS FRENCH ISLANDS

When shipments of coal from Nova Scotia to the French Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon were cut temporarily, this was not a political move. It was due to a shortage of coal on account of curtailed production. Moreover, there is little fear in Ottawa from trouble in this direction, though they are located so close to Canada.

WOMEN ANXIOUS TO SERVE IN AUXILIARY FORCES

There is every sign in the capitol that the Government's request for several thousand women for the auxiliary strength of active units will bring forth very satisfactory results, judging by the huge number of applicants for jobs in this work. Then again, those who will be accepted will be classified as "soldiers".

Bulldog Spirit

A little English girl came in late for school with this note:

"Please excuse May for being late We were blitzed last night and she wasn't dug out until 3 o'clock this morning."

Lucky Dog..

A man who'd just joined for training passed a captain without saluting. The captain stopped him.

"Take a look at me," he said. Do you attach any special significance to this uniform."

The new chum looked him over, then grinned, "Why, you lucky dog," he exclaimed, "you've got a suit that fits!"

Dad Knows

"I don't believe you know what a bachelor is," said Rose's governess, having been amused at her pupil's use of the word in an English composition.

"Yes, I do," said Rose; "a bachelor is a very happy man."

"How do you know that?" enquired the governess.

"Father told me," said Rose.

The Reason

She: "So you are late because you had your car overhauled?"

He: "Yes—by some smart speed cop. I was exceeding the limit."

The Idea

A comedian stopped a newsboy. "I say, sonny, d'you want a new job?" he asked.

"Don't mind, sir; what it is?" replied the boy.

"Well, my manager is looking for a lad like you to play the fool."

"Oh, he is, is he? What's his idea —to fire you or to keep two of us?"

Why Waste Time

Jack: "I thought you were very attentative to Miss Banker."

Tom: "I was; but after what she said, I shall have nothing more to do with her."

"What did she say?"

"She said 'No'"

He's Not Unusual

Captain of a youthful cricket team (to new resident): "Will you join our cricket club, sir?"

New resident: "Well, really, I'm afraid I know absolutely nothing about the game. I couldn't do anything except umpire."

Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. Met Thurs.

A Leaders' Conference was held in Bridge St. Church, Belleville, Thursday, September 4th, by the Woman's Missionary Society of the Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada. Mrs. F. L. Hooper, Presbyterial president, presided at both sessions. The guest speaker was Miss Ida McKenzie, travelling secretary for the Dominion Board.

The morning session was opened with a devotional period in charge of Mrs. Manly Fox who took for her topic "Christ's Sayings and Commands." Mrs. A. Empey led in prayer.

Mrs. E. Denyes, recording secretary, gave a full report of last year's conference. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. L. Fraser, showed that $5,000 had been sent to the Branch treasurer for the first two quarters. This is a decrease of $50 from last year. Mrs. E. Osborne, Christian Stewardship secretary, asked for special efforts to be made during the third quarter to make up this decrease.

Each secretary gave a brief report of the work accomplished during the first half of the year. The Temperance Secretary, Mrs. M. Fox, brought in a resolution to be signed by members of the executive and forwarded to the government.

The rest of the session was given over to Miss McKenzie, who gave a very interesting account of her itinerary through the northern, unorganized part of the Presbyterial. During this tour, which was arranged by Mrs. A. McCreary and Mrs. A. Empey, she travelled six hundred miles and held twenty-five meetings.

The afternoon worship service was in charge of Mrs. Trevor C. Armstrong whose topic was "The Christian's Need of Faith and Prayer."

Miss McKenzie then continued her report. She said that a definite interest in missions had been left behind in the area she had visited and stressed the fact that the organized part of the Presbyterial had a great responsibility there. There must be follow-up work, she said, and suggested that missionary literature and speakers be sent in at regular intervals.

After a discussion it was decided to petition the Dominion Board for a missionary-at-large for this area. Arrangements were then made for each section to be responsible for certain parts of the area and supply their needs.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. McCreary and Mrs. Empey for their untiring efforts in arranging this itinerary and to Mrs. McCreary for driving Miss McKenzie.

Highlights from the School for Leaders were given by several who had attended.

The meeting then broke up into groups for a conference period conducted by the secretaries of each department, who later brought their findings to the entire group.

HAROLD CHEESE FACTORY

the Company also spoke briefly paying tribute to those who had worked so diligently to produce the results now evident in the completion of this fine plant. Mr. H. L. Fair, B.S.A., Hastings County representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, C. F. Linn former Dairy Instructor, E. J. Pyear, President of the Cheese Producers' Association, S. L. Lucas, Manager of the Stirling Branch of the Bank of Montreal, Reeve W. C. West of Stirling, Mr. B. C. Tucker, Geo. Pollard, Cheese Instructor for Stirling District and Geo. E. Thompson, were also among those who complimented the Company on the completion of the fine new factory. The two guest speakers of the evening were Mr. C. E. Lackner, Chief of the Ontario Dairy Branch and Mr. H. B. Sandwich, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario.

Vocal and instrumental numbers by Malcolm McMullen, Donald and Gordon Bateman, the Ray sisters and Arthur Duncan at various points in the program were enthusiastically received.

C. E. Lackner

The greatest problem facing the cheese industry today in its effort to step up production is the inability of the farmer to compete with other industry in the labor market when at the same time the prices of his products remained pegged, declared C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying for the Province of Ontario.

"We can't raise production levels as long as we face the discouraging fact that a fixed price is set." Fixed prices reveal too much of the future from a psychological standpoint. Many a farmer would stand firm in the days of low prices and work at a loss if the fact of a possible increase were not ever before him." War industry has taken a great deal of labor from the farms and in the recent campaign for greater cheese production the women on the farms have stepped into the breach and worked long hours to assist in the effort. "Give the farmer a price for his produce that will enable him to compete with industry in the labor market and our problem is solved," he said.

There are other things that slow up production too. Farmers seem to lack interest in such study as "more milk per cow" and harbour too many free boarders in their cow stables. The sooner we get rid of a lot of scrub cows in our herds and start a program of herd building for higher production the better."

"In the drive for higher production May of 1941 revealed each district away to a good start with a substantial increase but in all areas the increase has faded out completely since June. The prospects are fair or the remaining portion of the season and we should reach our quota. Although quantity is not as high as we hoped for quality is higher. Thus far this year there is an increase in 94-95 grade cheese of 69,912 93-scoring cheese has increased 5690 over last year.

"Cheese and concentrated milk are the two leading milk products Britain most desires. The cheese industry is the soundest investment this country can enter we have an ever increasing market waiting for us in Britain."

H. B. Sandwith

"Enthusiasm as displayed here tonight is the key to the high standard of quality in this district," declared Mr. Sandwith, "and that enthusiasm is not attributed only to the men but also to the women who in these trying days have shown great interest in the back-bone of the dairying industry." "Throughout this great drive for higher production many women's organizations have given their aid. Institute branches have done much in this respect and women have taken active part in factory meetings. They are absorbing knowledge of the work and encouraging their husbands to greater effort."

At the conclusion of the program the ladies served refreshments. A collection in aid of the local Red Cross realized the sum of $25.55 for which the ladies epressed their gratitude through their President Mrs. G. A. Bailey.

Reconsecration Week Prayer

O Lord of Hosts, in this time of our reconsecration to Thy service and in defence of the light brought into this world by Thy beloved Son, we turn to Thee in prayer. ✣We pray for our fighting men on land, on the sea and in the air that they may be imbued with courage to perserve and strength to vanquish the dark forces which now seek to rule this earth. ✣We pray for endurance for all those who, in any way, are engaged in this great conflict, and, for our peoples, understanding of the truth. ✣We pray for mercy for the stricken, consolation for the bereaved and eternal rest for those who, having blazed the path, have been gathered to Thine arms. ✣These things we ask, O Lord, so that in the fulness of time the dread conflict may cease, the right may triumph, and our children be brought up to serve Thee and to do those things which are of good renown, to know and to spread the Christian Light—AMEN.

Reconsecration Week Grace

FOR the courage of our fighting men and the devotion of those who stand behind them: for our continued freedom and for these blessings of our unscarred earth, we give thanks in this week of reconsecration to the Lord of Hosts, who is the only Defender of the Right.—Amen.

Memorial Service For Sgt. A. Rodgers Draws Overflow Attendance

Detachment of R. C. A. F. Men and Band Take Part In Most Impressive Service

On Sunday evening St. John's church, beautifully decorated with many flowers, was the scene of a very impressive service. It was a memorial to the late Sgt. W. A. G. Aubrey A. Rodgers, who was killed overseas on July 30. The flowers on the Altar were in memory of Aubrey and placed there by the family. On the Altar step were two baskets, one given by Mrs. E. T. Ward in honour of Tom and Don, who are in active service; the other given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rodgers in honour of their son, Walter, now in the Navy. The Rector, Rev. L. Harding, was in charge of the service. Assisting him were Ft. Lt. W. J. Province, Chaplain of Trenton R.C.A.F. Station, who read Evening Prayer; Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, who read the collect for All Saint's Day, and Squadron Leader Denton Massey, Trenton R.C.A.F. Station, who read the lesson. Rev. J. L. Hutchinson, of St. George's, Trenton, was in the sanctuary. Assisting the Rector in the music were the combined choirs of St. John's, Stirling, and Trinity, Frankford, with Mrs. Harry Morrow at the Organ. In preparation for an overflow crowd, chairs had been placed in order in the Parish Hall, but even then many had to remain outside. However due to the foresight of Mr. Jack Ormiston and Mr. Will Fox, a loud speaker was placed outside as well as one in the hall, with the result that all were able to hear the service very clearly. The Rector's Wardens and sidesmen are to be congratulated upon the manner in which they attended to the needs of the large congregation.

A detachment of R.C.A.F. Observers and air-gunners together with their band, altogether totalling about 100 men, under the leadership of Squadron Leader Denton Massey, attended the service, and occupied the pews on the south side of the church. Included in the group were men from New Zealand, United States and the R.A.F., many having sacrificed their weekend leave for this voluntary gesture. The event was the third turn for the band on that day.

The service began with the choir proceeding up the aisle as the organist assisted by the R.C.A.F. drummer played Handel's "Dead March from 'Saul'". This was followed by the Collect for All Saint's Day. The band accompanied the singing of the three hymns.

For his sermon the Rector took his text from Ezekiel 2:1—"Son of man, stand upon thy feet." In part, he said: "This service is unique, insofar as it is a combined Memorial and Reconsecration service. By reconsecration we are led to think of reconstruction. To reconstruct we must begin at the foundation. The foundation upon which the Christian life is built is the Love of God in men's hearts. We are therefore called upon once more to make sure that our hearts are right with God, and humbly to offer them to Him for His use. Then we are called upon to 'stand upon our feet' by actually employing in our daily lives those principles of life which have been given to us by God. That reconsecration is needed is evident by the fact of so many young men in our midst, and overseas, wearing the King's uniform; men who have pledged themselves to give their lives if necessary, in order that freedom, as we know it in God's power, may continue and develop in the world. Tonight we think of one of our young men who has already paid the supreme sacrifice. Let us therefore reconsecrate our lives that they may be more powerful instruments through which the Love of God may work."

During the Offertory the choirs sang "O Valiant Hearts."

Following this, the two minutes silence were observed, and then the Last Post was sounded by the R.C.A.F. Trumpeter. The lights of the church were turned out at this time, signifying death, but were immediately turned on at the sounding of Revielle, signifying Resurrection.

Concluding prayers, the Benediction and recessional hymn brought the service to a close.

So impressive was the service, that a reverent silence prevailed throughout. It will no doubt be remembered for a long time by the people of Stirling and vicinity.

The late Sgt. W.A.G. Aubrey Rodgers reported at Kingston for service on June 24, 1940, received his training at Regina, Montreal, finally graduated from Gunnery and Bombing school at Jarvis. He left here in the latter part of Jan., later going on to England. He was killed on July 30, and buried on Aug. 4.

Contract Finished

On Saturday, W. H. Patterson, local agent for the Lundy Fence Co., completed the contract of erecting 4725 feet of 6-foot wire fencing around the former Ontario School for the deaf and Dumb property at Belleville, which has recently been taken over as an air training school for the R.C.A.F. Several local men, including Wm. Chambers, J. Sheridan, and H. Juby, assisted Mr. Paterson with the work.

Say It With Flowers

This office is indebted to Mrs. P. D. MacMullen, of Mt. Pleasant, for the gift of a beautiful bouquet of gladioli and Dahlias. Although busy with the manifold duties of a farmer's wife Mrs. MacMullen finds time to spend in her flower garden, which is one of the beauty spots of the neighborhood. At present she has over 500 gladioli in bloom and hundreds of Dahlia blossoms.

Mr. F. T. Ward also presented us recently with a bouquet of gladioli for which we are grateful.

It is not often that we are remembered in this manner by our readers and when they choose to "Say It with Flowers" we cannot help but say "Thank You."

Car Stolen Here

Some time during Monday night a 1937 model Pontiac Coach, light grey in colour, and bearing license plates 3-U-825 was stolen from the used car lot of Stirling Motor Sales on Front Street. The loss was discovered Tuesday morning and Chief Constable S. Eggleton notified. A description of the stolen vehicle has been broadcast throughout the province and it is expected its recovery will be made soon. This is the first car theft reported in this village for a number of years.

Varied Programme Presented At The Annual Fall Fair Held Yesterday

Increased Attendance Over Last Year.—Number of Exhibits down, Quality Good

The Stirling Fair is over for another year. With an attendance estimated at several thousand people thronging to the Fair Grounds yesterday,, (Wednesday) afternoon, this year's exhibition provided a fitting climax to months of preparation by President C. I. Hatton and his supporting directors. No effort had been spared by the committees in charge of the various departments of the work, and all those who were in any way responsible for the event can point with justifiable pride to the success of this year's fair.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed and from noon until well on in the afternoon there was a steady stream of motors and pedestrians wending their way to the Fair Grounds. Apparently the advertising committee had done its work well for practically every section of Hastings County and many points in the adjoining counties were represented. In spite of the busy season for the farmers and other fairs in the neighbouring districts the attendance was slightly higher than last year.

Variety, for which the Directors of Stirling Fair are justly famous, again was an outstanding feature of both the exhibits and the pragrom. The main building which housed the garden produce, roots, grains and seeds, fruit, ladies' work, home cooking, flowers, cheese and art, as well as the exhibits of manual training and household science from the High and Public Schools, was thronged with interested spectators most of the afternoon as they inspected the various exhibits; others circulated through the grounds where the livestock and horses were shown, while still others lined the race track to watch the trials of speed and novelty events.

Black and White Day

The entry list in most phases of the exhibition was slightly under last year. This, however, was not true of the Black and White exhibit, which was a feature of the livestock exhibit. One hundred and sixty-four entries were made in this class alone, including some of the finest cattle ever shown in this district. Although the Holstein exhibit was a feature the other breeds were also prominent. In the Ayrshire section the cattle of Elmer Wood, of Crookston, and Ross Ketcheson, of Moira, were the leaders, while in the Jerseys, Garnet Kerr, of Campbellford, was the main exhibitor. In the beef breeds the cattle owned by Ben Bleecker and W. H. White and sons, of Roslin, were prominent.

The Sheep and Swine exhibits were

Rt. Wor. Bro. E. A. Carleton, P.D. D.G.M., of Prince Edward District, paid a visit to Tweed Lodge on Friday evening last and installed several of the lodge officers. Rev. Leslie Harding, also gave the main address of the evening on the subject, "The Builders." Others from here who attended were Messrs. O. E. Macklin, J. L. Good, J. S. Whitehead and H. R. Tompkins. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Friends of Mrs. Earl Green will regret to learn that she underwent a major operation in Belleville Hospital on Saturday last. Latest reports state she is making satisfactory progress and it is expected she will be able to return home in a couple of weeks time.

Car Badly Damaged On Frankford Road

Considerable damage was done to a car owned by Vince Gray, of Corbyville, when it went out of control and took the ditch just north of H. Morrow's home on the Frankford Road last night. The vehicle, which was being driven at the time of the accident, by Fred Vanderwater, also of Corbyville, came to rest against a large elm tree after travelling some two hundred feet along the ditch. Constable S. Eggleton investigated the accident and it it understood charges are pending.

FARM HOME BURNED

Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed the farm home and contents of Harry McDonell, Thurlow Township, 2 miles east of Foxboro, on Friday afternoon last. Celebrates Birthday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Ridge Road, was the scene of a happy gathering on Wednesday last, when Mr. Andrew McGee celebrated his eightieth birthday. Rev. W. H. V. Walker acted as master of ceremonies and called the gathering to order, after which little Miss Eleanor McGee presented her grandfather with a box of gifts from those present. Community singing was led by Mrs. W. H. V. Walker with Mrs. Frank McGee at the piano, and many of the old time songs were sung. In a brief address, Rev. Walker referred to the pioneer days of Mr. McGee and the many changes that have taken place during his lifetime. Lunch was served including a birthday cake, adorned with eighty candles, and a social time spent.

Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker; a brother, Mr. J. E. McGee, and Mrs. McGee, a sister, Mrs. T. J. Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. H. Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Art Gordaner,, and members of the McGee family.

Two grandsons of the honoured guest are serving King and Country, Walter Rodgers and Lorne Craighead, both in the Royal Canadian Navy. The occasion also marked Mr. Arthur Gordanier's birthday and after the singing of the National Anthem, the guests departed wishing both Mr. McGee and Mr. Gordanier many more happy birthdays.

SUPPORT THE LIBRARY

● Fall is here and with the coming of the longer evenings, our thoughts turn to how we may spend them in the most beneficial manner. One of the best ways in which to do this is by reading. To those who enjoy this form of recreation we recommend the Stirling Public Library, which offers every facility for their enjoyment.

Here you will find an exceptionally large assortment of books, from which the average reader should have no difficulty in selecting one to his liking whether it be fiction or among the classics. Reading is one of the finest forms of education and we all can find some time to devote to our intellectual improvement. The local Library Board has given a great deal of time and thought to make Stirling Library one of the best in the province, and citizens of the village and surrounding community should take advantage of its facilities.

At this time we appeal to those citizens who have not patronized the library in the past to do so now and throughout the coming winter. We feel certain that once you become a member you will become an ardent supporter of the institution. Every citizen should be a booster of the library and by so doing they will not only be enriched in knowledge, but will show their appreciation of the untiring efforts of those who have laboured in its interests.

—V—

A CHANCE TO HELP

● On Saturday of this week citizens of Stirling and community will be afforded an opportunity to share a little sunshine with those who live in the shadow. We refer to the Tag Day which is being held in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in order to raise money for work amongst the blind in this district.

There are ninety-six blind people in Hastings County registered with the Institute and the campaign is being held that employment may be provided for those blind people who are physically competent to take a place in the industrial or business world. It is to provide braille books, mgazines and talking books for blind people to whom ordinary libraries are no use.

It is to send Home Teachers into the homes of men and women who have lost their sight so that they may learn to read and write braille, to operate the typewriter and to become proficient at some handicraft which will occupy their time and their minds and give them a chance to earn a few dollars. It is to sustain services designed to insure that they suffer no actual hardship.

It is to give them friendly help of an organization interested in their welfare; to assist them with their social and economic problems. It is to make certain that they receive competent medical attention so that, if there is a chance of their sight being restored or improved, that chance is not denied them. It is to make life worth living for them.

Try to realize what blindness means to those whose joyous activity is stricken to inaction.

It is to live long, long days, and life is made up of days. It is to live immured, baffled, impotent, all God's world shut out. It is to sit helpless, defrauded, while your spirit strains and tugs at its fetters, and your shoulders ache for the burden they are denied, the rightful burden of labor.

Here is our opportunity to help and we feel sure that our citizens will not be found wanting when approached by the taggers on Saturday. Help the Blind to help themselves by giving liberally.

BETTER PRICES FOR FARMERS

● "Most reasonable people will admit that the farmer is getting the short end of the deal," says an exchange, in discussing the discrepancy between prices received by the farmers for their produce and the wages being paid workers in industry. If prices of farm products are being held down while no check is placed on the farmer's rising costs of production, how is it possible for him to pay much more for hired help, or to put more capital into cows, sows, feed or machinery? Without adequate returns for farm operations, it is humanly impossible for dairy farmers, particularly, to use their present stock and equipment to full advantage let alone expand stock and equipment for maximum production.

Hon. J. G. Gardner has predicted better prices for the cheese producers, but it is not expected to come into effect until April of next year. The farmers are the backbone of the country and there ought to be the greatest sympathy and support for their efforts to get better returns on their labor and investment.

—V—

PREMIER'S ACTION TIMELY

● Premier Hepburn is to be commended on the prompt and efficient manner in which he and Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor settled the strike at the plant of the Campbell Soup Company in Toronto. When it became apparent that the tomato growers of Kent County were on a fair way to lose their crops through the company's inability to process them, Mr. Hepburn lost no time in appealing to the tomato growers to come to Toronto at the expense and under the protection of the provincial police, to process their own crop. Large numbers of the growers responded and the plant resumed operations at once with the result that they will be able to market their perishable crop. The Premier's vigorous action convinced the strikers of the futility of their action and they returned to work on being assured of a slight increase in pay and other minor concessions, which could have been gained without going on strike.

—V—

THE TIME TO ADVERTISE

● There is nothing on earth so mysteriously funny as a newspaper advertisement. The prime, first, last and all the time, object of an advertisement is to draw custom. It is not, was not, and never will be designed for any other purpose. So that merchant waits till the busy season comes and his store is so full of customers that he can't get his hat off, and then rushes to the newspapers and puts in his advertisement. When the dull season gets along and there is no trade and he wants to sell his goods so bad he can't pay his rent, he takes out his advertisement. That is, some of them do, but occasionally a level-headed merchant puts in a bigger one and scoops in all the business while his neighbors are worrying to pay the bills.

There are times when you couldn't stop people from buying everything in the store if you planted a gun behind the door, and that's the time the advertisement is sent out on its holy mission. It takes light work for the advertisement, for a chalk sign on the sidewalk could do all that was needed and have a half-holiday six days in the week, but who wants to favor an advertisement. They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in dull days when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts and kicked insensible with bankrupt reduction and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of prices before he will spend a cent.

Write this down where you'll fall over it every day. The time to draw business is when you want business, and not when you have more business than you can attend to already.

—V—

● How the things that are none of our business interest us.

—V—

● A successful man is one who is able to make others accept him at his own valuation.

—V—

● "Spend less and save more," is the advice Hon. Mr. Ilsley, Dominion Minister of Finance, gives Canadians. We must give up living and spending as usual if we are to do our share in winning the war. Our country needs the money and we can lend it by buying war Saving Certificates regularly.

—V—

● If reports now current in some sections of the province are confirmed, motorists may have to put their automobiles in storage during the coming winter. The Ontario Department of Highways is said to be considering a proposal that no snowplowing be done on the Highways. Such action would severely penalize the truckers who serve many of the rural municipalities.

—V—

● Some of the strike leaders in Toronto have warned Premier Hepburn that he better be careful where he goes. The danger is minimized by the known fact that where the Premier goes on this issue the people of the province will be with him. And an aroused people form a great bodyguard.—Peterboro Examiner.

—V—

● September brings the Autumn season and the beginning of Autumn marks the resumption of activities by all the local organizations whose activities have been suspended for the summer. Those bodies of interested workers have launched upon another season of labour in the hope that even bigger and better results may be obtained in the coming year. The men of the district are anxiously awiting the opening meeting of the Community Welfare Club, while the various fraternal rganizations have resumed their activities. Let us hope that all these organizatins may meet with much success in their fall and winter meetings.

What Others Say

THE PITY OF IT

It is a pity that most of us travel so far along the road of life before we discover that it is a one-way street If we found that out earlier we should not waste so much time worrying about the past. Don't put your headlamps where your rear light ought to be.—WinchesterPress.

THAT BEGUILING ROSY HUE

Congratulations to the city council of Brantford for having prohibited the use of red netting to cover fruit offered for sale on the city market. The proposer of the bylaw was not far astray when he declared that "the sole purpose of the neting is to "gyp" the public."—Brockville Recorder and Times.

AVOID MUNICIPAL DEBT

There have been two years of war for Canadians with few casualty lists so it is no wonder that the full seriousness of the war hasn't come home yet. But now the casualty lists are growing and the number of recruits will grow, too. Its rather remarkable, under the circumstances, that Canada has already raised about the same number of troops as in the last war.—Fergus News-Argus.

A SOFT JOB

We can think of no softer job in this Country at the present time than to be one of the censors whose duty is to check on the Canadian newspapers for infractions of the regulations. Canadian newspaper publishers have too much stake in their own country to permit any mistakes to be made by publishing matter that would help the enemy.—Trenton, Courier Advocate.

AVOID MUNICIPAL DEBT

All municipal councils would do well to keep within their budgets, particularly during these war years. If we can only keep out of municipal debt now it will be much easier to face the reconstruction period after the war is over and the soldiers are home again looking for jobs which will of necessity be scarce. We are prompted to offer this advice from our reading of town weeklies which come to our desk from week to week, many of which record the over-spending of some of their municipal committees.—Carleton Place Canadian.

KICKERS

The kickers on the farm are not so hard to get along with as the kickers in the town. On the farm there is the kicking cow and our long eared friend, the mule, while in town there is the old mossback who wants all the local improvements without paying for them, and the chronic grouch who is against every improvement. The cow may be sold for beef, the mule traded for a shot-gun, but nothing but a funeral will get rid of the town kicker. —Arnprior Chronicle.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Whether you like it or not, there's plenty of criticism of unemployment insurance everywhere these days. And of all that is printed on the subject, it is the angle that is presented rather than the criticism itself which attracts our attention.

In almost every instance where the subject is brought up, you'll be told how allegedly unfair it is to both men and women who pay into it for years and then, in the former case, go into business for themselves or, in the latter case, marry and get back nothing for what they have paid in.

In all but the two most highly paid classes, the employer contributes more on behalf of the employee than the employee pays for himself. And, averaging all classes, the employer pays considerably more into the fund than the employee does. Yet the employer at no time stands to get any returns for his investment and no one bemoans his plight in print.—Brighton Ensign.

GRACE AT MEALS

The hop-kip-and-jump tempo of our life today is probably the prime cause of the growing neglect of grace at meals. The taking of food has degenerated into a rush job in which even rudimentary conversation has been displaced by speed. Grace has been dropped as a time-taking episode which is all right if you happen to think of it and have more minutes to spare than usual.

Actually the need for a rush at meals is largely imaginary and grows ont of the acceleration in things generally. There are few people who cannot afford the time for grace, and these are days when a little additional thought of the Deity would be good for men's minds.—Niagara Falls Review.

WHO CRAZY NOW

Fashion is a funny thing.

In the days of peace, when silk stocking were readily obtainable, there were a myriad shades but the most popular were those known as flesh tints. The idea, mere men were told, was to obtain a stocking the color of flesh so that nobody would know milady was wearing a stocking.

Today we are at war. Silk stockings threaten to become scarce. Driven by a patriotic desire to save silk, some young ladies are reported to be painting their legs to give the impression they are wearing stockings.

The idea, we suppose, is that the flesh must be painted to look like a stocking that looks like flesh.

Ladies must pardon the gentlemen if this raises a few chuckles from the male sex.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SIX-MONTHS WAR

An amazing number of people have been going about Ottawa in recent days saying that the war is going to be "over in six months." Why these people think and say such a thing we don't know. We think it is precisely the thing Hitler and Goebbels would like us to say and think. It fits in exactly with their hope that we will slacken our efforts.

Talk about the war ending in six months is nonsense; dangerous nonsense. This war may end in six months; but nobody knows that, nor hos information enabling him to say that. It might be said just as reasonably that it will go on for six years.

It would be better to argue six years than six months; the first would be so dangerous. So we had better stop talk that is little more than wishful thinking when it isn't a species of superstition. Superstition and wishful thinking aren't good war weapons.—Ottawa Journal.

« Iran »

With what object has Britain occupied Persia, the country now know as Iran?

Certainly not with aggressive designs against the integrity of the country. Whereas the Nazis confessedly are engaged in aggression for the sake of territorial advantage which may enable them to push forward their schemes of world conquest, the British and the Russians alike have made it specifically clear that their only object is to ensure the freedom of Iran from Nazi domination. (Incidentally, it may be noted here that on February 27, 1921, the Soviet Government made a striking political gesture when, following the establishment of a Soviet Republic in the caucasian province of Gilan, they concluded a treaty cancelling the Persian debt to Czarist Russia, offering to withdraw their troops and renouncing all former Russian concessions in Persia—all this despite the fact that they were in a strong military position. The treaty was an important step towards building up an independent Iranian state and a noteworthy departure from former Imperialist Russian policy.)

That British interest in the integrity of Iran was not a last-minute development of policy due to the progress of the war in Russia is amply demonstrated by the fact that General Wavell was appointed Commander in Chief of India at the very beginning of July; the real significance of that appointment is now plain.

The movement into Iran was made at the present time because of the wide infiltration of Nazi "tourists" and "technicians," preparatory to a familiar Hitlerian coup. For some time now the German staff at Teheran has numbered several hundreds, and, notwithstanding the diminution of German-Iranian trade, the number of Nazis travelling into Persia has been rapidly increasing.

An additional reason for immediate action was recently revealed by the Ankara correspondent of the London Daily Express. On August 22 the German ambassador, who had been doing all he could to persuade the Shah to procrastinate until such time as the Nazis might enter Odessa, promised that Hitler would, at a General Staff meeting to be held on August 24, concert measures for preventing the operation of British troops; he asserted at the same time that Russian forces would not dare to move.

Everything, therefore, was being done to prepare for an early German seizure of the country. Indeed, as Sir Lionel Haworth, former British Resident in Persia, has declared, the whole of Hitler's advance in Southern Russia may be viewed "as a matter of military strategy with Iran as his chief objective."

Iran is far distant alike from Great Britain and the United States; why is it of such great importance at the present juncture?

The situation, to anyone familiar with the geographical position of Persia, is clear. This vast stretch of territory (626,000 square miles) has a frontier with Iraq and Turkey on the west; northwards is adjoins Russia and borders on the Caspian Sea; eastwords its boundary runs along Afghanistan and India; to the south its coastline faces the Persian Gulf down to the Arabian Sea.

Possession of Iran would, accordingly, have put Hitler in a very strong strategical position. He would have cut off communications between Iraq and Russia; he would have come to the gates of India and been part of his way toward affecting a union with Japan; he would have been provided with a base both for operations directed at the Suez Canal and for air-attacks from the rear on Soviet oilfields.

Had the Nazis not been forestalled in their desire to march into Teheran, they would have found some 4,000 miles of first-class motor roads leading to further objectives. Radiating from Teheran northwards are several such roads proceeding to Resht and Bandar Shah on the Caspian; these in turn are connected by a road running along the southern end of that sea. Another road goes north-west to Tabriz, near the Turkish frontier; another to Kermanshah in the west, close to Iraq; another southwards to Bushire, on the Persian Gulf; another to Keran, leading towards Afghanistan and India; another to Meshed, on the way to Russian Turkestan.

The Trans-Iranian Railway goes from Bandar Shah on the Caspian to Bandhar Shahpur near the head of the Persian Gulf. In every large Iranian town the Nazis would have found well-equipped aerodromes and, owing to the nature of the country, other aerodromes could have been constructed almost anywhere.

Above all, Hitler would have found in Persia supplies of that commodity he so desperately needs—oil—for the carrying on of his plans of destruction.

Iran ranks fourth among the world's oil producers (10,367,000 tons in 1939) In July 1940 it was declared that if all the fields were exploited fully, this would be the most important oil-producing country, after the United States, in the world. At present much of the supplies are used by the British naval and military forces in the Middle East. If they had been lost to Hitler, not only would Britain's effort have been hampered, but the Nazis would have been put in command of rich stores wherewith to carry their bombers and their tanks yet further afield.

In acting to prevent Iran's falling into the hands of Hitler, Britain and Russia have thrown up a bulwark against the tide of Nazi aggression. The text of one of the leaflets dropped by the R.A.F. on Iranian towns tells the truth clearly:

"We don't want your food: we will bring food to all who need it as we are doing in Syria. We don't want your goods: we will open your ports to trade as we are doing in Iraq. We come as friends, armed only against a common enemy. The Germans prey on common peoples like starving locusts. From such a fate we are saving you, as we saved Iraq and Syria.

"Soldiers of Iran, we are marching into your country as your friends, doing nothing against your well-being or freedoms. All we want to do is to keep out the accursed Nazis. Our greeting to you is "Peace be with you'; let your reply be 'And on you be peace.'"

The new York Times summarizes the Iranian problem incisively, in a sentence pointing out that the Persians are fortunate that Hitler did not get there first.

LOST 3 FINGERS

Fred Bennett, an employee of Gravlin and Bale Shoe Company, Campbellford, lost three fingers of his right hand in an accident at the plant here this morning. Bennett, who has been working for the Company less than two weeks, is alleged to have suffered the injury when attempting to adjust some sole leather in an automatic cutting machine.

CAN'T ENACT CURFEW

Belleville City Council was informed by its solicitor that it had not the right to enact a curfew by-law due to the fact that the Children's Protection Act takes care of such enactments.

The Children's Protection Act, states that no child unless accompanied by his parents shall loiter on the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening.

Hitler praises the heroism with which his soldiers are fighting, but admits the loss of life is serious. But for the last nine years the young manhood of Germany has been asking for it.

FARM BEAUTIFICATION WORKS, TRANSFORMATION IN FARMS, VILLAGES

A person born in Carleton County, Ontario, returning home after an absence of a few years, could not fail to note the substantial improvements in the appearance of farms, villages, factories and other buildings. There are now few drab or draggletail farms the villages present a better picture of well-ordered beauty than was the case some years ago, and the County has established a model since 1938 for public spirited enterprise in planting human relations in the midst of beautiful surroundings.

All this has not been brought about by chance but is mainly due to the pioneer work of the Carleton Rural Home Beautification Association, with which are affiliated 25 women's institutes and seven horticultural associations. The aim has been to bring about a transformation in the rural districts of the county, and the effort has met with success to a degree beyond the expectation of its founders. The result of this beautification work has recently been emphasized by the publication of the winners of the fourth annual farm beautification competition, in which 139 farm homes and 39 villages took part.

As showing how the beautification scheme is put into effect, an idea may be given by the object of the contest. The farm entries were divided into four contests by townships and the village entries covered the whole county and were judged as one contest. A total of 400 points was given for such items as (a) removal of rubbish and clearing of unsightly spots in fence corners and around buildings, (b) new or repairs to gates and fences, suitable gateway or entrance to farm, and identification of farm by name on mail box or display sign; (c) planting of trees, windbreaks, and shelter belts; (d) planting of flowers and shrubs, and care of lawn; (e) repairing, painting, and general improvement to buildings.

Since the inception of the scheme in 1938, it has been helped by the co-operation of the Ontario Forestry Branch and other Departments of the Provincial Government, also by the Horticultural Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms. Other counties in Ontario and other Provinces, having seen what is being done in Carleton County, are carrying out beautification schemes on similar lines.

HOGS AND PLUMP GRAIN

Two years ago when the grain crop was particularly good in quality, many hogs when marketed showed a tendency of being overfinished. This year the Ontario grain crop is making up in quality what it may lack in quantity. Reports from many sections indicate that oats are weighing up to 40 lb. to the bushel and barley 50 lb. or more. This plump grain makes good feed. The kernels have more meat in them with a lower percentage of fibre. In connection with the high feeding value of this grain, the live stock men of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, fearing a repetition of the overfinish in hogs of two years ago, desire to issue a word of caution to hog feeders. They say that hogs will require less of the good grain to put on proper finish. When skim-milk is not available, tankage or some other protein supplement should be fed to balance the ration. While this caution is given against overfinish, the suggestion is not being made to market the hogs lighter. All hogs should weigh 200 to 210 lb. alive when marketed. The aim should be to have them properly finished in that weight range. So, when the grain is plump and of high quality, it will be necessary to use judgment in feeding it to the hogs to avoid overfinish.

No 'War Fortunes' In Britain

One thing is certain; the rich in Britain are not "making a good thing out of the war."

Before considering the question of taxation, it is important to examine the position of gross wages, salaries and profits.

In certain trades and industries in which wartime demands are much higher than peacetime demands, gross profits have, of course, increased; in others they have fallen. The tendency has been towards greater equality in wages and salaries—even before taxation is taken into account—for many high income earners in peacetime (for example, financiers, barristers, actors) have suffered very great falls indeed, while the ordinary wage earners have received increases in standard rates of pay, are fully employed and in many cases are earning considerable sums in overtime at rates higher than standard hourly rates.

Taxation effects further levelling. The Excess Profits Tax at 100% removes the whole of the additional profit made by trades and businesses as compared with pre-war standards. It is, therefore, impossible for any trade or business to do better out of the war than in the standard years—and it may, of course, do worse.

Income tax and Surtax on the higher incomes are heavy. A married man with earned income of $4,000 pays $1,404.50 if he has no children; $1,304.50 if he has one child; $1,204.50 if he has 2 children. If the income is unearned, the rates are even higher. On an earned income of $40,000 a married man with no children pays $27,330; out of an income of $40,000 only some $12,000 is left.

In order to enjoy a net income of $16,000 a year, a man would have to receive a gross income of about $100,000; to have a net income of $24,000 a year, a man would need a income of over $400,000.

The number of incomes exceeding $400,000 a year just before the outbreak of war was 99, and the total number exceeding $100,000 (including the 99) was 1,437. Very few persons, then, have a net income over $16,000 a year and those with a net income over $24,000 are negligible.

Estate Duty (payable on death) is another means of ensuring that those with high incomes from investments do not benefit by the war. Where the net capital value of an estate is between $400,000 and $480,000, the rate of duty is 26%; and this rate rises to 65% on estates over $8,000,000.

It is obvious that the direct taxation system ensures that a rich man shall make a very large contribution indeed and that the making of "war" fortunes is an impossibility.

BELLEVILLE SOAP BOX DERBY TO BE ABANDONED FOR THE DURATION

Owing to more essential war work, as provided by the National Council of Kinsmen in Canada, the Belleville Kinsmen Club suggested the discontinuation of their annual Canadian championship "Soap Box Derby", for the duration of the war, at least, at their annual autumn conclave. "As National Council has laid down a concrete and rigid war service program our club's civic activities may have to be curtailed somewhat, but in the event the Canadian Soap Box Derby is abandoned for the duration of the war, we hope to revive it later," commented President Gardiner Duff.

The accident occurred shortly after four o'clock Sunday afternoon, six miles northeast of this town on the township road leading to Crow River bridge.

OTTAWA

By Dean Wilson

Gravity of Situation Will Call For Greater Effort

Although it is some time now that Premier King has returned to the capital from the Motherland, yet the main topic of discussion backstage along Parliament Hill seems to be the carry-over of deep impressions and vital decisions which the head of the Government of Canada had obtained in Great Britain. It does not involve a mere sentimental change, but a thorough, first-hand appreciation that this war must entail a far greater effort on the part of the Government and far greater sacrifices on the part o the people of this country before victory can be assured as soon as possible. Indeed, it is said that "surprises" may be expected and what the demands have been so far are nothing but a light foretaste of the future.

Expansion of Services

It has become known in Ottawa that the superior authority and broad powers that have been given to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to maintain control over prices of necessities of life and other commodities will cause this official body to establish branch offices in the various provinces throughout Canada, probably located in the provincial capitals. This will allow better supervision by the Federal authorities over the boards in each provinces which regulate on such matters.

Data of Great Value.

Although the decennial census of Canada, which was carried out in June was considered by the man-in-the-street as unnecessary in wartime, yet it is disclosed in the nation's capital that it will prove of even greater value on account of the war than it would have been possible in peacetime, especially for the social, industrial, and other problems of everyday life in this country's adjustment to the rapidly changing conditions. Moreover, Canada's population is not only reaching the twelve million mark but it is shown that the urban growth is exceeding the rural growth, particularly in the larger cities and towns, though the increase is not normal right now, since it is due to abnormal influx of war workers in certain centers, such as Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Vancouver, etc. In the Province of Quebec, the rural and urban record of large families is sustained.

Hints Given That Impendent Taxation And Financial Problems are Serious

It may not be realized by the man-in-the-street in this country but in well-informed circles on Parliament Hill it is recognized now that Canada is faced with a tremendous financial problem as the cost of war becomes greater and greater in the inevitable increase of tempa, calling for new financial measures and for new policies which will discourage certain outlays as well as encourage other restrictive actions. Indeed, it can be reported that there is no guarantee for the future that the present policies or measures of expenditure and revenue will balance all accounts and this implies that there is a stronger possibility that at the first opportunity when Parliament reassembles, new financial actions may be taken even in advance of the regular Budget, which was done last year, particularly to encourage needed saving and to discourage needless spending in order to provide the Government with the greatest possible amount for war purposes. There have been many hints or warnings lately in the capital that the war programme must be financed regardless of its serious implications in the everyday life of every man, women and child in this country and this is an illusion of what the man-in-the-street may expect. The actual cost of the war has been amounting at an almost unbelieveably rate. From September 10, 1939 until March 31, 1940, only $118,000,000 was spent, but in the next fiscal year it was $800,-cal year it was $800,000,000, with the outlay from April 1, 1941 until the end of last month being at least $426,000,-000. This means that about $1,400,-000,000 has been spent by Canada as the third year of war is started. This is for Canada's account only, and when the financial facilities provided in this country for Britain amounting to $1,100,000,000, are considered the total war costs reach the figure of $2,500,000,000 for a population of about 12,000,000.

Aid For Canadian Farmers

As a direct result of the efforts of the Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agricultural, the Canadian farmers will receive a higher rate for furnishing bacon to the United Kingdon getting for the best grade 45 cents per hundred weight, more than under the existing agreement since the new 600,000,000 pounds contract provides a payment of $19.77 for the best grade instead of $19.32 per hundred weight It is also learned in Ottawa that the huge transactions in bacon hogs may call for some re-adjustments in packing facilities since the biggest production of hogs is in the West and the largest plants are in the East.

AGRICULTURE MARCHES WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

Behind the lines where men and women are risking life to defend home and country, men and women are toiling to supply the materials of war—ships, planes, tanks, guns. These manufacturers—management and workers alike—are thus fighting shoulder to shoulder with our armed forces.

But what about the farmers? They are doing a work of equal importance. They too are marching to battle, by toiling early and late to persuade nature to increase the food supply on which the issues of the fight so greatly depend. The farmer marches side by side with the soldier and his armourer.

Farmers who are doing their bit to help Canada's all-out war effort may find it necessary to borrow money at the Bank. You should not hesitate to discuss your requirements with our nearest branch manager. Your business will be regarded as strictly confidential.

Fighting for right,
Thine is the power, Lord,
Thine is the might;
Keep Thou our loved ones,
Hear when we call,
Bring them safe home again,
Father of all.

Bless Thou our sailors,
Out on the deep,
Stand at the helm, Lord,
Guard those who sleep,
In the night watches
Hear when they call,
Guide and protect them,

A very pleasant evening was spent on Thursday, September 4th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood McCoy when about 80 friends and neighbours met in honour of their recent marriage.

After the presentation of two wicker chairs, fernery, magazine rack and smoking stand and several other gifts a dainty lunch was served.

The following address was read by Miss Alma Moorcroft.

Dear Durwood and Josephine:

Your friends and neighbours of this community have invaded your home to-night, to extend our heartiest congratulations on your recent marriage.

We have known you Durwood, all your life, and are safe in saying have found you true and always willing to help in any way you were called upon and to you Josephine, who is not a complete stranger to most of us, we are very happy to extend a glad hand of welcome and as the days go by, may your lives both shed an influence of good on all with whom you come in contact.

Life can be compared to a river,
Following along to the sea.
You have launched your lives to-gether,
And you wonder what they will be
Should clouds arise, we grant that they,
With silver may be lined.
But quickly vanish even those
Leaving no trace behind.
And happy may your voyage be,
With sunshine all along,
To brighten both your paths and make
Your lives one grand sweet song.
May God's blessing rest upon you
And your life be Heaven on earth
As you use and look on our presents
Think of us and not of its worth.

After the guests arrived Rev. S. A. R. Delve, B. A., of Ivanhoe, called the gathering to order and a short program consisting of violin selections, readings, solos and piano and according music followed a brief address by Rev. Mr. Delve. The bride and groom were seated in the spacious dining room and the following address was read.:

To Mr. and Mrs. Durwood McCoy,

Dear Josephine and Durwood:

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we meet here to-night to extend to you our congratulations and hearty good wishes.

Again we extend to you our good wishes for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

Signed on behalf of the community, Norma Sarles, Lela Johnston, Edna Tanner, Ida Clements.

Canada At War

This is the first of a series of five articles written by Bruce M. Pearce, editor of The Simcoe Reformer, for member papers of the Canadian weekly Newspapers Association, in connection with the recent tour of Eastern Canada military camps, munitions plants, R. C. A. F. Schools and naval yards, made by a group of prominent weekly, daily and trade newspaper editors and publishers... The first article is general in nautre, summarizing impressions of the trip and outlining the various highlights encountered en route. Subsequent articles will deal with the Army, the War Industries, the R.C.A.F. and the Navy.

By M. M. P.

On the morning of August 23rd last a group of nearly fifty representative Canadian newspapermen assembled in Hamilton to commence a journey precedent in Canadian journalism.

On the night of August 31st eight days later, they arrived in Montreal to complete the last leg of a trip which had taken them to the Atlantic coast and given them a complete panorama of the great war giant which is rapidly taking form in Canada.

Sponsored by the Department of National Defence, the tour was initiated primarily to give the editors an insight into Canada's military and industrial activity and to provide them with an enlightened conception of what is actually taking place in this country, with the thought that they would then be able to discuss more intelligently in their columns the various phases of Canada's war enterprise.

That the editors gladly embraced this unique opportunity may be taken for granted. Heretofore they had known all to little of the inside story of the huge machine which constitutes Canada's contribution to the fight against Hitlerism. On being in a position to inform their readers, the majority were inclined to give voice to the growing impatience on the part of Canadians at the apparent lack of all-out effort. Until the fall of France in June, 1940, it is probably true that Canada had done all too little. That is no longer true today. The truth is that Canada is rapidly shaping a formidable war machine that will have a notable part in licking Hitler. In the short space of eight days, the Canadian editors were treated to a spectacle that not only literally opened their eyes but inspired pride and strengthened faith in the part that Canada is playing and will play on an ever-growing scale in aiding the Mother Country.

Everything Wide Open

Everything was thrown wide open to the prying eyes of insatiably curious editors. Nothing was held back. We had with us Brigadier Kenneth Stuart, D.S.O., Vice-Chief of the General Staff, together with distinguished representatives of every branch of the service, including the Department of Munitions and Supply, as well as G. Herbert Lash, Director of Public Information and J. W. G. Clark, Director of Public Relations for Army and R.C.A.F., and members of their staffs. Their policy was that every bit of available information should be forthcoming. And it was. Nor did they place any restrictions on the contents of our stories aside from the well-known rules of censorship.

Not only did these men utilize every waking moment to answer the million questions lovelled at them by their guests, but they made sure that every Camp Commandant, every factory head and every officer revealed the whole show and held nothing back. At Ottawa the editors were entertained at a dinner at which Hon. J. L. Ralston, Hon. C. D. Howe and Hon. C. G. Power were the principal speakers. The general impression was that these men were sincerely trying to do a job. They were frank in admitting their mistakes and Hon. Mr. Ralston declared that one chief mistake was in having failed heretofore in letting the light flood into editorial minds that their readers, the Canadian public, might know the true story of this country's war achievement.

A Real Achievement

It is an achievement, too, as these articles aim to tell, not just an effort, a word that fails to give the true emphasis. We would also add that not once throughout the entire eight-day pilgrimage was the word 'politics' heard. The men who were our hosts were far too intensely absorbed in the vital task of sharpening Canada's tools of war to worry for a moment about politics. It was one of the lasting impressions of the trip that these men, many of them dollar-a-year public servants, were out to do a job for Canada, that they were sparing neither strength nor talent to perform that service, and that they were admirably fitted for the key posts which they occupied. The same applies to the industrial leaders, the military camp commandants, the chiefs of the navy and air force, with whom we come in contact. They gave the impression of being on top of their job and they inspired confidence by their brisk, alert and confident bearing. Many Canadian editors are resting more easily as a result of those contracts.

Not a Joyride

Where did we go? What did we see? What did we learn in those eight days? If any reader has the impression that it was simply a joy-ride at government expense, we can only say that it was the most strenuous joyride that most of those editors had ever experienced. From 8 a.m. until late at night we were walking miles through military camps, in and out of barracks, machine shops and airdromes, through huge munitions factories, naval dockyards and arsenals. We were bounced over hill and dale in trucks, tractors, carriers, blitz buggies and many other of those frightening vehicles which form the mechanized and armoured army of 1941. (We saw not a single horse except on a back street in Halifax and we learned that only nine horses remain in the Canadian army and they are headed for the glue factory). We were driven about in open army trucks in weather that penetrated to the marrow; we were embussed and debussed until we loathed the sight of a bus; we were thumped by depth charges tossed from a destroyer on the broad Atlantic; we travelled some 3,000 miles by train and were finally disembarked in Montreal on a Sunday night in the midst of a downpour of rain. We forgave all except the sharp nudge of a heartless porter every morning at 6.30 a.m. Yes, a joy-ride indeed!

Highlights of the Tour

In concluding this initial article, just an outline of a few unforgettable highlights. There was the astonishing demonstration of tracked or armoured fighting vehicles and wheeled passenger or load-carrying vehicles at the General Motors proving ground near Oshawa, featuring movement over the roughest ground which put the machines to the sternest test and which proved convincingly that Canadian industrial genius is prepared to meet the challenge of mechanized warfare. There was the nocturnal visit to the National Steel Car plant at Hamilton where thousands om men are turning out artillery and anti-aircraft shells, with the largest output of any similar factory in the British Empire. There was a Sunday morning preview of that remarkable exhibit by the Department of Munitions and Supply at the Canadian National Exhibition, giving a vivid portrayal of the achievement of Canada's war industries. At the Inglis Plant in Toronto, apart from viewing the production of Bren guns in full swing, we were addressed by Major Hahn, who earlier in the war was severely maligned by some sections of the press, but whose enterprise and ingenuity have created one of the most integral units in Canada's war machine.

Tanks, Planes, Guns

On we travelled to Camp Borden and Petawawa, names inseparably linked with the Great War, but which have undergone tremendous change and expansion in the past year, where Canada's armed might were provided. In Montreal a procession of Canada's new tanks roared up and down the street in front of the all-Canadian factory in which they were produced, while at the Fairchild aircraft plant we watched huge bombers being constructed and assembled from start to finish. Then there was the memorable morning at Sorel where the magnificent new 25-pounder artillery guns are being forged and where corvettes are coming off the stocks at a rapid clip, all under direction of the now-famous Simard brothers, whom we had the privilege of meeting. On to Valcartier, another name imperishably associated with the days of 1914-18, where we met French-Canadian officers and men and gained new insight into the military situation in Quebec. Then to Debert, that great new military camp hewed from the backwoods of Nova Scotia, final training point for Canadian troops bound for England. Lastly, Halifax, a story in itself, where the great pulse of Canada's war activity beats at an accelerating pace and where we rode one of the fifty American destroyers to sea and dined at Admiral House with the Commodore and his staff. To many other places we journeyed, many new acquaintances made and stirring stories heard. Here a man from Dunkirk, another from the sunken Fraser, one who had just flown from England or another about to board a bomber for the Old Land, heroes of the Battle of Britain and men from London who had lived and worked through the blitz.

In succeeding articles we will try to tell the story of Canada's army, navy and air force, of the turning wheels and spinning lathes that are writing a new and glorious chapter in Canada's history and which may revolutionize the Dominion's entire future. Certain it is that since the fall of France a little more than one year ago a miracle has been wrought. While Canadians fumed impatiently, the keen brains of Canada's military and industrial leaders were working night and day to draft the blueprint of Canada's magnified war machine and to set in motion the wheels that would make her contribution to the Empire cause one of which every Canadian may rightly be proud.

(Article No. 2 next week will deal with Canada's Army.)

Artful

An Englishman was walking along a river bank in Ireland when it started to rain. Presently he found an Irishmen fishing with his line under a bridge.

"Why," he asked, "have you got your line like that?"

"Sure, yer honor," replied the angler, "won't the fishes be crowdin' in out of the wet?"

.....

Certainly Not

Private: "Doctor!"

Medical Officer: "Well?"

"Of course not. Would I come to you if I were?"

Perfect

Tommy was doing penance in the corner. Presently he thought aloud, pensively:

"I can't help if I'm not perfect," he complained. "I never heard of more than one perfect boy, anyhow."

"Who was that?" asked his mother, thinking to point out a moral.

"Papa," came the reply, "when he was little."

Vital Questions

"How many in your family, lady?"

"Just my husband and I."

"No children?"

"No."

"Any cats or dogs?"

"No, sir."

"Do you have a radio?"

"No."

"Now, have you any musical instruments?"

"Indeed not. And why, if I may ask, all the questions? Is the government taking another census?"

"No, lady. I'm not a census enumerator. I'm just the man who intends to rent the house next door."

Same Job

Quite a pile of shoes surrounded the customer, and the assistant was looking very worrier. So the manager called him aside.

"What's the trouble?" he snapped.

"Can't you satisfy that customer?"

"No, sir," said the assistant, sadly. "He trying to find a pair of shoes which squeak in the same key."

Not Curious?

"That woman at No. 26 always asks me the price of anything new I'm wearing," complained Mrs. Jones. "Rather cheek, don't you think?"

"I do," agreed Mrs. James. What's she been trying to find out now?"

"She's just asked me how much I paid for this hat."

"What an inquisitive creature she must be," said Mrs. James;" and how much did it really cost you, dear?"

First Worry

Wife: "Your cough has been worrying me so much that I have got somebody to see you?"

Husband: "The Doctor"

"No, dear. The man from the insurance company."

A Kansas City man visited his creditor the other day and said, "Are you worried about whether I can meet my note next month?"

"Yes, I am," confessed the creditor.

"Good," said the client. "That's what I'm paying you six per cent for."

- THE WEEKLY NEWS -

BY MURDIE McDONALD

Requests are pournig into the Dominion Minister of Labour to come down from his Ivory Tower and deal in a forthright manner with agitators who are fomenting strikes and stirring up unrest among munition workers at a time when an all out effort is required to ensure victory and safeguard democracy. While most things are being subordinated to the manufacture of war materials, the strike at the plant of the Compbell Soup Company in New Toronto hits directly at tomato producers throughout the Province and may lead to much hardship. Tomatoes are a perishable commodity and the fear is expressed crops will rot in the fields unless marketed soon. The Campbell Company has ceased accepting tomatoes since the strike. This Company enters into a contract each year with growers in several sections of the Province, but has a clause in the contract relieving it of responsibility in the event of strikes. The suggestion was made at a meeting in Chatham of tomato growers of Essex and Kent that they send substitute workers to the Campbell plant to replace the strikers. Instead of adopting this course the growers decided to send a delegation to the Ontario Government seeking aid in what they regarded as a very critical situation. The plea of the growers met with a prompt response from Premier Hepburn. He instructed the producers to come to the Toronto plant at Government expense and process their own tomatoes. Not only would the Government pay their expenses but would provide them ample police protection and brook no intimidation or interference with them by pickets or sympathizers. The farmers were quick to accept the Premier's offer and already substitute workers are busy at the Campbell plant and will be housed by the Company. It is estimated fully fifty carloads of tomatoes have already gone to waste as a result of the strike but a valiant attempt will be made to save the eight thousand to ten thousand tons of tomato crop still in the fields or in the hands of the growers. This is not the first time Premier Hepburn has tilted with the C.I.O., under whose sponsorship the strike has been engineered.

There was every evidence of heavy and stormy weather at the Convention of the Canadian Congress of Labour at Hamilton last week. It was a time as Thomas Hood said, "for mariners to keep a wary eye with such a dark conspiracy between the sea and sky." With malcontent slowdowners from Cape Breton coal-fields and adherents of the seamen's Union and the C.I.O. on the one hand and moderate unionists on the other, the leaders had to have their eyes on the helm at all times to keep the ship on anything like an even keel. The malcontents demanded release immediately of all Anti-Fascists workers interned under the Wartime regulations, with special reference to certain key-men, Pat Sullivan of the Seaman's Union and C.S. Jackman, who organized the Electrical Workers strike, among the number. The moderates adroitly circumvented this by adopting a motion calling for a fair and just trial for members of the Trade Union movement now interned, also for the safeguarding of the rights of free speech and association. No fair-minded man could cavil at this proposed amendment to the Defence of Canada Regulations which was followed up by a resolution urging the speeding up and co-ordination of necessary forms of production to supply and strengthen Britain and her allies.

The recent sharp advance in the price of cheese will soon, practically speaking, render it unnecessary to call upon Canadians to refrain from eating cheese in order that the hard-pressed people of Britain may be assured of their agreed quota, 112,000,000 pounds or more. The price will be quite sufficient to restrict domestic buying as cheese in Ontario last week was retailing at almost double what the commodity commanded a year ago. All Canadian cheese products since May 26th last have been shipped overseas to meet the demands of the United Kingdom and unless Government rulings are relaxed this practice will continue indefinitely. Normally Canada consumes about 40,000,fi000 pounds of cheese annually.

On every hand there is indication of inflation despite the strenuous efforts of the Government to combat it. This applies to products vitally required by farmers although consumers in the urban domestic field are perhaps more severely affected. Prices of hay and straw in Ontario are anywhere from $1.00 to $5.00 a ton higher than at this time last year although there was a pronounced shortage in 1940. The authorities have placed a ban on the export of hay except under license. Fortunately the deficit in the hay crop will be partially offset by a bountiful yield of corn. Arrangements are under way for the shipment, under favourable freight rates, to Ontario of coarse grain from the West which will be required for feed if the demand from Great Britain for bacon and cheese is to be met.

W.M.S. Rally Held at W. Huntingdon

This section of Kingston Presbytery held a woman's Missionary Society Rally which included Tweed Auxiliary, Madoc, Stirling, Burnbrae and W. Huntingdon on Sept. 10 in St. Andrew's Church. Although the weather was unfavorable a good attendance was present. Mrs. Wm. Shaw, sectional president, presided over the afternoon program which commenced with soft music played by Mrs. Gardner Welsh. The opening hymn was sung and the president offered prayer. The Scripture lesson was read and Mrs. John Wallace gave a short address on the reading. Mrs. Wm. Benson extended a very kindly welcome to the visiting auxiliary members and Mrs. (Rev. McKay of Burnbrae spoke briefly in reply. At this time the aim of the meeting was explained and a vice-president and secretary were elected. Mrs. Hutchins of Burnbrae, the vice president and Mrs. J. C. Sills, secretary.

The Auxiliary roll was called by the secretary with the response—"An item of interest from the foreign field" Auxiliary, financial, membership and program planning reports were given and discussed. Mrs. John McCafferty offered prayer. Mrs: (Rev.) Hunter of Madoc gave an interesting and beneficial talk on "Highlights of the Provincial W.M.S. meeting." The musical contributions were much appreciated and enjoyed. Mrs. Milton Shaw gave a solo "On His Wings". Mrs. (Rev.) Walker and Mrs. Roy Eggleton of Stirling gave a duet "Jesus is Waiting and Willing." Mrs. Taylor gave as a solo "Jesus is My Nearest Neighbor."

Mr. Walker, Mr. McKay and Mr. Hunter extended greetings and the meeting adjourned with a hymn, prayer by Mr. Walker and the National Anthem. The ladies of St. Andrew's Auxiliary served a cup of tea with sandwiches and cookies.

Mr. Fred Elliott met with a painful accident on Tuesday while cranking a gas engine, which he was using for running a milking machine. It backfired and the result was that Mr. Elliott's right arm was broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McTaggart of Flat Rock, Mich., were recent guests of Mr. Sam Fargey and David and Mrs. Lottie Vanderwater.

Mr. Alex McCurdy, Jr. is attending Lindsay fair and visiting with friends at Lindsay.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Murphy, of Stirling, called on Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Sadler and Mrs. Civilla Green, on Sunday evening.

Miss Molly McAvoy left for Stirling on Tuesday after spending a couple of weeks as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Leo McCauley.—Frankford Advocate.

Hitler's Europe

Hitler, in his pronouncement at the end of two years of war, claims to speak for "Europe" promising a "fruitful, peaceful and harmonious collaboration between all peoples of the European continent. "Europe," comments a Berlin spokesman, "does not desire" any interference with its being "and will not tolerate it," from Britain or from America.

Of what Europe does Hitler speak? The answer was given on September 1 in a programme broadcast to the United States from London. In this programme King Haakon spoke for Norway; King Peter for Yugoslavia; General Sikorski for Poland; Hubert Pierlot for Belgium; Pieter Gerbrandy for Holland; Jan Masaryk for Czechoslovakia; C. H. Simopoulos for Greece; J. Bech for Lluxembourg.

In the air Polish and Czechoslovak flyers are daily blasting the Reich; gallant Norwegian and Dutch sailors are defying the U-boats on the high seas; soldiers of Yugoslovia, Belgium, Free France and Greece are battling the forces of Naziism. In every country unrest is rife; execution follows execution.

The "Europe" of which Hitler speaks is solely the "Europe" of his paranoiac dreams—a place from which such brave men have been utterly exterminated, a place peopled by none save subservient Quislings, Lavals and Darlans, a land filled with ultimate world-domination by a bloated German Reich.

RUSSIAN GUERILLAS' PLEDGE OF DEATH

Operating behind the German lines from the Baltic to the Black Sea, Russian guerilla bands have struck blow on blow at Nazi communications—destroying bridges, attacking isolated units, leaving to German columns nothing but the devastation of a scorched earth.

In furtherance of their campaign, members of the guerilla bands, according to Russian papers, have taken this pledge of death before surrender:

"I, a citizen of the great Soviet Union, a faithful son of (name of Republic), swear that I will not lay down my weapons until the last Fascist in our land is destroyed. I swear to obey the orders of my commanders and to keep strict military discipline. I swear to take unmerciful revenge for the destruction of our towns and villages, for the death of our children, for the tortures, violence and humiliation inflicted upon my people. Blood must be repaid by blood and death by death. I swear to assist the Red Army in every posible way, to destroy the enemy without sparing my efforts or even my life. I swear that I would rather die than surrender to the enemy and that I will not let my people be enslaved by the bloodthirsty Fascists. Should I, through weakness, cowardice or evil designs break this solemn oath and betray the interests of my people, may I die a shameful death at the hands of my comrades."

STIRLING FAIR PROVED A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

about the same as last year, C. U. Heath, Harold; L. Carr, Morganston, and Don Heath, of Harold, being the main exhibitors.

J. D. Keeble, C. Hoard, were the main exhibitors in the poultry class.

The horse exhibit was smaller than usual because as one exhibitor put it "farmers are handicapped by the labor shortage and haven't time to bring their animals to the Fair." However, the high standard of quality of the annual exhibit was maintained. Prominent among the exhibitors were Cecil Ketcheson, Holloway; Harold Thompson, West Huntingdon; Messrs. V. Heath and Fry, Campbellford, and Geo. Sutherland, Stirling.

Exhibits Well Arranged

The exhibits in the main building were well arranged so that every article was clearly displayed and while the number of entries was perhaps not as great in some departments as other years, the quality was excellent. Prominent among the exhibitors were Ivan Caldwell, Stirling; Clem Ketcheson, Sidney, and J. D. Keeble. In the fruit section, Clem Ketcheson and Wm. Fitchett were the main exhibitors.

Ladies' Work

The handiwork of the ladies was also on display in the main building, including all those articles dear to the feminine mind, and exemplified the cleverness of milady. Prominent among the exhibitors in these classes were Mrs. Don Heath, Miss Gena Spry, Mrs. Gordon Bailey, Mrs. L. E. Byrant, of Wooler, Mrs. F. Moon, Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell, Miss Ileen MacMullen, Mrs. Ross Ketcheson and Mrs. J. D. Keeble.

Splendid Flowers

Horticulturists of the community made one of the most striking exhibits in the show building. Their entries covered a long table near the entrance to the building and covered practically every type of flower. This fine exhibit drew the admiring glances of hundreds of spectators.

A Frigidaire exhibit and a car exhibit by Stirling Motor Sales were the only manufacturers exhibits in the main building, but W. T. Elliott and F. Stapley, local agents had a display of mechanical farm machinery on the grounds.

The Races

The trotting races fell below expectations, with only one race filling owing to several fairs in the district on the same date. However, close finishes characterized the three heats, with Axworthy Grattan, owned by Morgan & Lloyd, Campbellford, winning first money.

Axworthy Gratton 1 1 1
Rosedale (Pacey) Roseneath 2 2 2
Silver Jane (Reid) Thomasburg 3 3 3
Cactus Star (Garrison) Frankford 4 4 4

Time: 2.22; 221½; 2.24.
Starter—R. Turley, Frankford.
Clerk—H. E. Hulin.

A feature of the afternoon performance was Brown Bros. Rythym "Buckaros", Canada's Youngest Old Tyme Orchestra and Entertainers, who entertained a large section of the crowd with their interpretation of old time and modern song hits and dance numbers.

Sports

Running Race—Bob Farrell, Ross Heath and Norman Bassett.

Pony Race—Maurice Faulkner, Ed. Richardson, Ralph Tanner.

Quick Hitch—L. Thackeray, Roseneath; A. Raycroft, Warkworth.

Bicycle Races

Boys, 15 and under—Gerald Scott, Ed. Richardson, D. Wannamaker.

Boys, 15 and over—Gordon Richardson, Don McGowan and Vincent Ryan.

Girl's Race—Marie Gay, Margaret Haggerty, Geraldine McLeaming.

Concert at Night

Stirling Theatre was almost filled in the evening when Brown Bros. staged a lengthy program of music, magic and old-tyme dance numbers.

Topping the day's fun was a dance held in the Community Hall, where another large crowd enjoyed the entertainment provided by the Fair Board. Here again the Brown Bros. Orchestra supplied music for round and square dancing, which was enjoyed to the wee small hours.

The Fair as a whole was a splendid success, with the proceeds being much higher than last year. All the arrangements, in charge of the various committees, were well carried out, and the program of events was run off in good order by Thos. W. Solmes, who acted as master of cermonies, throughout. President Hatton and his directors are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

ON LAST LAP CANADIANS TOLD

Sqdn. Ldr. H. W. Kerby of Toronto, in his first message as commanding officer of a Royal Canadian Air Force Army Co-operation Squadron, told his officer, N.C.O.'s and airmen that "we have been struggling for a long time to reach a goal." and "I feel we are on the last lap now."

"I'm counting on your co-operation and you can count on mine to bring us along that lap with increasing power until we cross the tape of victory," said the message which appeared in "Wings Abroad," the squadron's bimonthly magazine.

Sqdn. Ldr. Kerby who is a son of R. Kerby, of Toronto, and a nephew of Mrs. A. E. Dobbie, a former resident, here.

After twenty minutes in a gloomy public shelter, the young man and his pretty companion came back into the daylight.

"Do you know, darling," he whispered, tenderly, "if I'd known we were going to be so long down there in the dark, I'd have kissed you."

The maiden raised her blushing face to his.

"Wasn't it you?" she asked in surprise.

When the old grandfather of a German family died his sorrowing relatives put the usual announcement in the local newspaper.

It ran:

"Ernest Muller has been called to a better world."

And next day they were arrested for criticizing the Nazi regime.

Sidney Township School Fair

Program of Choral Readings, Dances, Choruses, Etc. —Good Display of Exhibits

Friday, September 19th, proved to be an ideal day for the School Fair at Wallbridge, in which the 18 schools of Sidney Township participated.

The Fair was officially opened by the Raising of the Flag, the Salute and the National Anthem; after which Mr. Wilson, of Wallbridge, gave a short address, stressing what the Flag means to us in these trying times.

Miss Flora Macdonald conducted the singing of the first two verses of Kipling's "Land of Our Birth." Then the crowd dispersed, many finding their way to the hall where a fine program of choruses, folk dances, rhythm bands, choral readings and impromptu speeches was presented under the chairmanship of H. J. Clarke, B.A., former Inspector of Sidney schools, who was introduced by Inspector J. R. Pickering, of Belleville.

Immediately after lunch the Physical Culture display was directed by Mrs. Osterhout, with eight pupils from each school taking part. Pupils from various schools demonstrated Group Games suitable for the playground. Then several girls from Miss Sharpe's school demonstrated simple steps in First Aid, based on the St. John's Ambulance Course.

Many fine exhibits and projects were on display in the church shed, evidencing the variety of interests now available to scholars. We were sorry to note that fewer parents were present this year than on some occasions. This is the children's fair. It is true, but its success also depends largely on the interest and encouragement shown by the parents.

The results of the numerous contests and exhibits were as follows:

HAVE YOU KEPT YOUR PLEDGE

● There are several features of the War Savings movement that bear constant reiteration, not the least of which deals with the various pledge forms used for regular subscriptions to War Savings Certificates. Current reports indicate that these are not being maintained. Last spring when the public school children of the village were making weekly sales of war savings stamps throughout the village over two hundred dollars per month was being realized But with the coming of the holiday season the sales have gradually dropped until at the present time only a nominal amount is being forwarded to the Dominion Government each month.

The question is "Why?" Is it because those who pledged the purchase of war saving certificates or stamps are lacking in respect for their pledged word, or is it just a matter of carelessness in neglecting to visit the post office to make the purchase? We believe the latter to be the true reason but irrespective of whether the pledge is for $1 or $40 per month, it is still a pledge and should be honoured.

War Savings is definitely a part of Canada's war effort. It is designed as a stabilizer of our war-time economy, to dampen the mad whirl of useless spending, to create savings and encourage thrift, and to divert buying power to the government for war purposes.

As part of our war effort we cannot afford to be casual or irregular in our support of the movement. Neglected pledges are dangerous from two particular points of view. They weaken the war effort and one failure leads to another, resulting in a consequent deterioration of public morale.

The grim and ever widening struggle in which we are engaged is, in reality, a conflict between two ways of life. If we cannot maintain the sanctity of our pledged word, we cannot maintain our way of life.

IT PAYS TO BE CAREFUL

● The opening of the duck shooting season in this district is only a few days away, and many hunters will be hieing themselves away to their favourite hideouts along rivers and lakes to indulge in their favourite sport. Once again we embrace the opportunity to urge hunters to take all the known precautions to avoid accidents.

Year after year numerous fatalities are recorded, all of which might be avoided if those who enjoy this type of sport would remember to exercise care. In every case human carelessness is the prime cause of a hunter being maimed or killed. The prevention is simple. It requires only that those carrying loaded weapons should always remember to stop, look and make sure. Don't walk behind a companion with a cocked gun pointing toward him, don't grab a gun by the muzzle and pull it toward you from a boat, or when crawling under a fence, and don't shoot before you are certain there is no person in the line of fire. We would ask all local and district hunters to keep these few don'ts in mind. It were much bet'er that you return from the hunt empty-handed than to suffer mental anguish throughout your remaining days, because you were directly responsible for the loss of a human life.

OVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR

● Stirling Fair has come and gone for another year and enjoyed slightly better results than in past years. Due to conflicting dates with other fairs in the district, the attendance, although larger than last year, was not as large as the weather and the programme warranted.

While the exhibits were not so numerous as in other years, the quality was excellent. The main building which housed the grain and seeds, roots and vegetables, domestic science and ladies' work, cheese and fruit exhibits, as well as the Horticultural Society, Manual Training and Home Economics exhibits of Public and High Schools, drew a large crowd of spectators throughout the afternoon.

In the cattle classes the "Black and White" exhibit was one of the finest ever seen in this district, while the usual number of entries were to be found in the grades. The horse exhibits were not as large as usual but the quality of those shown was excellent. The program in front of the grandstand, featuring the Brown Bros. old tyme orchestra and entertainers, met with popular acclaim. Unfortunately there was not enough race horses present to give the race fans their usual thrills but this situation will be remedied another year by the Directors.

The Directors, under President C. I. Hatton, had worked hard for several months to make the Annual Fair a success and every department of the programme was carried off without a hitch. These men have given of their time and energy at no thought of personal gain, for the advancement of a community enterprise, and they are to be congratulated upon their willingness to work for the good of the community. The thanks of the citizens are due them.

PAYING INCOME TAX OUT OF INCOME

● For many years people have been paying Income Tax in a lump sum annually or by installments with interest. Now, with the number of income tax payers as well as Income Tax rates substantially increases, the Dominion Government has provided a method of payment out of income, which has enabled thousands to shoulder the added burden without financial embarrassment. Devised through the urgency of war financing, the plan is one which is so sound that people say to themselves, "Why did we not think of this before?"

To gain the benefits of this instalment payment plan, the first instalment of 1941 tax must be paid in September, 1941. Those who paid the tax for 1941 will pay one-twelfth of the 1940 total during each of the last four months of this year, and in January they will estimate their total tax payable at the new rates. By subtracting from this the amount already paid and dividing the remainder by eight, they will know how much to pay each month during the eight months of 1942, January to August inclusive.

Some are called to fight our battles, others merely to pay for them. These taxes must be collected to provide for the war effort. The government anticipates a record volume of business in tax offices during September, in dealing with those who wish to take advantage of this modern, sensible way to discharge their obligations. Only by commencing to pay in September can this plan be followed.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

● By Proclamation of His Excellency the Governor General of Canada, the week of October 5th to 11th has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week. This week provides an annual occasion to impress upon public consciousness the enormous cost of the fire waste, to the end that conditions may be improved and fire carelessness reduced.

The world has now passed through two years of the second Great War and we have all read accounts of the devastation and havoc that has been wrought by means of incendiary and high explosive bombs and we have been shocked by the details of such accounts. Yet in the twenty-one years since Fire Prevention Week was first established in Canada, this country has recorded more than 863,000 fires involving a property loss of over $749,000,000 and a loss in human lives of more than 7,969. Our complacency in this regard is only matched by the complacency with which we watched Hitler attain power.

Fire is no respecter of persons. Every man has a responsibility towards his neighbours and that responsibility should cause every right-thinking person to pause and consider what he owes the community in which he lives. We owe it to ourselves but in a greater degree to our fellow-citizens to permit no condition to exist upon our premises that will invite a visitation of fire. A great majority of fires are so easy to prevent that it is certainly a moral crime to tolerate the things which bring them about.

Cities and towns, like individuals, reap what they sow. To permit the erection of fire-traps, to fail to provide an abundant and reliable water supply and means of using it or to fail to apply the everyday rules of fire prevention, is to constantly face a menace of heavy fires and sweeping conflagrations.

Why tolerate a condition which not only levies tribute upon life and property but in effect imposes an added cost to the conduct of every feature of business activity and increases the burden of the people in providing the necessities of life.

We cannot afford to go on and be indifferent to it all. Fire Prevention Week is a particular week set aside to call attention to the menace of fire. And just as we must throw our whole strength against the forces which aim to destroy our liberty, so should we be prepared to battle that other terrible demon—Fire. Fire Prevention during wartime is an inescapable patriotic duty. Every fire means the using of possible vital resources to restore the burned property. Let us make Fire Prevention a 52-week a year proposition !

The Dominion Fire Prevention Association in co-operation with provincial fire marshals, local fire chiefs, insurance organizations and other organizations of national scope is constantly working in the furtherance of the aims of Fire Prevention. Are you doing your part?

● Nowadays it is the popular thing to talk about a floor or a ceiling in prices, wages, etc. Our Canadian Government has been more modern and more enterprising. They have put in an elevator to take the rewards for industry and labor up—controlled, yes, but moving up and both starting on a higher floor than agriculture. For agriculture, which was in the depression basement in the fall of 1939 and had been there for ten years, not only did they not provide an elevator, but they actually took the stairs away. And, as Professor McDougall of Queen's University said in an article in the Canadian bankers journal, it appeared then to farm people as if they were threatened with a permanent subjection to an inferior economic position.

What Others Say

It is to be hoped that Reconsecration Week pans out better than the circus stunt of having a motorcycle rider race into towns to deliver Canada's "Call to Arms" to be read by the mayors and reeves of the different places to the great open spaces in the market squares and villages parks.—Trenton Courier-Advocate.

WHY DO THEY DO IT

Editor Eddie Johnston of the Fort Erie Times-Review asks a question which has often puzzled us. "Why, whenever she sits, does a girl try to pull her skirt down over her knees when she knows darn well that it is too short to cover them?"
—Midland Free Press)

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Reading the advertisements in the daily newspapers, one is struck by the apparent shortage of school teachers throughout the province. Many schools still remain closed while in other cases, temporary substitutes have been secured. In some cases former teachers, now married, have stepped into the breach to assist until permanent appointments are made. A few years ago, there was no such dearth of Public School teachers but school boards gardually reduced salaries until there was no inducement for a student leaving High School to enter Normal. Now these same boards are facing a critical situation and education is bound to suffer as a result.—Tweed News.

AGAINST THE GERMAN PEOPLE

When are we Americans and British going to get it through our heads that we are fighting a war against the German people? That is what an American friend of ours asked us.

In the last war, he said, we kept repeating that we were not fighting against the German people, but against the Kaiser and the Junkers.

Well, we beat the Kaiser and look what we have now. We have the Nazis, who are far worse than the Kaiser ever thought of being.

There would never have been a Kaiser and there would not be a Hitler, if the German people did not want leaders of that sort. They have assumed power because the German people are sufficiently behind Hitler to support him in this war, the sooner we will know that we have to wage ruthless war to win.—Windsor Daily Star.

"THE FUTILITY OF IT ALL"

With word of the ordered destruction of the gigantic Dnieper dam in the Soviet, the complete idiocy which must have motivated an aggressive Reich to world conflict again stands stark before us. In England and across Europe it was bad enough that cultured traditions should be blasted with the crumbled walls and towers of library and cathedral. Now the efforts of a struggling, self-improving people are being blown to nought. Years have been spent in making paupered parts of the world livable. When the smoke has cleared all that must be accomplished once more. It is as if our own Canadian churches, our cities and our universities, our canals, our hydro plants and our factories were pulverized, and we were cast upon the land as our pioneer forefathers were. That is the futility of it.—Galt Reporter.

BLEEDING THE TOWN

Business men condemn the farmers who takes everything from his land and gives nothing in return in the way of fertilizer, but that kind of farmer is on a par with the business man who does not contribute anything to his community's welfare or improvement. There are some men who say that they haven't the time to take part in community activities. They earn their living in the town, grab every nickle they can get their hands on but give nothing in return for the livelihood except criticism of others who are endeavoring to accomplish something that will make the town better and more prosperous. There is no one who is too busy to do his duty towards his community. Look about you and you will find the man who is doing the most in local projects is the man whose own business keeps him on the go all the time. If Amhertsburg is to flourish every person who is earning a livelihood here should identify himself with some local organization and work for the improvement of the town. Don't be like the farmer who bleeds his land.—Amhertsburg Echo.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPER COVERS TERRITORY

Some people seem to have the impression that the weekly newspaper doesn't cover the territory it serves in comparison to other media, such as dailies, magazines, etc. Recently the extension department of the University of Alberta made a survey through their youth training schools of the situation existing in that province. Questionnaries were sent out and it was revealed that in the house-holds the weekly newspaper held a decidedly strong lead over other kinds of publications. The survey revealed: 76.2 per cent get the local weekly newspaper; 34.5 get a daily newspaper 21 per cent get a farm paper; 27 per cent get other periodicals. When a community or district has a substantially good weekly newspaper that concentrates on giving services people are entitled to, there is no doubt that advertisers can safely choose it as the medium to reach the people. —Simcoe Reformer.

TWO YEARS TOO LATE

"Now that Berlin and other parts of Germany are getting a taste of total air war as a result of the combined attacks of the Royal and Russian air forces, an official Nazi spokesman pleads for "really humane warfare."

"The Nazis should have thought of that before they laid waste Warsaw in September, 1939; before they wantonly destroyed half of Rotterdam in May, 1940, and before they began their ruthless air assaults on London, Coventry, Plymouth, Liverpool, and other British cities a year ago, in which more than 40,000 civilians have been killed to date.

"Nazi hypocrisy reaches new heights in this plea for 'humane warfare', which also reveals that Nazi leaders feel the Germans can't take it," says The New York World-Telegram.

London Convalesces

By DIANA FORBES-ROBERTSON

"What is the first thing a woman does after a bombing?" I was asked this by a woman at La Guardia airport almost the very minute after I arrived from London.

"She has her hair fixed, and buys flowers," I replied.

This may seem a frivolous answer, but unless death and destruction have actually come to your own family and home, it may be difficult to realize how true this is in its broad sense. You do something small, ordinary and reassuring.

The kind of questions that people have asked me have so often been about the small details of life in London in war-time. Everyone is familiar now with the essential facts of war life, whether they have been experienced or not—the organization of Air Raid Precautions, the Fire Brigade, the shelters; the fundamental feelings that everyone has of fear, of being able to get through it all in spite of fear, the determination to win.

A Bit Shaky—But!

But what happens after you have been bombed? If you have money you spend the rest of the night at a hotel, or you may go to a friend's house, and sit talking rather shakily, probably drinking tea or quaffing a stiff drink. If you have "nowhere" to go there is the nearest rest-centre, usually an old school, and there you can have a bed and a meal, and can get medical attention if you need it. And when you are rested the billeting officer comes to take particulars, and to find you a temporary home in someone's house. My, how friendly people are!

Telephones and telegraphs are usually affected in a bombing, sometimes only in limited localities, so that one exchange in London may be able to telephone to another far off, but not to the neighboring area. It all depends upon what has been hit, and where. Families implore each other to communicate immediately after a bombing—"you know how I worry dear"—although the government asks you to leave the wires free of personal messages. Often telegraphing is an impossibility anyway.

The Doughty Housewife

Life in a London house or flat is very complicated nowadays, and many people have moved to hotels. To organize your food problems intelligently for the week it is necessary to have patience and some ingenuity. The morning is spent going from shop to shop, getting in one place what you couldn't get in the one before. You are registered with one specific dealer for meat, sugar, butter, bacon, etc.—and all the other rationed foods—unless you have a travellers' ration book, which enables you to shop at any store, but you can only get this by proving that it is necessary for your work or travel from place to place.

Apart from the problem of food the housewife has difficulties getting domestic help, as essential industries are calling up all the able-bodied women who register, and most girls are eager to be working more actively for defence. And the morning after a bombing when, perhaps, the gas-mains have been hit, and the water-mains as well, and the lights have gone, and there is glass all over the house and dust in everything, and the telephone won't work, and the milk is late because the dairy has been bombed—then, there is no more discouraging job than a housewife's!

Hotel life is, of course, easier; for the guests, that is, not for the management. Some of the big hotels like the Savoy and the Dorchester are doing a more energetic business than ever before, especially those that have a steel and concrete construction. Food is plentiful but if you examine the menu, which at first sight looks incredibly lavish, you see that disguised under beautiful names you have almost entirely unrationed foods, and very little meat. Included in unrationed foods are game. liver, sea foods, sausage meat.

Pressing—and Depressing

In all its small details life is more complicated. Laundries and dry cleaners take much longer, and sometimes the shortage of chemicals for cleaning produces some depressing results in a favorite dress. Transport in all forms is curtailed, there are fewer trains running and they are fuller and slower. When you arrive at the station the porters are very scarce, and very, very, old. But don't let any one of these oldsters think that you think he's decrepit!

The buses and underground seem normal, but they are enormously reduced in number. The thinning out of people in London has reduced the crowds that want to use them. Taxis during the daytime are plentiful, but at night in the mysterious blackout the melancholy cry of "Taxi" "Taxi" can be heard—often hopelessly—up and down the streets of the West End. Too often your plaintive cry is greeted with a derisive chuckle by those who have decided to walk it, and feel so superior.

London has changed a lot in appearance. I had read every account of destruction by bombing before I got there a few months ago, but having been born and brought up there I suppose the picture of London as I had known it for so long was too indelibly printed to allow me to imagine completely what it would look like after the months of last winter's bombings. It was a shock to see familiar streets showing big holes where shops that were like old friends had once stood.

A Vision of Delight

There are oh! so many changes, not only in the physical appearance of London, but in habits and costumes of people. Women these days are dressed usually in suits, and seldom wear hats, but sometimes a lovely apparition in full peace-time regalia of flower hat and veil and little tiptoeing heels is seen tripping through the West End, and people turn and look half in pleasure and half in dislike. There are, of course, many uniforms in the streets, and among them soldiers of the Allied forces in uniforms quickly becoming more familiar are very prominent and usually receive smiles and half glances of recognition wherever they go.

But the main thing that you notice about the look of London after you have got used to the results of bombing—if you ever do get used to them—is the emptiness. There are none of those enormous, hooting jams of buses and taxis and cars that used to make you late for appointments. There are not the pushing crowds along the busy shopping streets. People are either too busy, or they have gone away. And that is the essential about war-time Londoners now.

You are either working as you have never worked before, or you are not there.

SALES OF NON-INTEREST BEARING GOV'T BONDS

Sales of Non-Interest Bearing Certificates of the Dominion of Canada in August reached a total of $137,548, bringing aggregate sales up to August 31 to $7,153,363, the Bank of Canada announces on behalf of the Minister of Finance.

Purchases of the Non-Interest Bearing Certificates are made through Post Offices, branch Banks or through any agency of the Bank of Canada, and, inasmuch as the money is being loaned to the Government free of interest, no commissions are paid on sales.

Of the 99 purchasers of Series "A" Certificates, from which the proceeds are devoted to prosecution of the war effort, 92 were previous subscribers. During August there were 244 applications for the Series "B" Certificates. Proceeds of the latter issue are devoted to the relief of suffering due to war.

What keeps a man small is the habit of looking for easy things. Handle the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are pleasures.

Failure sits on the doorstep of the man who hates what he has to do.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

STARTING THE LAYING PULLETS

Pullets should not be allowed to mature and lay on range. A practical method of avoiding this is to bring into the laying house about one-half of your range stock, being those birds which are the largest and most mature. In doing this the best of the flock are introduced to their laying quarters under the best possible conditions. This ensures that the birds will not be crowded and those that are about ready to lay become accustomed to the nests and do not lay on the floor, says G. C. Hodgson, Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Uncrowded birds adapt themselves more quickly to the new system of care and management with the result that feather picking and cannibalism are reduced to a minimum. When the rest of the flock is brought indoors every effort should be made to give them similar treatment but if such is not possible you will find that when these birds are mixed with the rest they will settle into their new conditions with little disturbance. Always keep your pullets and old hens separated.

An abundance of green feed is particularly important for newly housed pullets. Alfalfa hay or the green feed that they have been consuming on range, placed in the laying house, will more closely stimulate their recent range conditions and prevent a sudden change of diet. This avoids major nutritional disturbances which, in the hen, are often hard to correct without loss or delay in egg production. Another method is to provide clean fenced runs at the front or back of your hen house to which the pullets have access for a month or so after being brought from range.

If cannibalism breaks out pine tar should be immediately applied to the affected parts. Thee birds that are doing the picking should be watched closely and if other methods fail pick guards may be applied.

Constant attention to the flock is important when starting laying pullets. They cannot be handled like old hens. Even if it means practically living with your birds for two or three weeks after they are brought indoors, watch and look after them carefully. The time and effort spent in this regard will be paid for in more eggs and healthier flock. Starting with the very first evening that your pullets are moved to their winter quarters be sure to visit them just at dusk or when they have gone to roost. Many birds will be huddled together on the floor. without causing any excitement place these pullets up on the roosts. Continue this practice every evening until all birds roost without your help. Only preseverance will accomplish this end, but it is very important.

The use of artificial lights for poultry has long been a much argued question. The general con consesus at the present time is that the standard of the hen's day to thirteen hours from October to March is beneficial to egg production. Where electricity is available and not too expensive it is the safest and most practical way of lighting the laying house.

The feeding of pullets deserves particular attention because on this depends their production. Far too many pullets lay a short while and then stop. Even on a poor ration the natural urge to lay caused by the onset of sexual maturity will cause young pullets to go into production for a month or six weeks. To maintain a continuous flow of eggs over many months the feeding of the best possible ration right from the start is essential. There are many excellent commercial feeds on the market. As a rule such feeds have an advantage over home mixed rations in that they contain a greater variety of essential nutrients and are more thoroughly mixed.

A good ration usually includes hard grain, mash, green feeds, cod liver or other suitable feeding oil, limestone or oyster shell and milk or water. A home mixed laying mash may be made up of the following ingredients:—corn or barley meal 100; wheat bran 125; wheat middlings 100; ground oats 65; alfalfa meal 25; meat meal (55 per cent protein) 50; milk powder 25; ground oyster shell or limestone 10; cod liver oil 5; commop salt 3. Keeping in mind that 100 hens will eat a total of approximately 25 lb. of feed per day, it is suggested that 13 lb. of this mash and 12 lb. of scratch grain be allowed daily for every 100 birds kept.

The above mash formula can be altered in many ways to fit individual circumstances. If skim milk or buttermilk are being fed the amount of milk powder used can be greatly reduced. The important thing to remember is that favourable results can be obtained from many different rations as long as the essential nutrients are properly provided.

STORE VEGETABLES FOR USE IN WINTER

Many housewives who in past years have purchased large quantities of imported vegetables during the winter months, will be storing home-grown Ontario vegetables this fall from both patriotic and pocketbook motives.

Here is some good advice on the storing of vegetables by George Rush, vegetable specialist, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Onions must be kept in a dry atmosphere at a temperature from 40 to 50 degrees. They will remain firm if kept dry. Good winter keepers for cooking are Yellow Globe, Danver and Red Weatherfield. For eating raw, the Spanish varieties, Riverside Sweet Valencia, and Prizetaker are excellent.

Squash are plentiful. For storage, they should be mature, having a hard shell, and like onions, kept in a dry place at a temperature of 45 degrees. Warted Hubbard, Green Hubbard or Blue Hubbard are good keepers. Small varieties are excellent in flavor but do not keep so well. Mr. Rush advises each squash be wrapped in two folds of paper. Vegetable narrows and pumpkin may also be stored this way, but do not keep as long as squash.

Roots, such as parsnips, beets, carrots, salsify, should not be washed when storing, but brushed with a soft brush if there is much dirt on them. They can be stored, if in small quantities, in tightly closed earthern containers to keep out warm air. The temperature is best at 33 degrees (just above freezing.) Warm and moist air causes growth, and heat will shrivel the roots.

Do not hang up cabbage unless the temperature is close to freezing, as moisture in the cabbage will either cause growth at the stem, and heat will dry the leaves. Danish Ball Head and Penn State Head are the best winter storing varieties. All roots including turnips can be kept fresh and tender at temperatures just above freezing.

GRADING AND SHIPPING LIVE MARKET POULTRY

In the marketing of live poultry, there are two important factors, namely, the grading of the birds at the shipping point, and the care given in shipping to avoid shrinkage, loss through overcrowding, suffocation, and bruising in the crates. Shrinkage of the birds which is caused mainly through improper care has an important bearing on the success of live poultry shipments, and in the prevention of overcrowding it is to be remembered that a fowl smothers very easily. These and other questions, such as grading live birds, sorting by weight for shipment, the manner of crating, the dimensions of coops, feeding and watering, and other rules for shipping live poultry are given in detail in "Grading and Shipping Live Poultry", a bulletin obtainable from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SUGGESTED GRADES FOR LIVE POULTRY

As in dressed poultry, a premium is paid for well-fleshed, fattened birds. Although it is more difficult to determine the fine degree of finish in live birds than in dressed poultry, it is possible to grade live fowl with sufficient accuracy to meet market requirements, establish a basis for trading and facilitate business to the benefit of the buyer and the profit of the producer. Based on current market demand, the following are suggested grades for live poultry.

Grade "A"—Birds in good health, well-fleshed and fattened on back, hips, and pin bones, in full feather, and without crooked breast bones or other physical deformities, and noticeable flesh discolorations from any cause.

Grade "B"—Reasonably well fleshed birds in good health; slightly crooked breast bones or deformities, slight traces of pin feathers, or slight discoloration permitted.

Grade "C"—Birds not qualifying for Grades "A" and "B"—Grading and Shipping Live Poultry, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Explained

"Oh, what a strange cow!" exclaimed the short-sighted old lady. "But why hasn't it any horns?"

"It's this way," replied the farmer patiently. "Some cows is born with out horns and never has any. Some sheds theirs, and some we de-horn. There's a lot of reasons why some cows don't have horns, but the big reason that cow ain't got horns is because it ain't a cow—it's a horse!"

OTTAWA

By Dean Wilson

Active Associate of British and Canadian Navies.

It is held in usually well-informed circles on Parliament Hill that the new order of President Roosevelt to "shoot first" whenever and wherever the American Navy encounters enemy ships of war means the United States convoying of all ships engaged in carrying supplies from Canadian ports to the British Isles. At least, this service will be rendered as far as Iceland, and there is little doubt that it will release many Canadian and British ships of war from this protective service for other duties in various spheres. It appears now that the enemy will meet almost certain defeat in the vital "Battle of the Atlantic."

Unpublicized Intensification of Canada's Operations.

Although it cannot possibly be properly publicized, yet there is a feeling in the capital that the Canadian raid upon the Spitzbergen was only the beginning of such activities on the part of the Canadian forces, emphasizing that the armed forces of Canada can be used by the British War Office where and when they are needed. This has been hinted in a general manner by a recent statement on the part of General Brown, Adjutant General, who stated in part. "When the time of battle comes——it may not be long delayed—our troops will weigh heavily in the scales of victory."

Trade License is only start

When the announcement was made in Ottawa that the whole food and clothing business was placed under the license system, it was only a start in this direction on the part of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. In fact, it is presumed along Parliament Hill that the Licensing and restrictions of essential and non-essential articles will undergo a great change soon, with the field being much wider and including many more articles, trades, services, etc. By this method it will be possible to locate and to locate and to control all goods, services and prices so that the cost of living may not be skyrocketed, especially since there are definite symptoms now that in face of all official actions yet this cost of living rate has risen over 12 per cent and inflation has arrived whether the Government wants it or not. In other words, it is intimated in Ottawa that widespread actions may have to be taken soon in this direction to curb this tendency.

Canada's Lead Being Followed by Whole Hemisphere.

It must be reported at this time by this veteran observer that war censorship is absolutely essential and that it does good work, but the absence of real information about certain activities or events on Parliament Hill often makes out to be much more mysterious the objects of news suppression than they are in reality, with this being particularly applicable to the latest sensational and history-making conferences, events and alignments in the Western Hemisphere against the enemies of the forces of freedom, though Canada's actual role in this development will not likely be known until the war is over. It is not self-serving propaganda to make known that the Churchill-Roosevelt and Churchill-Mackenzie King conferences as well as declarations, together with the propagation of subsequent events in startling rapidity, were links in a great chain binding all the forces of freedom in the Old and New World and it is bringing about an implicit and sensationally militant attitude on the part of the whole Western Hemisphere against the enemies of the democracies. This is the big story in the capital, even if it does not receive its due recognition in the headlines. This is a big story that should inspire and strengthen all Canadians to double and to re-double every war effort in order to bring about as soon as possible the total destruction of the enemy forces.

Restrictions Are Accepted by Tourists

Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, tourists have been accepting the necessary restrictions on the sale of gasoline in the evenings and over the week-end, though at first this ruling appeared to bring on resentment on the part of some tourists from the United States. This means that this ruling will cause no great handicap to the tourist trade because they will not be able to drive about as freely as they wished, particularly since similar restrictions exist in certain sections of the United States.

Instalment Buying to Avoid Dislocations.

A close study is being made of instalment buying throughout Canada. This has become known in Ottawa where it is emphasized that this enquiry is being made not with a view towards creating sudden and drastic restrictive policies but rather with the objective of properly stabilising credit structures in Canada. It is estimated that instalment buying involves no more than about 12 per cent of the total retail trade of this country.

A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE

The aurora borealis played tag across the sky Thursday evening in a brilliant display that dominated the heavens from the northern horizon to far beyond the zenith. It was an unusual spectacle and was visible as far south as Boston, Mass., and other parts of the States where teletype communications had interference.

TO PAY YOUR 1941

Income Tax

on the Government Monthly Plan

You must start at once!

Next Tuesday will be the last opportunity to pay your 1941 Income Tax on the Government Monthly Plan. This gives you the privilege of paying in twelve monthly installments without interest, instead of by lump sum in March, 1942.

Here is how to get the monthly payment privilege! Divide the total of your 1940 Income Tax by twelve. This is your first payment — and must be paid to the Receiver General on or before September 30, 1941. You will then pay the same amount before the end of each month for the balance of 1941. When you have estimated your 1941 income tax at the 1941 rate, you will deduct the four payments you will have already made, and pay the remainder in eight equal monthly installments, starting January, 1942.

The Government offers the above plan as the most reasonable and convenient method of meeting income tax obligations. Ask your local Income Tax Office for Installment Income Tax Remittance Form — and any further information you may require.

C. W. G. GIBSON, Minister of National Revenue

C. F. ELLIOTT, Commissioner of Income Tax

Canada At War

By B. M. P.

"THE ARMY"

(Article No. 2)

The tour of Eastern Canada arranged by the Department of National Defence for Canadian editors, while covering every branch of Canada's war enterprise, concentrated especially on the Army.

We visited the Basic Training Centre at Brantford, the Army Trades School at Hamilton, the General Motors proving ground for army vehicles near Oshawa, the great military encampments and Advanced Training Centres at Camp Borden, Petawawa, Valcartier and Debert, and the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville.

We saw the raw recruit with only a few days' training in army life behind him and the young soldier-student being taught the art of a skilled tradesman. We were impressed with the fact that the classroom plays fully as important part in this war as does the drill-hall and the rifle-range, while the great army of instructors are performing a service as vital as that of officers on the battle-field. Later we came to the more advanced trainees engaged in rifle drill, machine-gun tactics, mortar firing demonstrations and manoeuvres, going through their paces with machine-like precision. We were given every opportunity to talk with officers and men. Almost without exception we found them keenly interested in their work and eager to get on with the job of mastering the complicated arms and machines placed at their disposal.

Canadian Blitz

Above all, we were amazed at the tremendous hitting-power of the modern mechanized and swiftly-moving army. We had a preview of Canada's new war machines at the General Motors' proving ground in the wilds of Eastern Ontario, where speedy blitz buggies vied with tracked or armoured fighting vehicles and troop or load carrying utility trucks for the honour of climbing the steepest hill or travelling over the roughest ground. Down the side of precipitous slopes, through deep gullies and over sharp projections in the landscape went the bouncing, bounding vehicles, surmounting every difficulty with apparent ease. It was not so easy on the drivers and crews, as some editors found to their sorrow when they essayed a ride in one of the new fighting machines. But it was a revelation of the progress made by Canada's motor industry in meeting the demands of modern war.

The Armoured Corps

At Camp Borden we witnessed another demonstration of the mechanical prowness of Canada's army when we watched a motor company swing into action with its motorcycles, reconnaissance cars, universal carriers and utility trucks. Their skill is occupying a position and their apparent wealth of firepower were a revelation. At the same camp we viewed an impressive platoon attack on an 'enemy' position, with machine guns and rifles covering the advance with a hail of metal and with smoke bombs providing a screen for the attack. At Borden is located the 5th Canadian (Armoured) Division under Major-General E. W. Sansom, D.S.O., who accompanied us on our tour of the camp. For training purposes a number of old United States tanks had been obtained and these were greatly in evidence during the afternoon. They have proved most useful in training personel in driving and maintenance. With Canada's newly-equipped tank factories speeding up production, it will not be long before Canadian-made modern tanks will be available for this division.

Camp Petawawa

Camp Petawawa was famous in the last war for turning out some of the best artillerymen and engineers found in any army. It is fitting that in these days of mechanical warfare, Petawawa should again be the locale for training of Canada's artillery and engineering corps. The editors were treated to an astonishing display of gun drill by the young artillerymen, both on the 18-pounder and the new 25-pounder, which will soon be the standard equipment. A firing demonstration by two batteries of howitzers and 18-pounders out on the ranges indicated that the Canadian gunners have lost none of the skill and accuracy possessed by their forebears. The engineers gave an effective show in demolishing trees and a crossroads with high explosive, while a booby-trap comedy-drama proved a masterpiece.

Camp Debert

An entire article could be devoted to that other great military camp at Debert in Nova Scotia. A year ago a wilderness, today a veritable city with 30 miles of roadways, 422 permanent and 82 temporary buildings, plus fire stations, banks, telegraph offices and all the other requirements of a great army. It is recorded that authority was granted to construct Camp Debert on Aug. 7th, 1940. The first battalion moved in the latter part of October and by Christmas there were 12,000 men housed in the camp. The forest had been cleared, roads built, water and power systems installed, and buildings erected, an achievement that constitutes a miracle of engineering and stands as a tribute to the enterprise and efficiency of the Engineer Services Branch of the Canadian Army. The editors' party were at Debert for only two or three hours, but in that time were treated to several remarkable demonstrations. We watched with amazement as Universal carriers crashed through the sturdy saplings of Nova Scotia forests with evident ease; we saw the most skillful use of camouflage by troops in tactical exercise, so deceiving indeed that it was impossible to detect men in the open only fifty yards distant; and we witnessed Bren gun, 3-inch mortar, and artillery firing that again testified to the hitting strength of this new army in the making.

The Training Plan

Brigadier Kenneth Stuart, D.S.O., M.C., Vice Chief of the General Staff, who recently flew back from Britain after several weeks of conference and study with British and Canadian military men there, told the editors that the Army Training Plan was devised to with British requirements. Moreover Canadian troops now in Britain were organized and equipped in accord with British practice. Canadian officers were constantly being brought back from Britain for instructional purposes and to head up new formations. He compared the general scheme of re-inforcement training in Canada with the widely-publicized Commonwealth Air Training Plan and declared that the training centres would provide training capacity for a maximum of nearly 50,000 men at any one time. This is apart altogther from the "formations" already in existence for overseas service. The system would absorb about 10,000 recruits per month, of whom perhaps 6,000 would be volunteers for active service anywhere and the remaining 4,000 would be secured under the N. R.M.A. plan of compulsory service for home defence.

From the advanced centres were procured the reinforcements for overseas, while others would go to their own units for further training. Brigadier Stuart expressed himself as well satisfied with the type of recruits being secured under the system and likewise with the fact that a large percentage of young men brought into the basic training centres under the N.R.M.A. were volunteering for active service anywhere.

Basic Training Centre

Canadian editors had a chance to see the plan in operation during the tour. At Brantford Basic Training Centre they saw recruits in the preliminary stages of their training. The lads remain there for two months and receive instruction in first aid, rifle and bayonet, squad drill, protection against gas, anti-aircraft rifle and light machine gun, firing on the range, fieldcraft and map-reading. There are 28 such centres across Canada. The Brantford Centre has about 1,000 recruits at one time. From such centres the recruits go to the Advanced Training Centre for their particular arm or service, such as infantry, artillery, engineers, armored corps, machine gun, army service corps, etc., where they are trained intensively for two months in the use of arms and vehicles peculiar to their service. In the case of infantry, for instance, they are instructed in Bren gun, 3-inch mortar, Tommp gun, grenade, rifle, bayonet and revolver, protection against gas, driving of wheeled and tracked vehicles as well as in tactical exercises. There are 26 of these advanced training centres across Canada. The editors saw them in action at Camp Borden, Petawawa and Valcartier.

Army Trades School

Meanwhile another vitally important role in moulding Canada's new army is being carried out at the Army Trades School in Hamilton, where soldier-students learn the trades associated with mechanized equipment. An entirely new development of this war, this school is but one phase of the huge trades-training program aimed at providing skilled and semi-skilled tradesmen for the Canadian Army, which is now completely motorized and which has armoured regiments and tank battalions as its striking weapons. For example, all students at the Army Trades Schools first attended one of the 99 Canadian Technical Schools. They were also first trained in the fundamentals of soldiering at a Basic Training Centre. At present there are about 1,300 students at the Hamilton school with an ultimate capacity of 2,000. Their periods of instruction range from three to five months, repending on the character of their trade. These lads will become artillery artificers, carpenters and joiners, electricians, engine artificers, motor vehicle fitters, instrument and wireless mechanics. These are only a few of the 150 types of tradesmen in the modern army. A large staff of instructors is required for the four main departments, which are: Automotive, Electrical, Machine and Fitting, and Carpentry. In addition there are acilities for draughting, blacksmithing, welding and sheet metal work.

Officers' Training Centre

What about Junior Officers (subalterns) for the Canadian Army, of which it is estimated that nearly 6,000 will be required in the next year? They will be provided through Officers' Training Centres established at Brockville, Ont., and Victoria, B.C. If the course of training seen by the editors' party at Brockville is any criterian, the Army's new officers will be fit in every way to meet any possible emergency. The course is a strenuous one and pre-eminently demands a high standard of physical fitness. For the first month of the three months' course, the potential officers undergo training common to all arms, including squad and rifle drill, protection against gas, route marches, motorcycle riding and trench digging. They then receive advance instruction in their particular arm. It is a strict rule now, a lesson from the last war, that officers must come up from the ranks. Candidates for commissions must have served either four months in an Active formation or for one year with a Reserve unit. They may then be recommended to go to Brockville by their Commanding Oficer. About 1,200 men are now in training at Brockville, with one-third of that number being graduated each month.

Study the Keynote

Such is the gigantic training scheme for Canada's new army, now in full operation across the far-flung Dominion. We have described only what we found in Eastern Canada. Its counterpart will be found in the West as well. There is no gainsaying the fact that the complicated arms and machines of modern war require close application and concentrated study. The old days of constand squad and rifle drill and route marches are gone. During our whole tour we saw only one band. There is little time for music in this war. It is study, study, day and night. Canada's army is being whipped into shape by long, hard hours of grinding on the part of instructors and pupils.

Naturally it tends to become monotonous and grousing is inevitable, but in the course of many talks with both officers and men, we heard few serious complaints other than the expression of a general desire to be on the way overseas. Month after month at Borden, Petawawa and Debert tend to become tiresome, to put it mildly. It was the same at Valcartier where the French-Canadians were chafing at inaction and anxious to be on their way. They realize, however, that their hour will come and when it does, they will be thoroughly trained and supremely prepared to strike and strike hard. As Canada's army training plan swings into high gear, we may look forward confidently to possessing a powerful machine that will gloriously uphold the traditions of 1914-18.

(Next week's article will deal with "The Munitions Industry.")

"What do you mean?" roared the politician, "by publicity insulting me in your old rag of a paper. I will not stand for it and I demand an immediate apology."

"Just a moment," answered the editor. "Didn't the news item appear exactly as you gave it to us, namely, that you have resigned as city treasurer?"

"It did, but where did you put it? —in the column under the heading 'Public Improvements'."

- THE WEEKLY NEWS -

BY MURDIE McDONALD

It is altogether probable that Legislation amending the General Sessions Act will be enacted at the next session of the Ontario Legislature, in respect to the calling of juries. At present the Grand Jury and the Petit Jury are called for opening day of the General Sessions. This means that a whole raft of petit jurors must hang around twiddling their thumbs to await the decisions of the grand jurors. As everyone knows the Grand Jury meets in camera to decide whether true bills shall be found in the cases set for trial upon which the Petit Jury will be asked to pass judgment. It is suggested the Petit Jury be not called until 6 days after the Grand Jury has been in session and completed its work. Attorney General Conant admits there is much merit in the recommendation as in addition to reducing the expense it would avoid inconveniencing jury men and witnesses.

With the strike fever in the air the Federal Government was obliged to drop anything like a laissez faire attitude and it is to be hoped the new Order-In-Council designed to avert stoppages in war industries will prove effective. While acceptance of the findings of the Board of Conciliation has not been made mandatory in future strikes action cannot be taken legally unless approved by a majority vote of all workers concerned held in secret under the direction of the Department of Labour instead of Union officials. This should do away with anything in the nature of intimidation and men willing and anxious to work will have an opportunity of expressing their opinion without fear of reprisals. There are two union elements in Canada which might be said to be at daggers drawn one against the other, the A. F. of L. and the C.I.O. The trouble for the most part in Ontario has come from affiliates of the C.I.O. W. T. Burford, Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Federation of Labour, regards the new Order-in-Council as a half way measure. "The first mistake", he declares, "was that the Government sought to appease the C.I.O. and that was like trying to appease Hitler. As long as the C.I.O. operates it is bound to keep industry in a state of turmoil. It cannot otherwise exist. The way to industrial peace is to bar the C.I.O. and all foreign labour organizations just as they are barred from Mexico. Then there will not be any need for Governmental restraints. Unions will truly express the sentiment of the workers who left to themselves would gladly subordinate all their grievances to the real job or war production." It will be recalled that the labour officer of the Campbell Soup Company declared that concern would not deal with C. I. O. as they would not abide by their agreements.

In many parts of Ontario there is a brisk demand for houses and the only check on an outstanding building boom is the difficulty experienced in obtaining building materials coupled with the pronounced shortage of labour. The war, which has been a contributing factor in need for new homes, is also a stumbling block in their erection. The Government has commandered huge stocks or building supplies for the requirements of military camps and war industrial plants while enlistments and the need for workers in manufacturing war equipment has depleted the ranks of ordinary labour. Any one following the newspapers these days will be impressed with the increase in marriages without the need of recourse to vital statistics. The people seem to have the money to acquire homes and all this is creating a building boom of no mean proportions.

There are a good many people in Ontario who believe that Premier Hepburn is no better than he ought to be but the fact that he has accepted the challenge of the Saints and Sinners club of New York to become a member of that organization has raised hopes in the ranks of his friends that he may be bracketed in the former category. In any event when asked if we was willing to undergo the full initiation he wired back to the officers of the Club that they could go ahead and give him the works. Before leaving on this perhaps eventful expedition Premier Hepburn has announced definitely that there will be no provincial election in Ontario this year. Ontario will go to the polls next year at the conclusion of the Governments five-year-term unless the Conservative opposition agrees to prolong its present life because of the war.

SPECIAL CLASS FOR GIRLS AT INTERNATIONAL MATCH

Directors of the International Plowing Match—the largest plowing match in the world—in recognition of the fact that farm boys and girls are playing and must play an ever increasingly important role in crop production as the supply of capable farm help dwindles, have added two new tractor classes this year, one for boys, and for the first time in the history of the match, one for girls.

Girls over thirteen and under eighteen years of age, may plow with any make of tractor. The first prize is a $40.00 gold wrist watch, second prize is a radio; third, skates and boots and fourth prize $5 in cash.

Boys over eleven years of age and under sixteen may also plow with any make of tractor. The prizes are the same as for the girls, but the winning boy will receive a pocket watch instead of a wrist watch.

The directors of the Match also decided to raise the standard of competition at this year's Match being held at Peterboough, October 14, 15, 16 and 17. Competition will be open only to winners of county or local matches. This rule will not apply however to what is known as "Local Day" classes open to plowmen of Peterborough, and adjoining counties and to the four junior classes.

Plowing this year will also be more on a farm condition basis and special attention of plowmen is being drawn to rule five under rules and regulations. It states "Skimmers should be used in all classes. No cut allowed after first round, on coulter or share of any plow. Scratches will not be permitted in tractor classes."

Applications for space in the "Tented City" continue to pour into the office of the secretary-manager of the plowing match, J. A. Carrol, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. War-time farm demonstrations are being prepared by the Ontario Agricultural College and Federal Dept. of Agriculture among others. It promises to be the most educational of all International Matches since their beginning in 1913.

ALBERT SPARKS COMMITTED ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Albert Sparks, of Madoc, and who was arrested following a fatal motor accident near Tweed two weeks ago, was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter, before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd on Saturday. The charge was preferred after John Hotts, Hungerford farmer, was instantly killed when struck on the highway by a motor car said to have been driven by Sparks. "A cow being driven along the road by Hotts at the time was dragged 210 feet from the point of the impact," testified Chief J. C. Hayes, of Tweed, who added Spark's car proceeded a distance of 840 feet from the scene of the accident before it stopped.

"Sparks showed signs of intoxication.. He staggered slightly on the road and was very slow of speech," said Chief Hayes as he added the car had gone through a herd of cows being driven by Hotts and struck one of the animals. Levi Lajoie, Actinolite, an eyewitness to the fatality, stated in evidence he had been forced to swerve his car off the road to avoid a collision with Sparks.

At a previous hearing Dr. E. R. Frankish, legal medico expert for the Provincial Government who had analyzed a sample of blood taken from Sparks following the accident, stated "the blood contained more alcohol than the percentage figured for safe operation of a motor car."

Sparks was held in custody after being committed.

A Prayer

A crabbed bachelor and an aged spinster found themselves seated side by side at a concert. The selections were apparently unfamiliar to the man.

But when Mendelsohn's "Wedding March" was begun he pricked up his ears.

"That sounds familiar," he exclaimed. "I'm not very strong on clasical pieces, but that is very good. What is it?"

The spinster cast down her eyes. "That," she replied, demurely, "is the 'Maiden's Prayer'."

Not Her Style

Granny was lecturing her granddaughter on her selection of a dress, and, among other faults, told her it was much too short.

Getting fed-up, the girl protested: "But, granny, didn't you ever set your cap at a young man?"

"Perhaps I did," retorted the old lady, "but never my knee-cap."

We Hope So

He was reading the evening paper.

"What a debt we owe to medical science!" he said.

"Good gracious,' replied his wife. "Haven't you paid the doctor's bill yet?"

Always Lengthy

Bore: "Have I ever told you about the American in Paris?"

Victim: "Is it a long story?"

Bore: "No."

Victim: "Then you haven't."

Just Medicine

Smith was shocked to see the new maid shaking the port decanter vigorously.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed.

"Why are you doing that?"

"I'm very sorry, sir," she replied, "but I heard you tell the mistress that you only took port as a medicine."

Reverse

"Have you finished reading that murder story I lent you, dear?"

"Nearly. I've only got the beginning to finish."

Entered Into Rest

MRS. JOSEPH MEGGINSON

On Thursday, September 18th, after an illness of a few hours caused by burns, Mrs. Joseph Megginson entered into rest in her 62nd year at the Belleville Hospital. The news of her tragic passing was heard with deep regret and much sorrow was felt by her many friends and relatives.

Born in Seymour, Ontario, Estella Raine came with her husband to Bayside forty years ago. During that time she was actively connected with White's United Church. She was a good neighbor and an efficient leader in all church and community activities and was a member of the W.M. Society, the Woman's Association and Red Cross unit of the church. The members of the above societies attended her funeral in a body to pay their last tribute to her whom they all respected and esteemed.

The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 20th., from White's Church, and was largely attended, many coming from nearby places. There were many floral tributes testifying to the respect in which she was held by neighbors and friends. The service was conducted by her minister, Rev. W. E. Mercer, assisted by Rev. J. W. Flatt, of Belleville.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, one sister, Mrs. S. Chapel of Campbellford and one half-brother, George Prosser of Toronto.

Interment was at White's Cemetery.

MRS. NORA RUSHNELL STILL

Mrs. Nora Still, widow of Lloyd Still, died in the Providence Hospital, Detroit, Mich., on Friday last Sept. 12, after an illness of three week's duration.

The late Mrs. Still was born forty five years ago at West Huntingdon, her parents being Sarah Rushnell and the late Frank Rushnell. The early part of her life was passed in West Huntingdon, and before going to Detroit to make her home eighteen years ago, she resided in Oshawa. In religion she was a member of the Methodist Church in Detroit and was active in the work of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Surviving her are one son, Mr. Harold Still of Detroit, Mich.; her mother, Mrs. Sarah Rushnell, Watertown, N.Y., three brothers, Mr. Harry Rushnell, Watertown, N.Y., Mr. Lea Rushnell, Watertown, N.Y., and Mr. Reginald Rushnell, Adams' Center, N.Y., four sisters, Mrs. Jerry Still, Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Harlow Dixon, Watertown, N.Y., Miss Helen Rushnell, Watertown, N.Y., and Mrs. Harold Gardner, Foxboro. Her husband died in April of this year.

The funeral took place in Detroit, Mich., on Tuesday, Sept. 16th.

A Negro was charged with thief. His solicitor decided to put him in the witness-box. The magistrate being doubtful if he undertsood the nature of an oath, decided to examine him on the point.

"Jacky," he said "you know what will happen to you if you tell a lie?"

"My oath, boss," replied Jacky, "me go down below—burn long time."

"Quite right," replied the magistrate. "And do you know what will happen if you tell the truth?"

'Yes, boss. We lose 'em case."

SEABROOK - BROWN

St. Mark's Church beautifully decorated with gladioli, ferns and other autumn flowers, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 2 p.m., on Saturday, September 20th, when Iva Alberta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac A. Brown, became the bride of Robert Harold Seabrook, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Seabrook, of Havelock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, of Marmora.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John B. Brown was beautifully gowned in white georgette with long embroidered net veil caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, baby's breath and fern.

Mrs. John B. Brown as matron of honour, was attired in sky blue sheer with white picture hat. Her bouquet was Talisman roses, fern and autumn flowers.

The flower girl was little Barbara Brown, niece of the bride. She was gowned in pink sheer and carried a basket of pink roses and asters.

The groomsman was Mr. Don Seabrook, brother of the groom. Mr. Ray Grant, of Belleville and Sgt. Douglas Anderson, R.C.A.F., of Montreal, were ushers. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Leslie Rundle, organist of St. Paul's Church, Marmora. During the signing of the register, Mr. J. F. Baker sang "Cupid's Garden."

A reception was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of blue crepe with matching hat wearing a corsage of pink roses and ferns, assisted by the groom's mother dressed in wine crepe with matching hat.

Luncheon was served to about fifty guests. The waitresses were friends of the bride. The rooms were tastefully decorated in a colour scheme of pink and white, with a profusion of autumn flowers. The groom's gift to the bride was a silver tea service. The gift to the matron of honour was a silver flower container; to the best man a military brush set; to the soloist and ushers an ever-sharp pencil and to the flower girl a gold bracelet.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti on a honeymomon trip to Kingston and other Eastern points, the bride wearing a navy dress and accessories and beige coat. On their return they will reside in St. Catherines, Ont.

The out-of-town guests in attendance included Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moore and Mr. A. C. Weymark, of Peterboro; Mrs. Norman Moore, of Trenton; Mrs. Harry Doher, of Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Moore, of Springbrook; Mrs. Cecil Anderson, Mrs. M. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Cummins, Mr. Wm. Seabrook, of Havelock, and Mr. C. Caldwell, of Barrie.

Entered Into Rest

LATE MARY ELLEN NICOLSON

The funeral service of Mary Ellen Bush, wife of the late Samuel Nicolson, who died on Thursday, Sept. 18, after an illness of nearly three weeks' duration, was held at her late residence on the fourth concession of Sidney on Saturday afternoon at two-thirty p.m. The officiating minister, Rev. Mr. Lackey, spoke of the deceased as one who had passed through a beautiful autumn of life, she having reached the advanced age of nearly 91 years.

Interment was made in Frankford cemetery. The bearers were Mr. Geo. Burkitt, Mr. E. Hough, Mr. W. M. Welbourne, Mr. Earl Bonisteel, Mr. Jack Bleecker and Mr. Geo. Morrow.

The late Mrs. Nicolson lived until her marriage on the farm adjoining the one on which she has resided for the past fifty years. She was the last surviving member of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bush. On December 20th, 1882, she married Samuel Nicolson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nicolson, of Madoc. For a short time they resided in Murray Township. In 1932 Mr. and Mrs. Nicolson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Her husband pre-deceased her in May, 1934. In religion Mrs. Nicolson was a loyal supporter of Frankford United Church, having attended the services there a few weeks previous to her death. For many years she has been an honorary member of the Women's Association. In the community she was highly esteemed and her death brought sincere regret to her many acquaintances.

Surviving her are a family of five sons, Mr. Everett Nicolson and Mr. George Nicolson, Sidney, Mr. John A. Nicolson of Rosetown, Sask., Mr. Ross Nicolson at home and Mr. Ezra Nicolson of Stirling.
